U. S. DELEGATE DEFIES FRANCE TO QUIT PARLEY

Cox Has Showdown with Parisians.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 23.—A resolution was introduced in the chamber of deputies tonight proposing withdrawal of the French delegation from the world economic conference until stabilization of currencies is established in fact. The resolution was submitted by Rene Dommange, opposition deputy, and several colleagues. The resolution was expected to be opposed by the government.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—A warning to beware of propaganda was issued to the press of the world today by Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister and president of the world economic conference.

The occasion was a meeting of journalists called by MacDonald, who has become worried about inspired statements which have been floating around the conference that in view of the United States' attitude on currency stabilization the conference is about to adjourn, at least until the arrival of Prof. Raymond Moley and probably until the United States has made up its mind about the permanent value of the dollar.

Aimed at France.

MacDonald did not say so, but every one present knew that what he was aiming at was the French propaganda which has been very active along these lines in the conference lobbies.

THE TRIBUNE is now able to reveal that while James M. Cox, American chairman of the monetary and financial commission, brought the French into line yesterday and secured a promise from them that they would do nothing to sabotage the conference, they accepted with bad grace.

French officials and journalists were talking in the lobbies today about "Anglo-Saxon brutality," and Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, returned to Paris this afternoon to talk things over with Premier Daladier and the French cabinet. The brutality referred to was the methods of former Gov. Cox.

Hands France Ultimatum.

At a meeting yesterday morning with MacDonald the prime minister told Mr. Cox that he was gravely worried about the situation of the conference. The United States' delay in stating its position on temporary currency stabilization had upset the French, who were talking about going home, MacDonald said.

Mr. Cox asked for a room and corralled the French delegates. He laid before them the draft of the American statement issued later in the day, and when the French said they could not go on, THE TRIBUNE is informed, Mr. Cox told them they had better go home and stay home and the conference would get on with its work without them.

This so astonished the French that they told their journalists that everything was lovely and to halt their abuse of America. The journalists laid off in their papers, but not in their talk.

Says There's a "Little Hitch."

MacDonald explained to the world's newspaper representatives today that there had been a little hitch in the proceedings this week, but any talk of failure of the conference was "rubbish."

"It was just a little check," he said, "but I never felt there was very much in it. Those of you who know American conditions know very well that those conditions at the moment are very difficult in relation to the attempt to arrive at temporary stabilization.

"If the feeling grows abroad that no temporary accommodation can be reached on the matter of stabilization the danger is that other nations may begin to lose confidence. No such danger exists at the present moment. I say without reserve that the situation as left by the American note yesterday is not at all an uncertain or cloudy one. There is a suggestion abroad that we ought to adjourn now. A more foolish suggestion at this moment cannot be imagined."

One phase which has developed this week in all committees and subcommittees is close coöperation between the Americans, British and Germans. One delegate described the situation

ALDERMEN VOTE REDUCTION IN TAXICAB RATES

Two New Schedules Put Up to Council.

Chicago was virtually assured of lower taxicab fares yesterday by action of the city council taxicab subcommittee which set up two alternative rate schedules at a stormy meeting. The committee also recommended that the number of taxicab licenses be reduced from 5,050 to 4,000.

One of the rate schedules approved yesterday calls for a charge of 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each half mile thereafter. The other provides a rate of 15 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile, plus a charge of 10 cents each for extra passengers. Rates in effect now are 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile. A few independent cabs charge the "15 and 10" rate.

Council to Vote Wednesday.

The two rate schedules will be submitted to a full meeting of the council next Wednesday with the recommendation that one of them be adopted.

Besides acting on rates the taxicab committee voted to wipe out the present vehicle license bureau, now headed by Deputy Police Commissioner John Alcock, which has enjoyed wide powers in the regulation of taxis. During the last decade many charges of favoritism have been made against the bureau, which is made up of civil service employés not answerable to any authority in the municipal government. The bureau controls the licensing and rate charges of all taxicabs.

Plan New Commission.

The new taxi ordinance, which the committee has been drafting and which will contain whatever rate schedule the council adopts next Wednesday, provides for the creation of a new commission to administer the taxicab law. This commission is to be composed of the commissioner of police, the city controller and a third member to be chosen by the mayor.

The new rate schedules contemplate a reduction in the initial or "flagpull" charges only. Under the "20-10" schedule the first mile would cost passengers 10 cents less than under the present rate of 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each half mile thereafter. In practice this amounts to about 40 cents for the first mile.

Extra Passenger Schedule.

The alternate schedule provides a 15 cent reduction in the cost of the first mile, but the additional charge for extra passengers might make this rate more expensive than the present when there are several in the party. The aldermen said they had included the second rate schedule because records of the Yellow Taxicab company showed that on the average haul only 1.46 passengers were carried. Thus, the aldermen said, the average charge for extra passengers would amount to five cents.

Before the committee meeting adjourned the independent taxicab representatives were assured that they would be allowed 500 of the 4,000 licenses to be granted under the new ordinance. The few independents who now operate from cab stands are now charging 15 cents for the first one-third mile and five cents for each succeeding third mile. The new ordinance, however, provides that they must charge the same fares as the Yellow and Checker companies.

Power to License Cabs.

The public vehicle license commission, which the ordinance creates to administer the law, will have the sole power to license taxicabs. As soon as the ordinance is adopted the commission is expected to begin a study of the effect of the new rates on the financial condition of the various operating companies. If it finds that the rates are too low the commission will have the power to place their findings and recommendations for new rates before the council.

In voting to wipe out the present vehicle license bureau the committee followed a recommendation made by Mayor Kelly, who said that the old bureau was the sore spot in the present taxicab controversy. Charges that the old bureau had favored the monopoly enjoyed by the two large taxicab lines has often been made on the council floor. Last July 28 Attorney Lee Daniels, representing an independent group of taxicab operators, charged that the policemen in the bureau were selling insurance and had organized a bonding company to make bonds for the taxicabs which they controlled.

BUNGHOLE FIGHT UPSETS MAKERS OF BEER BARRELS

Beer barrel makers from all parts of the United States gathered in the Auditorium hotel yesterday in an effort to decide how big bungholes ought to be.

Large differences of opinion were brought forth in the discussion. Although the session, held as a part of the convention of the Association of Cooperage Industries, was closed, loud voices were heard as advocates of large, large medium, medium, small medium, and small bungholes presented their views.

Some of the coopers declared that their fathers used to make the bungs of a certain size and they weren't going to be bluffed into changing, even if bunghole plug makers did insist on standardization. About the only thing agreed on was that the bungs of real beer barrels ought to be bigger than the bungs of near beer barrels. But there was no agreement on how much bigger, and the barrel makers, it was reported, finally had to adjourn with the problem just where it was before—in confusion.

A Doctor Finds the Reason for His Popularity

From now on Dr. Clarence W. Hopkins, chief surgeon for the Chicago and North Western railroad, will not have to deny to various ladies at large that he had promised to dine and wine them.

All that ended yesterday. For almost a year the surgeon had been annoyed by telephone calls and letters from women he did not know reminding him that they had met before and wanting to know when they would meet again. Strangely, it seemed that he met the ladies always at Chicago and Michigan avenues, according to their reminders.

Receives Another Call.

Yesterday one of these telephone callers, a Miss Corley, living in Argyle street, communicated with Dr. Hopkins and assured him that she would be waiting for him at Chicago and Michigan avenues at 3 in the afternoon, as he had arranged. Dr. Hopkins assured Miss Corley some impostor and not he was the man. He invited her to his office to see for herself. Miss Corley accepted and admitted she had never seen Dr. Hopkins before.

"This man I met said he was Dr. C. W. Hopkins, chief surgeon for the North Western," explained the young woman. "I believed him."

With Miss Corley consenting to run down the impostor, Dr. Hopkins notified city police, and Detectives Frank McKune and Earl Flannery of the detective bureau got on the case.

At 3 o'clock they took post at Chicago and Michigan avenues. Miss Corley stood near by waiting. Pretty soon a gray haired man approached her and doffed his hat. The policemen seized him. He was the bogus Dr. Hopkins.

Impostor Identifies Self.

At the detective bureau he identified himself as Gordon Sutherland, 60 years old, of 724 Colfax street, Evanston, since 1904 a clerk for a downtown medical supplies company. He admitted, police said, that he had been posing as Dr. Hopkins during the last year and meeting women under that name. Sutherland, detectives said, also added that he did not know the doctor and had never even seen him. The name came to him spontaneously on his first flirtation, and he continued using it afterward, according to his story.

Dr. Hopkins was notified of the solution of the impostor mystery, and asked that Sutherland be released with a warning. He was.

"Never again," promised Sutherland, leaving the station, which words Dr. Hopkins probably might echo so far as having to make further denials to various ladies at large.

HUTTON DENIES REPORT OF BABY BORN TO AIMEE

Los Angeles, June 24 [Saturday.]—(AP)—A mysterious cablegram reporting the birth of a 9 pound son to Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton in a Paris hospital was received last night by her husband, David L. Hutton, who branded the message "ridiculous" as he ordered a telegraph company to trace the sender.

The cablegram, dated June 23 and addressed to Hutton at his wife's church, Angelus temple, read: "Darling boy. Nine pound son. Doing splendidly. Understand press inquisitive but keeping quiet." The message was signed, "Adoringly, wife."

Temple officials, including Miss Harriet Jordan, manager, and friends of the evangelist, said they considered the cable a hoax.

"Somebody with a motive sent that," they said.

"My wife would have let me know about this long ago," Hutton said, "and besides, I know that motherhood is impossible for her. There isn't a word of truth in it. It's ridiculous."

Yesterday Willed Andrews, Angelus temple attorney, refused to affirm or deny a report that Mrs. Hutton intended to sue for a divorce in Paris.

NEW BORN BABE TO AID GERMAN BRIDE PAY DEBT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 23.—Newborn babies will assist their parents in paying off their debts to the state under Chancellor Hitler's scheme to help finance young married couples in order to encourage marriage, according to details of the regulations announced today.

Couples who receive the state's wedding loan will get a rebate of 25 per cent of their debt for every child born. After the birth of each child repayment of the loan, which is to take place at the rate of 1 per cent a month, may be suspended for 12 months.

Candidates for matrimony must prove they are ardent supporters of Chancellor Hitler. The bride and bridegroom must be healthy. The sum of 1,000 marks is the maximum amount of this marriage aid.

RICH YANKS, HIT BY DOLLAR DROP, SEEK A HAVEN

NICE, June 23.—A group of wealthy American residents of the Riviera, headed by Bruce Bundy of Los Angeles, Cal., is reported interested in a scheme to found a villa colony in the Mediterranean as a refuge from the depreciation of the dollar.

The basis of the plan is said to be a coöperative purchasing system. St. Marguerite island, about three miles off Cannes, is mentioned as the site.

Among those said to have been approached are Mme. Jacques Balsan, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt; George Pierce Butler, Commodore Louis Beaumont, Mrs. Dorothy Erskine, and Frank Jay Gould.

"Let Me Die" Is Kinney's Plea; He May Live

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

(Picture on Back Page.)

Peoria, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Garrett De Forrest Kinney, state director of finance under former Gov. Louis Emmerson, was reported by physicians tonight to have better than an even chance to recover from the effects of a bullet wound he inflicted upon himself early this morning.

Kinney's condition was declared to be slightly improved late tonight by Dr. W. W. Cutter. If an infection does not set in the patient will probably recover, the physician said.

"His pulse, temperature and respiration are only slightly above normal," said Dr. Cutter. "The bullet fortunately affected no vital area of the brain."

Access to the sickroom was forbidden to all, however. Kinney's mental condition was said still to be hazy and he reiterated statements that he wished to die.

Had Been Dodging Writ.

The attempt at suicide came after weeks in which the 64 year old politician and business man dodged a deputy sheriff who had a subpœna ordering him to appear in the Springfield Circuit court to be questioned about his dealings with the Ridgely Farmers State bank of Springfield during his administration as head of the state finance department under the Emmerson administration.

The deputy sheriff finally found Kinney last night at the Pere Marquette hotel here and served him with a notice to appear in Springfield this morning. Kinney accepted the subpœna quietly.

Kinney checked out of the hotel early this morning and walked to his office in the plant of the Culter & Proctor Stove company, of which he was president until he resigned two weeks ago. The four story, red brick factory stands near the Illinois river in a manufacturing district.

Had Been Watched.

"Go out and get me a newspaper," Kinney ordered the watchman.

Strand had been ordered to keep a close watch upon his employer, who had been on the verge of a breakdown since publication yesterday of an auditor's report at Springfield which charged Kinney's administration of the finance department with a cash shortage of $174,190.

He hurried out, procured a copy of the newspaper and returned to hear a shot as he opened the door. He found Kinney lying on the floor in a small room formerly used as a ladies' restroom in the factory. Kinney was striving to reach the gun with the intention apparently of firing another bullet into his head. The watchman grabbed the gun and assisted Kinney to a chair. The bullet from the .32 caliber automatic had penetrated the right temple; both layers of the skull bone had emerged over the left eye. An examination later showed that the brain had been penetrated slightly.

No Immediate Danger.

Dr. Cutter announced that there was no immediate danger. A quantity of blood had been lost by Kinney, but a blood transfusion has not been deemed necessary, he said.

R. B. Tamplin, secretary-treasurer of the stove company, was summoned by the watchman to the factory after the suicide attempt. He found Kinney seated on a chair, attempting to stanch the flow of blood from the double wound in his head with a towel. Tamplin summoned Dr. Cutter, who applied bandages.

Kinney was able to walk to an automobile, but collapsed into a semi-conscious condition after reaching the hospital.

"I want to die," he told his attendants. "Please let me die and

WOMAN RELATES DEATH OF THREE TO PROTECT HER

Saved After Thirty Hours on Water.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kewaunee, Wis., June 23.—(Special.)—An airplane tragedy in Lake Michigan in which three men lost their lives was revealed dramatically tonight when the wife of one of the victims—the sole survivor—was rescued after clinging to a gasoline tank for thirty hours. The gasoline tank was used as a raft, the plane having sunk shortly after the crash.

The survivor is Mrs. Charles Rennie Jr., 27 years old, of Traverse City, Mich., wife of the vice president of the Rennie Oil company of that city. The victims were her husband, Charles Rennie Jr., son of the president of the oil company; James Gillette, pilot of the plane, and Peter Keller, mechanic, all of Traverse City.

Mrs. Rennie Tells Story.

Mrs. Rennie was rescued 15 miles out of Frankfort, Mich., by car ferry No. 7 of the Ann Arbor fleet and brought here in an exhausted condition shortly before midnight. On arrival she was placed under medical care. Her story was related through Capt. L. A. Larson of the car ferry.

The accident occurred Thursday forenoon, Mrs. Rennie said, as the result of a thick fog which Pilot Gillette could not distinguish from water. From that time until tonight—a period of 30 hours—she had clung tenaciously to the raft after her husband, Gillette, and Keller, one by one, had released their hold from it and sunk to their deaths before her eyes.

On Business Trip.

"My husband and I left Traverse City about 9 o'clock Thursday morning, bound for a business trip to Milwaukee," said Mrs. Rennie. "He used planes a good deal. We knew Gillette and knew him as a reliable flyer. Keller, the mechanic, was with us.

"After leaving Traverse City we headed west to Frankfort, and after circling the town several times we started over the lake toward Milwaukee.

Thick Fog Comes Up.

"The plane was working well. There was no sign of any trouble. We got out about 15 miles over the lake when a heavy fog swept up. Visibility was impossible. It was so bad that we could not tell which was water and which was fog.

"Gillette announced then that it would be best to land on the water and wait out the fog, and we agreed that was a proper course. He pointed the nose of the ship downward. Suddenly we hit the water. It seemed to come up at us unexpectedly, so we must have been close to it."

Suffer Minor Injuries.

The impact on the water was not heavy, Mrs. Rennie said, although it was severe enough to disable the ship and prevent a takeoff. All were severely jolted, but no one was hurt beyond minor bruises. Water began seeping into the vulnerable parts of the ship, and the men, after a hasty conference, got into action, Mrs. Rennie said.

"They tore off a gas tank from under one of the wings," she related. "The tank was about four feet wide, four feet long, and about four inches thick. It was of metal and smooth surfaced. The gasoline was drained out of it and the intake was plugged. This made a perfect raft.

"They put the raft into the water and put me on the center of it. Then they all left the plane and clung to the side of the raft. Their bodies were in the water. It would not support all of us."

Try to Be Cheerful.

Mr. Rennie, Gillette and Keller all tried to act cheerfully, Mrs. Rennie said. They reminded her that they weren't so far off shore, that one of the many boats plying in the region would pick them up. The water was bitterly cold, but they did not complain, she added. Fortunately the surface was calm and smooth, otherwise none of them could have held on to the slippery raft very long. The fog had lifted.

"I could see the men weaken as the hours passed," said Mrs. Rennie sobbingly. "I lost all count of time, of course, but I knew by the position of the sun that many hours must have passed that we were floating around this way before something happened."

Death Lightens Load.

"Gillette let go the raft first," continued the woman. "He had been growing weaker all the time. He could not hang on any longer. I watched as he let go and disappeared under the water."

The death of Gillette lightened the load on the frail raft and it added to the hopes of the others that all would be rescued, although this was not mentioned.

It must have been just as the sun was setting that "something else happened," according to Mrs. Rennie's story. Again there was a choking pause before she continued.

Keller Next to Go.

"Keller was next," said Mrs. Rennie. "The water was terribly cold and the air was chilly. Like Gillette, he couldn't hold on any longer and my husband and I had to watch him as his grip slipped off the raft. It was terrible.

"Chick [Mr. Rennie] and I held on through the awful night. It was so dark and so cold, and once in a while a stir of wind would lap a small wave over us, and it would seem that the next minute would be our last.

"It seemed the night would never pass, but we held on. Life seemed so dear. The sun came up and there we were, exhausted and hopeless of being saved. Chick encouraged me and I encouraged him. We thought surely help would arrive. The day passed slowly and the sun gradually became blistering hot, though the water was still cold. Chick began weakening like the others and I was desperate, knowing what had happened to Gillette and Keller.

Farewell to Husband.

"I don't know just when it happened, but it couldn't have been more than a few hours before I was saved that Chick said to me:

"'I guess I'm through. I can't stand up any longer.' I pleaded with him to hold on, but even though he wanted to he couldn't. He fumbled around in his wet clothes and handed me his watch, paper, and money. 'Here, keep these,' he said. Then he said 'Good-by'—and let go.

"Then he went down and I was alone in the blistering heat."

Mrs. Rennie broke down at this point and no attempt was made to question her for a while. Later she said that she noticed a ship sailing about a mile off and waved to it, but she was not sighted. An hour later car ferry 7, commanded by Capt. Larson, hove into view.

Sighted by Car Ferry.

The lookout of that ship sighted Mrs. Rennie, and Capt. Larson sped to her full speed. A boat containing Second Mate John Telgard, Third Officer Peter Sirum, and Seamen Kenneth White, Thomas De Witt, Edward Gabrielson, and Elsworth Hoffman put out from the car ferry and brought Mrs. Rennie to the ship. She was incoherent at first.

She was given emergency aid and some hot coffee and the car ferry radioed news of the tragedy and the rescue to the United States coast guard station at Grand Haven, Mich. This was the first word of the accident, although at that time some anxiety had been felt by the Rennie family because the airplane had been scheduled to arrive in Milwaukee on Thursday and return today.

Capt. Larson continued on to this port. He was met by Dr. F. J. Wochos who examined Mrs. Rennie and said later that her condition was not serious. She had suffered considerably from sunburn and exposure, and, of course, was hysterical, he said.

After a couple of hours here the car ferry put out to return to Frankfort with Mrs. Rennie. It requires six to eight hours for the cross lake trip, a distance of more than sixty miles.

Message to Relatives.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 23.—[Special.]—A radiogram from Mrs. Rennie tonight, intercepted at Grand Haven, read:

"Plane crashed Thursday. Pete and Jim drowned Thursday night. Chick [Mr. Rennie] drowned Friday morning. I was picked up Friday night. Be sure to tell mother I'm all right."

In another message Mrs. Rennie explained the accident in which the plane hit the water. They were, she radioed, trying to get out of the fog and "could not distinguish fog from water and dived into it."

Mother of Three.

Traverse City, Mich., June 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Rennie Jr., sole survivor of an airplane tragedy in Lake Michigan in which her husband, James Gillette and Peter Keller, all of this city, perished, is the mother of three small children. Her husband, member of a wealthy family, was vice president of an oil company bearing the family name.

Gillette was well known in Michigan as an able airplane pilot. He operated a plane for charter. It was equipped with water landings. Gillette was official pilot to the queen of the national cherry festival and was to have flown with the 1933 queen to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago next week.

His mechanic, Keller, 24 years old, was known in local aviation circles. He accompanied Gillette on many of his flights.

U. S. CONTINUING TAX INQUIRIES, CUMMINGS SAYS

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Attorney General Cummings at Washington declared that the acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell would not slow up proceedings against men whose income tax returns are under investigation, but there was no statement forthcoming from the office of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie in New York today that other cases which he has been looking into are to be continued.

In the financial section of the town there is a general belief that many cases which the government believes to be on what might be called the border line would have been prosecuted if Mr. Mitchell had been convicted, but will not be taken before a jury now.

The inquiry on which the evidence against some of the leading financiers has been first brought to light, that of the senate investigating committee at Washington, will continue to inquire into tax matters as it had planned, its chairman, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, declared.

HITLER ORDERS NETWORK OF NEW HIGHWAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 23.—Details of a gigantic project of new automobile roads in Germany which will "surpass the efficiency of any roads in existence in the world" were decided upon by Chancellor Hitler's cabinet today along lines developed by Hitler personally.

The post of national inspector of roads will be created to supervise these works, while a national company of automobile lines will be formed. It will be operated by the national railroad company. The new road office will be entitled to confiscate all land needed. Part of the road network will be financed by fees payable for use of the roads.

Hitler expects the construction of new highways will provide work for 400,000 men.

DEMOCRATS FILL NEW JOBS UNDER RECOVERY PLAN

Economy Program Ousts Republicans.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—One army of federal pay rollers was started on the way out today, but another vastly greater army is being enlisted every day.

The procedure is after the old political maxim—"To the victor belong the spoils"—and, while Republicans began sadly to pack their belongings for treks back to the old home towns, happy Democrats were rolling in on all trains to feed at the public trough for the first time since the Wilson administration.

But it is not the same old order at that, for the Republicans are going out under the guise of economy and their jobs are being abolished to fit the "normal" budget lowered by better than 25 per cent.

Going Into New Jobs.

The Democrats are largely going into new jobs created by the thousands to operate the new schemes for business and agricultural recovery set up in the Roosevelt program.

Eight hundred employés were marked today for dismissal, and as many more were headed for private life in a short time. Democratic members of the house, showing a voracious appetite for patronage, petitioned the administration to cancel civil service ratings given to 4,600 employés by orders of former Republican Presidents.

Addressing their plea to James A. Farley, chief dispenser of jobs, the congressmen declared that the employés given jobs during Republican administrations had been "blanketed" into the civil service without taking examinations, and that really it was no more than a means of giving permanent jobs to Republicans.

Mr. Farley, who has better than a half million applications for jobs, ranging from janitorships to ambassadorships, listened with considerable sympathy and said he would ask the President to issue the necessary orders ousting the 4,600 followers of Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover.

Exempt from Pay Cut.

At the same time another break for the Democrats came today when Controller General McCarl issued an opinion that all the employés hired to work in the new branches of the "new deal" would be exempt from the 15 per cent pay cut. The controller general decided that the powers voted to the President, including the fixing of wages for all employés to be attached to the new departments, exempted them from the general pay cut applying to old employés.

Secretary Roper of the commerce department, stung a bit by criticism that he has been slow to cut down the useless activities of his multitudinous bureau, announced that on July 1 five hundred employés would be discharged.

At the same time an order was issued to the effect that all commerce department employés would be required to take an enforced payless furlough of 15 days in the coming year, which will add 4 per cent to a pay cut of 15 per cent put into effect by President Roosevelt's economy order. Officials at the department said it was likely 300 more employés would be discharged on July 15.

In selecting employés for dismissal, the department is letting out first those people who have husbands or wives employed in government service.

Government Printers to Go.

Another big cut will be made on July 15 at the government printing office. Public Printer George H. Carter announced that between 300 and 400 employés would be dropped.

The department of agriculture has slated 400 employés for dismissal in various so-called "educational" bureaus, but at the same time is starting the employment of several thousand in the administration's schemes for boosting prices for wheat and cotton.

Accused Ex-Official Shoots Himself.

get away from it all; call the undertaker and the coroner and give them the body."

Tamplin said that in a conversation yesterday with Kinney regarding the auditor's report in Springfield, the latter declared he was a victim of a political plot and that the accusations against him concerning shortages in his accounts were untrue.

Alleges Plot.

Tamplin today disclosed that Kinney tried to end his life yesterday, being twice prevented by employés when he leveled a pistol at his temple.

Kinney has been a victim of melancholia for a number of weeks, his friends said. He was under treatment by Dr. Cutter for a nervous condition. Following an altercation with his wife, he had been living apart from her while she remained in their beautiful home at 710 Moss avenue.

The gun used by Kinney was borrowed by him two months ago from Sheriff Frank W. Lichtweiss. Kinney at the time said that his own revolver had been stolen and he was in fear of holdups on the many drives he was in the custom of making between Peoria and Chicago. The sheriff lent him a confiscated weapon.

Kinney fired two shots from the gun. Apparently he aimed the first bullet at the floor, where it was found imbedded, to discover if the gun was in working condition. He then pointed it at his head and pulled the trigger. This second bullet after piercing the head shattered a window pane in the room.

Sheriff Lichtweiss, who had been threatened with contempt of court if he did not find Kinney and serve him with the subpoena, telephoned Springfield that Kinney had been served but was unable to appear because of the suicide attempt. The lawyer charged that the subpoena had been in the hands of the sheriff since June 10, but that, although Kinney had been seen about the streets of Peoria, no effort had been made to serve him.

ROBBED OF AUTO AND CLOTHES.

Three gunmen forced Edward Abbott, 26 years old, 5434 Cortez street, to drive to a lonely road near St. Charles, where they robbed him of his money, automobile, watch and clothing early yesterday. Abbott, clad only in his socks and underwear, made his way to the St. Charles police station.

GERMANY JAILS EX-REICHSTAG HEAD AS PLOTTER

Paul Loebe, Socialist Chief, Arrested.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 23.—Paul Loebe, president of the reichstag for almost twelve years, was arrested today. He is accused of participating in a Socialist plot against Chancellor Hitler's government, according to the Telegrafen Union [Nationalist] News agency.

The veteran Socialist leader is charged with sending the following message to editors of a newspaper operated by German refugees in Czechoslovakia: "In view of the present conditions I cannot express my opinion of the political situation with absolute freedom." He is said to have aroused official ire further by writing in a friendly vein "to traitors who had fled the country."

Rosenberg Cites Hitler's Aims.

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief of the foreign political bureau of the Nazi party and described by many as Hitler's next foreign minister, today gave a formal reception in honor of diplomats and the foreign press. He said he believed Hitler so firmly entrenched that "only a world coalition united against us could disturb the stability of this régime."

"We Hitlerites shall first introduce practical protection for the German race," Rosenberg said. "Our deep respect for our own racial qualities induces us to respect the racial distinctions of neighboring states, and we shall never, as Leader Hitler said recently, repeat the experiments of the 19th century in an endeavor to Germanize foreign minorities."

The dissolution of the Socialist party, he said, amounted to the "burial of a corpse, because no life was left in the party." He said it marked the end of a cycle begun 70 years ago "in a century under the flag of Marxism which pretended to strive for social justice but in reality neglected the needs of the masses, abolished respect for private property, and preached a pacifism tantamount to high treason.

"Hitler or Chaos!" Warning.

He closed with these words:

"There are only two alternatives for Germany—Hitler or bloody chaos, with resultant loss of the German market to other nations."

Meanwhile an example of the hatred of Nazis for political opponents was furnished in Breslau. Herman Leudemann, former governor of the province of Lower Silesia and Socialist, arrived at a concentration camp under protective arrest.

He was compelled to run a gantlet of thousands of Nazis as he went afoot from police headquarters to the concentration camp.

Ban Catholic Youth Fête.

Heines announced the release of ten prisoners, who, he said, had been "misled and corrupted by Luedemann."

Members of the Catholic Centrist party also felt the tightening grip of the Hitler administration today. Midsummer night celebrations of Catholic youths were prohibited in Munich and Juelich. The Centrist reichstag member, Joseph Ersing, was arrested at Karlsruhe charged with the attempted formation of an opposition group.

Unidentified foreign airplanes cruised over government buildings in Berlin today dropping anti-Hitler literature. The police said pursuit of the airplanes was impossible because the air police has no aircraft. Sport planes took up the pursuit, but they were too slow to catch up with the mystery planes.

(Germany was denied an air force by the Versailles treaty.)

"This illustrates Germany's defenselessness," a semi-official bulletin said. "This time only leaflets were dropped. The next time it may be bombs."

PROFESSOR DODD SAYS PACTS WILL REVIVE TRADE

New Envoy to Germany Is Honored at Banquet.

Prof. William E. Dodd, philosophical historian and newly appointed ambassador to Germany, lectured last evening on an axiom he taught from his classrooms at the University of Chicago—"history repeats itself, and mankind finds a way to solve the most impossible world problems."

The lecture was delivered to 500 friends and colleagues who gathered at the Congress hotel to honor him at a farewell dinner before his departure for the American embassy at Berlin on July 5. Fresh from Washington and a series of conferences with President Roosevelt, the new ambassador in citing the trade recoveries of 1789 and of 1848 said:

World Pacts Held Essential.

"In these recoveries open markets and coöperation among states and nations played decisive rôles. If one ventured then to say friendly, cooperative activity among sections of a country and among jealous nations almost invariably precedes prosperous eras, he would find the mass of historical evidence behind him. It has never been excitement, anger, trade barriers and war that has set man upon the upward trends.

"The economic and social life of what we call the western world is complex and distressing. There are perhaps 20 million idle men and women; there are legitimate debts that run into the hundreds of billions.

Finds Abuses Cause Trouble.

"There have been tremendous follies in the making of this condition and our old ideal of individual initiative and freedom has been abused.

"It is not democracy that has failed, but the abuses of the democratic method which have overwhelmed us all and subjected us to financiers not responsible to public control.

"But one need not despair," he added.

Prof. Dodd recalled the debts, foreign and domestic, which could not be paid, the unemployment and unrest in the American colonies at the close of the revolutionary war.

Recalls Fall of Napoleon.

"Nor are the facts of other epochs of our history different. After the fall of Napoleon, Europe was in terrible plight and the great depression touched American affairs. Devices of every kind were tried and none proved very successful.

"Then strangely, the British, under the lead of Sir Robert Peel reversed the 200-year policy of rigid trade domination and opened her markets to the world. At the same moment a clever, wizen-faced little secretary of the federal treasury, Robert J. Walker, insisted upon writing an almost free trade tariff for the United States.

"It was driven through congress upon a narrow margin of votes. It was then 1846. Within two years there was an amazing commercial activity which gave birth to a new American marine and led to a prosperity all over the western world."

Speaker of the House of Representatives Henry T. Rainey, Miss Jane Addams, Dr. Hugo F. Simon, consul general from Germany; Prof. Charles E. Merriam, and Judge John P. McGoorty representing Gov. Horner, who was unable to attend the dinner, offered congratulations.

MOBS RUN WILD IN SPAIN; BURN RELIGIOUS FLAGS

Scores Hurt in Day of Rioting.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, June 23.—Rioters here got out of hand today for the first time since the burnings of monasteries two years ago and put a violent stop to the traditional observance of the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus by the Catholic citizenry. The observance had been intended this year as a protest against the law passed recently nationalizing church property and making religious orders civil societies.

Screaming through the streets, mobs of hundreds tore down and burned the red and white bunting with the insignia of the Sacred Heart which the Catholics had placed in their balconies, and, where they could not reach them or were resisted, bombarded the windows with stones. A number of shots were fired. So menacing was the attitude of the mobs by midafternoon that the police, over the protest of Catholic deputies, ordered all balconies cleared of bunting, ostensibly to avoid further excesses.

Scores Are Injured.

The toll of the day's rioting was one dying, two seriously wounded, a score battered and bruised, 50 arrests, a thousand or so windows broken, and at least a mile of bunting burned in the streets, not to mention fresh enmity between Catholics and left wing republicans. Feelings are strained to the breaking point between Catholics and republican elements and there are rumors of an impending military blowup.

Deputy Gil Robles, chief of the Catholic Agrarian party, charged the police tonight with making no attempt to protect the balconies and with jailing only Catholic defenders.

All street manifestations within the city limits of Madrid had been forbidden today, but on top of Serro de los Angeles, the mound outside Madrid that marks the geographical center of Spain, 10,000 Catholics gathered at dawn to pray beneath the statue of the sacred heart. All churches held special services.

Boy Shot in the Back.

The urgent demands of government parties to hold counter demonstrations were flatly turned down by Premier Azana, who recently was excommunicated by the church for signing the religious law. The left wing elements, however, exasperated by the extent of Catholic window displays, issued a threatening manifesto and shortly afterwards the riots began.

When a citizen on a café terrace suddenly whooped "Long live Christ, the king," a mob wrecked the establishment. Another citizen who merely cried "Long live the king," got his head broken. A 21 year old boy, after an unsuccessful attempt to defend his bunting, fled and was shot three times in the back. He is said to be dying. A pretty senorita who had hung a red and yellow shawl from her window was manhandled.

BUCHANAN GIVEN CUSTODY OF HIS TWO CHILDREN

Marriage of Mother to Indian Is Cause.

Thompson Buchanan, playwright, yesterday won the first move in a legal battle to gain the custody of his two children from his former wife, who was married on May 31 in Milwaukee to Kumar Jehan Seesodia-Warliker, an East Indian who has been living in England. Mrs. Warliker, before her first marriage, was Miss Katharine Winterbotham of Chicago.

An attorney representing Mr. Buchanan yesterday obtained from County Judge Henry I. Fox in Louisville, Ky., an order appointing the playwright legal guardian of the children, Katharine Roberta, 15 years old, and Thompson Jr., 9 years old.

Father Goes to Get Son.

At the hearing it was disclosed that while the girl is at the home of Mr. Buchanan's sister in Louisville, the son is with his mother and her new husband in London, Ont. Mr. Buchanan, it was reported, has gone to Ontario to have the Kentucky court order filed and to prevent the Warlikers from taking the boy to England. Before leaving Chicago Mrs. Warliker announced her intention of having him educated there.

The petition filed in Louisville asserted that Warliker, who referred to himself as Prince Jehan while in Chicago, was "not of the Caucasian race, not a citizen of the United States and not eligible to become a citizen." It further asserted that Katharine Buchanan expressed an aversion to being part of the household of a man of another race, and that she desired to be educated in this country.

Following the hearing the girl expressed herself as delighted at being assigned to the care of her father.

Divorced in California.

Kentucky is the second state whose courts have been asked to decide on the Buchanan-Warliker troubles. Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan were divorced in California in 1926 and both children were awarded to the mother. Mr. Buchanan has now filed a petition in California to have the decree modified as to the youngsters. It is to be heard on July 17.

It was made apparent that the playwright will fight in the Canadian courts to force his former wife to leave the boy when she goes overseas. The Buchanan attorney said he had been informed the Warlikers intended to sail on July 23.

Mrs. Winterbotham Buchanan, as she was known in Chicago following her divorce, resided here until her second marriage. Mr. Buchanan was married in 1927 to Joan Lowell, novelist, but the couple were divorced in 1929.

Goes to State's Attorney with Brutality Story.

Policeman Anthony Bradtke of the West North avenue station yesterday in court offered $50 to a man whom he had arrested and beaten with his fists and revolver. Instead of accepting, the victim, Joseph J. Merkel, 1171? Lowe avenue, an employé of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who is charged with disorderly conduct, went to State's Attorney Courtney and told his story of police brutality. Several other cases of police brutality have been brought to the attention of the state's attorney's office in the last week.

Merkel appeared in the court of Municipal Judge John F. Haas at the Shakespeare avenue police station, still bearing marks of the beating which occurred at Western and Diversey avenues last May 26. Merkel said he was ready to stand trial on the disorderly conduct charge. He was represented by Attorney C. F. Faust of the Title and Trust company's legal staff.

Cop Out of District.

Merkel is 30 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and weighs 180 pounds. Policeman Bradtke, who works in civilian clothes, is a head taller and weighs 50 pounds more than Merkel. The policeman was not in his own district at the time of the beating, and according to the desk sergeant at his own station was not on duty, although he asserts he was.

Two witnesses were present to testify that they saw the policeman strike Merkel several times when Merkel asked the officer to show him his star. This request, Merkel explained, was made because he is collector of accounts for the Title and Trust company and had $315 of collection money with him. Also he had been robbed of $90 just three weeks before and an attempt to rob him had been made in April.

"I'll show you plenty of stars, you ———," the policeman was reported to have said.

Judge Suggests Settlement.

Judge Haas did not hear any evidence. He suggested that the policeman, Merkel and Attorney Faust step into his chambers and see if they couldn't settle the controversy amicably. It was then that the offer of money was made.

"On the occasion of my previous appearance in court, May 29, the policeman told me he would see that I got thirty days unless I paid for his broken glasses and his torn coat," Merkel said later to the state's attorney. "He said he could prove I was drunk at the time I was beaten, even if he did not charge me with driving while intoxicated, and even though I was allowed by the police to drive my own car after my arrest. Today he acted differently."

Assistant City Prosecutor William J. Kafka, who represented Policeman Bradtke, was told of the "settlement offer," and Merkel said the prosecutor advised him to accept the cash. Merkel quoted Prosecutor Kafka as saying:

"You know we have friends who have favors to give, and I think it best that this case should be disposed of by settlement."

The prosecutor added later, "I know there are some coppers who do not belong on the force, but I don't know this copper at all."

When the case was called again Prosecutor Kafka asked for a continuance. The policeman needed time to produce a "material witness," the prosecutor said. Judge Haas continued the case to July 7.

Visit State's Attorney's Office.

Merkel and his witnesses then went to the state's attorney's office. Assistant State's Attorney William J. Welden took written statements from them. Merkle's statement, in part, follows:

"I was driving south in Western avenue about 30 miles an hour when my attention was called to a car at my right by some one shouting. I saw a man in a gray suit pointing a revolver at me through the open window. He shouted to me, 'Over to the curb, you ——— ———.' The auto was a brown or tan colored coupe. I attempted to speed up to get away from him, thinking it was another holdup.

"Some one shouted 'Police,' and I stopped at Diversey avenue. The man in gray came to me and said he was a policeman. I asked to see his credentials. He shook his fist at me and said, 'Here they are.' He shouted to an attendant at a gas station to call the police wagon.

"The attendant refused to make the call when the man refused to show a star. Instead he pointed to a police call box fifty feet away. I then offered to drive to the nearest police station and the man in gray told me to drive west in Diversey and he followed.

Stops at Coal Yard.

"I turned off because I had $315 of company money on me and I wanted to find a uniformed policeman to protect me. I stopped at a coal yard because there were a number of people there who, I thought, might help me. Then I got out of my car after hiding the money under the seat.

"The man in gray said to me, 'If you want stars you will see them,' and he struck me with the butt of a revolver or some other thing used as a club. I fell to my knees. He struck me again. I was bleeding at the mouth and right eye. Again he struck me with his fist.

"Then a police squad car came and I asked a member of the squad to ride with me in my car to the station, which he did. At the station I asked the desk sergeant who the man was that beat me up.

"'You are in jail now; that ought to show you who he is,'" the sergeant said. Then Policeman Bradtke said he would take me in the back room and finish the job.

"Meanwhile I had put the $315 in my pocket and when I was searched they took it. One of the policemen said, 'I think you have a record.' Finally they took $25 of the company money for bail and gave me the rest. Then I went to a doctor, who treated my injuries. I had pains in my head and couldn't eat or sleep for three days."

The doctor made a statement that Merkel was not intoxicated at the time of his arrest and beating. He listed the injuries, which include a neck gland still swollen.

Paul J. Caske, 2642 North Artesian avenue, one of the witnesses, told of being arrested when he took the license number of Policeman Bradtke's automobile. At the station the paper on which he had written the number was taken from him and he was told to "get the hell out of here," he said. He informed Assistant State's Attorney Welden he was of the opinion Policeman Bradtke had been drinking.

Felix F. Bruchman, 2848 North Artesian avenue, said Bradtke's face was red and his eyes bloodshot. Bruchman and Caske made statements regarding what happened at the coal yard. Bruchman said he had seen the policeman strike Merkel.

Two other witnesses are to be interviewed, Prosecutor Welden said, to determine whether criminal charges are to be made against the policeman. Police Commissioner Allman will be asked to bring the policeman before the police trial board, the assistant state's attorney said.

Merkel is married and has two small children. He asked that neither he nor his witnesses be molested while he is awaiting trial. Prosecutor Welden asked that a report be made of any effort to tamper with the witnesses or any further attempts at a cash settlement.

2 Evergreen Park Policemen Indicted in Auto Assault Case

Policemen Herbert Drabandt and Charles Roche of Evergreen Park, who are alleged to have beaten and mistreated a party of Chicago motorists, were reported named yesterday in true bills charging them with assault with a deadly weapon. Bond was fixed at $1,000 for each of the defendants.

The reported grand jury action followed an investigation begun by State's Attorney Courtney of charges made by Edwin G. Tuerk, 30 years old, 7826 Lowe avenue; his wife Marie; W. Don Lowrie, 6150 Greenwood avenue, and his fiancée, Miss Elizabeth Scott, 8046 South Carpenter street. Conviction on the charge carries a possible maximum punishment of one year in the house of correction and a fine of $200.

Witnesses Heard by Jury.

Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley went before the grand jury with his witnesses after the state's attorney had conferred with Mayor Charles Robb and Chief of Police John Paller of Evergreen Park.

"I am disgusted with the way suburban officials have been treating the motoring public," State's Attorney Courtney told the Evergreen Park officials. "I will not tolerate police brutality. There must be a change of policy in Evergreen Park and elsewhere or there will be further prosecutions."

Lowrie and Tuerk charged that their car was halted by the policemen early Sunday as they returned from a bridge tournament near Palos Park. They were ordered to drive to the Evergreen Park police station to identify themselves, Tuerk said.

Drabandt crumpled and threw away documents offered as identification, Lowrie said, dragged him from the station and struck him with a blackjack when he protested. Tuerk said that he was clubbed when he tried to go to Lowrie's rescue.

Woman Is Struck.

Mrs. Tuerk told investigators that one of the policemen struck her in the face with his fist when she picked up her husband's glasses, which had been knocked off in the scuffle. Lowrie and Tuerk were jailed and charged with disorderly conduct.

Drabandt and Roche charged that Lowrie and Tuerk had been drinking and told the state's attorney that the two men became abusive and resisted arrest. The policemen told conflicting stories during the investigation by the state's attorney.

TAX CUT ACTION TO AWAIT RULING BY HIGH COURT

Nothing will be done to put into effect the board of tax appeals 15 per cent assessment cut order on small homes until the Supreme court holds the hearing which it granted on the matter last Thursday, it appeared yesterday from comments of county officials.

Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax department of the state's attorney's office, pointed out that the situation leaves Assessor J. L. Jacobs in a difficult position.

"The Supreme court rehearing does not act to hold up the order of the board of tax appeals," said Mr. Bell. "If Mr. Jacobs goes ahead with the assessment changes, and the order is held invalid, he can be accused of wasting public funds. If he refuses, on the other hand, to comply with the order, and the Supreme court affirms it on rehearing, he can be charged with delaying tax collections."

Poland Is "Astonished" at Roosevelt Debt Stand

WARSAW, June 23.—(AP)—Poland today sent to Stanislas Patek, Polish ambassador to the United States, an answer to the recent American war debt note. The reply expresses astonishment that the United States has not answered a proposal for the start of debt negotiations.

(President Roosevelt in his recent note to Poland rebuked that country for repudiating its obligations and ignored the Polish request for negotiations to revise the debt agreement.)

STORM OVER ALPS AGAIN HOLDS UP ITALY'S AIR FLEET

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 24 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Weather reports at midnight were so unfavorable that Italian flyers who had planned to take off at dawn in 24 seaplanes for a flight by stages to A Century of Progress in Chicago abandoned hope of departure today.

It was to be decided today whether to take off Sunday, going by way of Bordeaux, France. If such a decision is made the armada, under the command of Gen. Italo Balbo, air minister, was determined to fly 1,562 miles to Londonderry, Northern Ireland, without stop.

No Trace of Spanish Flyers.

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—The third day of widespread search brought many rumors but no definite information about Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, lost in ttheir attempt to fly here from Hayana after a successful hop last week from Spain to Cuba. The airmen had been authorized to fly to Chicago to attend A Century of Progress Exposition.

50 AFFECTED BY CHLORINE GAS OF DEFECTIVE TANK

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—(AP)—Fumes of chlorine gas escaping from a defective tank as it was removed from a warehouse spread over a near east side neighborhood today, affecting fifty persons, none believed seriously.

At City hospital forty-four persons were treated, including six policemen and twelve firemen. All returned to their homes tonight.

Witnesses said the gas spread in a "green haze" as workers tried to load the tank on a truck. The flight of those near by was halted suddenly as the fumes overtook them and they stumbled and fell. Police donned gas masks for rescue work and threw a guard about an area several blocks wide.

GEORGE STEWART, SON OF BISHOP, IS INJURED IN AUTO

George Stewart, 23 years old, son of Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal church, suffered a broken nose and cuts on the face yesterday when a motorist swerved in front of his car at Clark street and Devon avenue. The motorist failed to stop.

Eugene Graves, 3 years old, 3736 North Claremont avenue, was killed last evening when he fell under the wheels of an ice delivery truck into which he had climbed seeking a piece of ice.

Mrs. Mary Baumann, 75 years old, 1833 Oakton street, Evanston, was killed last night at Garfield avenue and Stockton drive by an automobile.

A fourth victim of the automobile collision on Thursday at Wolf and Cermak roads, Westchester, died yesterday at the Westlake hospital in Melrose Parw. He is Joseph O'Neil 65 years old, of Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y. The others killed were Mrs. Margaret Hablan, her son, Walter Hablan, and Mrs. Annette Plahnts.

Vincent Smith, 32 years old, an ex-convict, died in the Bridewell hospital last night of injuries received yesterday when a stolen automobile in which he and two companions were riding crashed into a light pole while they were being pursued by police. The accident occurred at Wood street and Grand avenue.

The four deaths increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 464.

A man killed by an automobile at Sheridan road and Colfax avenue, Evanston, on Thursday was identified yesterday as James Hammill, 46 years old, of Evanston, employé of a grocery firm.

CHURCH WARDEN FACES INQUIRY IN GIANT STILL RAID

7 Iron Company Officials to Be Questioned.

Federal officials announced yesterday that Henry E. Bullock, 81 years old, chairman of the board, and six other officials of the Illinois Malleable Iron company would be summoned for questioning concerning the 20,000 gallon alcohol still seized Thursday night in the building occupied by the company at 1760 Diversey parkway. It was indicated that the investigation would be conducted with general conspiracy indictments in view.

The others to be questioned by Administrator M. L. Harney are Richard John Wuerst, treasurer of the company; Frederick K. North, mechanical engineer; Walter H. Burgess, president; G. J. Reeling and R. J. Stenock, vice presidents, and A. E. White, secretary. Mr. Bullock, who is a warden of St. James Episcopal church, is credited among other achievements with discovering the presence of potash in the Dead sea.

Make Conflicting Statements.

The still, which had a daily capacity of 20,000 gallons of alcohol, is said to be the largest ever found in Chicago. It was located on the fifth and sixth floors of the iron company building. Officials of the iron company already questioned are said to have made conflicting statements as to the lessees of the quarters where the still was found.

One company official is said to have told federal agents that the fifth and sixth floors of the building were leased to a paint company. Another said the lessee was a preserve concern. Both agreed that the still quarters were leased last September at a rental of $5,000 a year.

Profit of $1,000,000.

Prohibition agents under Chief Enforcement Officer Al Aman and Special Investigator Elliot Ness estimated that the still operators had realized a profit of nearly $1,000,000 during the six months the liquor plant was in operation. The agents expressed the belief that approximately 480,000 gallons of alcohol had been shipped during the time. Each gallon of alcohol brought the still owners approximately $2 profit, the agents said.

The six men seized in various parts of the building during the raid were released yesterday. All told agents that they were employed by the Illinois Malleable Iron company and knew nothing of the still.

URGE LOW BEER LICENSE FEES AS TEMPERANCE AID

$250 or $300 for Saloons, Suggested.

Temperance will best be promoted, a number of aldermen said yesterday in informal discussions of beer licensing, if the license fees are kept low and groceries, delicatessens, and similar businesses are permitted to sell beer for consumption at home upon payment of a fee smaller than that charged establishments selling it for consumption on the premises.

The low fees, they maintained, will have the added advantages of opening the business to more people, with the consequent increase in employment and in renting of vacant stores, and of minimizing the cheating in the form of liquor sales which several of the speakers said would result from the imposition of a high license fee. Their ideas are expected to bring action Monday when the subcommittee of the council license committee resumes its drafting of a beer licensing ordinance.

Suggest Fee for Saloons.

Several of the aldermen suggested a $250 or $300 yearly license fee for saloons and taverns, with lower fees for establishments selling only bottled beer for consumption at home. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] suggested a graduated license fee, based upon the amount of beer sold yearly.

"License fees should not be too high and not too low," said Mayor Kelly. "We don't want to force legitimate dealers out of business, and too high a fee would mean a return of the old saloon, which people don't want."

"I think the council should adopt a reasonable fee for the purpose of preventing the concentration of the beer trade in saloons, and the return of the deplorable conditions that we had before prohibition—and after it, too," said Ald. John H. Massen [48th].

Wants to Prevent Cheating.

Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th] advocated a $250 fee, pointing out that the state already exacts a $50 fee from retailers.

"You can get six people to take out a $300 license where only one would pay $1,000 a year," he predicted, "and lower license fees won't compel those who sell draft beer to cheat on liquor to make up a high fee and show a profit. The lower fee gives the poor man a better chance of getting cheap beer than he has now, and you'll rent a lot more vacant stores."

Stops Union Dispute.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday put a stop to a jurisdictional dispute between two teamsters' unions which had threatened to stop delivery of beer in Chicago and its suburbs over the week-end.

The dispute is between the Brewery Drivers and Helpers' union, local 342, of which Ray Schoessling is business agent, and local 723 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, of which Jerry Donovan and James T. Patterson are the leaders.

The beer delivery union remained dormant through the prohibition era, but was recently revived. The other union had delivered mineral water, ginger ale and near beer, and its leaders insisted that they also had the right to deliver beer.

Schoessling, Donovan, and Patterson were taken to the state's attorney's office and told to submit their dispute to officials of the American Federation of Labor, with which both unions are affiliated, and not to interfere with any deliveries in the meantime. They agreed.

SAVANT TRACES PEOPLES BACK TO THEIR ANTIQUITY

Describes Method Based on Test of Skulls.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

From stars and star dust, the dance of electronic waves across the field of bombarded atoms, and the mysteries of personality, members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science turned their attention last night to the new Hall of Man in the Field museum, which, for the first time in history, was thrown open for an evening reception.

After gazing upon the shore of that early sea, just as tender and blue as the lake today, where man of 250,000 years ago crouched before his fire in the rock cave and looked out upon a hostile world, and following successive glimpses down to the Egyptian era, the visitors were taken into the technicalities of anthropology by Dr. C. N. Ariens Kappers of Amsterdam.

Dr. Kappers, who is the director of the Central Dutch Institute of Brain Research, was presented as a humanist and scientist by his friend, Prof. T. Wingate Todd of Cleveland, after Stanley Field had welcomed the scientists on behalf of the museum trustees.

Originator of Theory.

"Sentiment first directed science to study humanity," said Dr. Todd. "Dr. Kappers is a great humanist. He is the originator of the theory of neurobiotaxis, which means that those parts of the brain responsible for motor action have the power of adjusting their position. This flexibility of the nervous system made possible our humanity, made the brain the organ of the mind."

Dr. Kappers spoke of the great contributions which Chicago institutions have made toward scientific knowledge of the near east, which was the subject of his lecture.

His method of determining race is to plot the frequency curves on skulls as to length and breadth, finding this the most reliable way of distinguishing between races. His charts look like a food price chart, but find much more curious results, more reliable than language in determining race.

Traced Back to Phœnicians.

They show, for instance, that the Bedouins of the present Syrian desert are descendants of the Phœnicians of Bible history, driven from Syria by the Hittites. He searched for skulls in the deserts and tombs of the near east as a prospector would search for gold. Skulls in the ruins of Carthage have curves which coincide with the typical index of the Phœnicians.

The answer to the question of "Who are the Jews" is not so decisive as that which puts the Armenians and the Lebanese in the same race. It is difficult to find just who came in with Abraham into the land of milk and honey—Canaan. Dr. Kappers measured the skulls of 200 living Jews in Samaria, about all that are left of the Samaritan colony. These fall largely inside the Phœnician type, showing the Samaritans closely related to the Canaanites and Phœnicians.

Describes Atom Tests.

Bombardment of gold and platinum elements in a huge magnet and vacuum tube machine at the University of California was described yesterday by Prof. E. O. Lawrence, young American physicist whose work in the field of new atom building and the release of buried energy has attracted the attention of scientists of the world.

Prof. Lawrence is only 31 years old, but groups of scientists, many of them gray headed, sat before him at International House yesterday as he pictured the experiments. A number of European scientists were among the listeners. Disintegration of the nucleus of various atoms and building up something of greater power is the present goal of many laboratories.

Plan Largest Telescope.

The largest telescope mirror ever attempted by man will be cast within a few days, it was disclosed yesterday by Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mount Wilson observatory. With other astronomers, Dr. Adams was a visitor at Adler planetarium, where a new exhibit room was opened yesterday in connection with the meeting of the Astronomers' association.

The new telescope is to have a 120 inch mirror, and will be an experiment looking toward the building of a 200 inch mirror for the use of the California Institute of Technology.

DEMOCRACY HELD ONLY SURE WAY TO NATIONAL UNITY

Democracy remains the only true road to national unity and national happiness, notwithstanding the present disillusionment concerning this system in certain countries and the claims of self-designated supermen, who would bend nations to their own wills.

This thesis was advanced yesterday by John W. Dafoe, managing editor of the Winnipeg [Manitoba] Free Press, in a public lecture at the institute of the Norman Wait Harris foundation at the University of Chicago.

"Freedom of discussion is the acid test of any country claiming to be democratic," Mr. Dafoe stated.

"Disillusionment with democratic government arises chiefly on two grounds: First, that it works cumbrously and is unfitted for carrying out drastic policies promptly; second, that it has failed in great part in bestowing the social and economic advantages which the individual has come to expect as his due.

"As the failure of democratic government as an economic chore boy becomes only too evident to the disappointed citizen, he hears the voices of Messianic prophets promising all he yearns for and more—upon condition. The condition is the replacement of the democratic system by one in which the will of a self-proclaimed, self-approved higher intelligence is imposed.

"What a country breeds under such a system and under cover of enforced uniformity is a generation of liars, cowards and hypocrites. This is not the road to national unity or to national happiness."

FINDS BULLDOG IS MONSTER IN ANIMAL SCALE

Scientist Explains How Freaks Develop.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

To the world at large dachshunds and bulldogs are just plain dogs. But in the complicated sphere of evolution they rate as monsters, according to an eminent zoölogist who addressed the scientists' meeting in general session yesterday afternoon in the theater of the Chicago Woman's club. Dr. Richard Goldschmidt of Berlin, the speaker, used dachshunds and bulldogs as two examples to illustrate one of the points in his discussion of "Some Aspects of Evolution."

Both types, he said, are the result of rare embryonic variations of their species which start new evolutionary lines, provided they fit into what the authority called "some empty environmental niche." Both were evolved, he explained, by a single mutation, or rapid variation of one of the important reactions affecting growth, leading away from the original form but capable of completion along a different avenue of development.

Transformation of Species.

"The transformation of one species into another," he said, "is possible only if permanent changes in the genetic makeup occur, and the changed forms stand the test of selection. Both these points have long been in the foreground of discussion of evolution. But there is a third point, often neglected, which I think lies at the basis of the whole problem, namely, the nature of the developmental system of the organism which is to undergo evolutionary changes."

It was not meant, Dr. Goldschmidt explained, that the idea of evolution itself should be under discussion in his paper, since it has long been accepted as fact by biologists and other scientists.

Tells His Conclusions.

Dr. Goldschmidt said he had concluded, as a result of exhaustive research, that while many species of birds, for example, develop brighter colors in warmer climes, and many species of rodents take pale desert shades, the genus remains substantially the same in different parts of the world. It is not the influence of climatic conditions or food supplies that causes one species to alter into another form, he said, because "the changes necessary for the formation of new species are so large that the relatively small differences of the subspecies as a starting point would hardly count.

"The progress of science follows a slowly ascending, wavy curve with always recurring valleys. But viewed from some distance the waves disappear, and only the upward trend remains visible. Such also is the case with our knowledge of the methods and means of evolution."

FIRE IS FIRE, SO FAIR CREW PUTS OUT SHOW BLAZE

The police and fire departments at the Fair are so efficient that last night they put out a fire in the 101 Ranch Wild West show which was merely part of an act.

In the closing scene of the show Indians attack a covered wagon, killing all but two of the occupants, and set fire to the wagon. Nothing but the top is burned, but a policeman, seeing the blaze, turned in an alarm.

The hook and ladder company from the Fair department and a city fire tug came in response to the alarm, putting out the fire and drenching the Indians for being so cruel to the pioneer family.

RAILING BREAKS, WOMAN KILLED.

Mrs. Amanda Peterson, 65 years old, a widow, was killed yesterday when she fell from the rear porch of her home on the second floor of the building at 9129 Exchange avenue. The accident occurred when a railing broke.

TRAFFIC TO FAIR FILLS HIGHWAYS ACROSS INDIANA

Steady Stream of Cars Heads for Chicago.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., June 23.—[Special.]—Across northern Indiana moves a lively parade of automobiles from eastern states headed for A Century of Progress. The Hoosier police estimate that Indiana's transstate travel records are being broken, just as new high totals are being reached on the highways of Illinois.

From THE TRIBUNE roadster, driving east in the broad Dunes relief highway this morning, one Indiana car was counted for every five with plates from other states. Illinois licenses by themselves were almost twice as numerous as the Hoosier machines, but Chicago automobiles really represent local travel in northern Indiana.

However, the Illinois and Indiana cars together barely equaled the total from other states. Michigan and Ohio cars, many with baggage on running boards or rear luggage carriers, are rolling toward Chicago in goodly numbers in a traffic that includes license plates of Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts and other New England states.

Two Main Routes.

Probably a majority of the million automobiles from beyond Chicagoland expected to visit A Century of Progress will arrive from the east with its heavy population of motor cars. Much of this travel is skirting this city in northwestern Ohio while another stream, mainly from the New England states, is cutting across Ontario and reëntering the United States at Detroit.

The World's Fair administration has been apprehensive over reports that motorists on the highway are being misinformed regarding traffic and parking facilites and hotel accommodations awaiting them in Chicago. According to the Fair officials, many motorists are being told that they won't be able to drive into Chicago due to congestion or due to special traffic regulations.

Inquiries Answered Accurately.

A reporter for THE TRIBUNE, identifying himself solely as a tourist, checked motor clubs, hotels and filling stations here and in Detroit this afternoon and found that inquiries about the Fair were being answered accurately and in a manner that would encourage motorists to drive to the Exposition.

Without exception, the informants said that Chicago traffic was heavy, but causing no hardships, that there are ample hotel accommodations, and that there was plenty of pay parking space at the gates of the exposition.

Rides 2,000 Miles

Bernard Rattner, former Chicago boy, who rode a horse 2,000 miles from the Rio Grande valley in Texas, arrived at the Fair yesterday. He was met at the gates by a Boy Scout band and escorted to the domestic animal show where his horse and pack animal will be on exhibition.

SOCIAL SERVICE EXHIBIT SHOWS 100 YEARS' WORK

Fair Display First of Kind Ever Assembled.

For the first time in the history of social service its story has been written in such a manner as to be understood by the lay public. For hours yesterday visitors at A Century of Progress viewed the first exhibit of its kind ever assembled and remained to ask questions.

The exhibits just completed occupy seven rooms in the Social Science building. They represent the work of 90 of Chicago's social and welfare agencies as well as the state and county departments of public welfare.

Stories Begin 100 Years Ago.

In each of the seven rooms the story of social service begins in 1833 before laws governed the care of the sick and dependent. Now there is legislation in 20 welfare fields which fall into four classes—treatment, care-control, prevention and protection. Murals and dioramas present a vivid picture of the old ideas of alms, with the Lady Bountiful descending the steps of a church, giving alms to a beggar "for the good of her soul." With this is contrasted the social service agency which comes to the aid of a family and sets it on its feet again. Everywhere is stressed the social idea of keeping the family together, and where that is impossible, the giving of individual care.

A hundred years ago, the dioramas show, the alms house herded together within four walls the aged, the insane, the blind, criminals, degenerates, and the unmarried mother. Today the mentally ill are cared for in state or private institutions; restraint devices have become museum pieces; the aged have been taken out of the almshouses; children are in orphanages or in private homes, and widowed mothers draw mothers' pensions so they may stay with their children.

Show Progress of Century.

Before the advent of the big city children found their recreational interests in yards about the home; now there must be playgrounds, community halls, and summer camps.

One exhibit traces the history of public health from the primitive mother to the present public health nurse, the visiting industrial, rural, frontier nurse and school nurse. Another traces the treatment of delinquency and crime from the flogging of juveniles to the juvenile court and probation.

"We social workers often feel that we are not making progress," one of them confided yesterday. "But when we look back 100 years we know we are."

RABBIS VOICE LIBERAL VIEW ON DIETARY LAWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 23.—[Special.]—The central conference of American rabbis at their 44th annual convention at Temple Emanu-El B'ne Jeshuran today for the first time in years voiced a liberal attitude towards Kashruth, the observance of Jewish dietary laws, when they defeated a recommendation that would have recorded the conference "as being opposed to invoking courts for safeguarding and regulating Kashruth in any form."

Rabbi Joseph Rauch of Louisville, Ky., who made the recommendation in his paper on church and state, contended that Jewish groups that appealed for court aid in their attempt to prevent nonkosher food from being sold as kosher were violating the principal of the separation of the church and state. Furthermore, he contended, arguments on this question in New York, Chicago and Cleveland, had given Jews a black name.

A storm of opposition arose, led by Rabbi Samuel Schulman, New York. Dr. Schulman said that to take such a stand would tend to antagonize orthodox and conservative elements, with whom reform rabbis are trying to coöperate.

"It is not for us," he pleaded, "to tell the world what is important in Judaism and what is not. An orthodox Jew would be deeply hurt that reform rabbis treat a matter, which is held to by a large portion of Jewry so lightly," he stated. "In no circumstances shall we say that we should never go to the courts."

Dr. Rauch then withdrew the controversial subject from his report. It reversed a general principle adopted two years ago which said it was wrong for a state to enforce what was purely a religious and sectarian matter.

10,000 ENGINEERS TO INVADE FAIR THIS WEEK-END

More than 10,000 American and European engineers, including some of the most distinguished members of the profession, are arriving here this weekend for the annual meetings of their respective societies and for the celebration beginning Monday of engineers' week at the World's Fair.

Coincident with the conventions of the engineering societies, fifteen of which are affiliated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the engineering industry is holding the sixth Midwest Engineering and Power exposition at the Stevens hotel, where exhibits will show the mechanical progress of the last 100 years.

Armour Institute, Chicago's engineering college, is sponsoring the educational features of the show and will have an exhibit, including the world's smallest engine, a machine weighing fourteen ounces, which was developed at the school.

An outstanding feature of engineers' week at the Fair will be the presentation Wednesday at Soldiers' field of the Daniel Guggenheim medal to Juan de la Cierva, inventor of the autogiro. The Guggenheim award is made annually for the outstanding aeronautical contribution of the year.

HAMILTON CLUB PLANS BIRTHDAY PARTY AT FAIR

The Hamilton club of Chicago will celebrate its 43d birthday today with a visit to the World's Fair.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m., when 500 members of the club leave the clubhouse in special buses led by the Hamilton club girls' band, composed of 150 girls all under 16 years of age. The girls are all sisters or daughters of the club members.

The party will reach the 14th street gate at 2 o'clock, where they will be met by officials of the Fair, and will proceed to the Court of Honor in the Hall of Science. Walter E. Beebe, chairman of the day, will introduce speakers and music will be provided by the girls' band and a male chorus of ninety voices. The musical program and a speech by Frederick A. Rowe, president of the Hamilton club, will be broadcast over a national network of radio stations.

PEOPLE FROM 20 COUNTRIES SEE TRIBUNE MUSEUM

Visitors from 20 foreign countries and 46 states of the United States have inspected THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE historical museum, on the 20th floor of Tribune Tower, since its opening on June 2. Approximately 6,500 people have signed the register after passing through the museum. Among the visitors during the last week was Merton J. Healy of Chicago, who said that his uncle had a hand in setting the type for the edition that carried news of the Chicago fire. The old editions of THE TRIBUNE in which the great events of the last 75 years are reported are among the most popular of the exhibits in the museum.

COW HAS HER DAY AT DEDICATION OF FAIR DAIRY HALL

Exhibits Show Work for Health of Public.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Tributes to the dairy cow, "foster mother of the human race," and to the gigantic industry built upon the production and distributing of milk products were voiced yesterday in dedicatory ceremonies for the Dairy Industries hall on Northerly island at the World's Fair.

The colorful rotund structure, erected at a cost of $210,000, was presented to the Century of Progress exposition by Dr. H. E. Van Norman, noted dairy authority who has directed the creation of the dairy industry's exhibition hall. It was accepted by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, "to wear as a jewel in our crown."

Leading Nations Drink Milk.

"This building and its fund of information is designed to show how professional and commercial interests have combined their efforts to promote the increased health of the people," declared Dr. A. D. Black, president of the Chicago Centennial Dental Congress.

"The dairy cow supplies a food which contains more of the essential elements than any other food," he said.

More than 1,800 firms or individuals in the industry contributed to the building of the hall, Dr. Van Norman pointed out, and leaders in dairying from coast to coast were in attendance at yesterday's functions.

Honor Pasteur and Babcock.

Unique in its architectural features, the dairy building has but one entrance, which leads by curving, darkened paths to the large theater in which a color organ projects the history of the dairy industry upon a huge, curved screen.

Portraits of the two leading scientists in the eyes of the industry—Louis Pasteur, who perfected pasteurization, and Dr. Stephen Babcock, who invented a simple test for the butterfat content of milk—grace one wall.

In another niche is the lifelike image of a cow. Her head moves, her eyelids open and close, her tail moves, yet within her mechanized body one may see the action of the heart, the stomach, and other processes of converting feeds to milk, each process being carried on by minute figures of men as in a factory.

LAST 50 YEARS CALLED GOLDEN AGE OF MEDICINE

The last fifty years was described as the "golden age of medicine" last night by Mr. Isaac Abt, noted pediatrician, in a lecture in the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress. It has only been in the last century, he said, that the nature and causes of infection have been understood.

Going back into the history of Chicago, Mr. Abt said that in 1818 governmen physicians served Fort Dearborn and the hamlet of Chicago. He described the ravages of the diseases infesting the country in the early days such as cholera and malaria. It was not until 1890, he said, when a milk commission was formed, that an organized effort was made to bring the infant death rate under control. In 1910 this commission was replaced by the Infant Welfare society.

LARGEST CROWD SINCE OPENING ATTENDS FAIR

Children's Day Programs Boost Attendance.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Attendance at the World's Fair reached a new high mark last night, with 137,433 paid admissions registered at 11:30 p. m.

The total was five thousand ahead of the previous high mark, established last Sunday, when there were 132,490 paid admissions, and far exceeded the opening day attendance of 119,675 established on May 27.

The most colorful children's day program yet presented was credited by officials of the Fair with serving as the lure which attracted thousands of the visitors. The turnstiles clicked steadily from the morning opening hour, which found several thousand children, most of them accompanied by their parents, waiting to enter.

Fair Officials Amazed.

"We are amazed at the attendance," Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager, said. "For the last week the crowds have far exceeded our estimates and it is impossible to say how high the figures will go. Naturally we are delighted. It means the success of the Fair, involving all that means to the surrounding areas and the industries of the middle west."

The crowds themselves were not the least important item in yesterday's entertainment. Presenting a surging sea of color the thousands of visitors stormed the exhibits, pushed gayly up and down the Avenue of Flags and overran Enchanted island. But even where the crowds were most dense they were orderly and good natured. Fresh breezes from the lake kept the crowds in a holiday mood and prevented the little children from becoming overheated and tired, ruining the day for themselves as well as for their parents.

Despite the fact that picnic boxes were in evidence all over the Fair the restaurants seemed to be doing a thriving business. Many of the cafes along the Midway permitted box lunches to be served on their tables, selling drinks and desserts. Concessionaires appeared to be doing all they could to make the day a joy for their youthful visitors.

Parade Long and Colorful.

The special program started in the morning with a parade but not the parade of other children's day. It was the longest and most colorful yet presented. Leading off were four Fair policemen, their scarlet tunics and white pith helmets gleaming in the summer sun.

Next in order were the Third field artillery band and the infantry troops from Camp Whistler, giving the parade that military air without which any children's day would be a trifle flat.

Following the straight lines of marching men came the circus features. There were the singing lady, the clowns, the cowboys and cowgirls, and the Indians. One small boy, whose joy could not be restrained, broke from his mother's grasp when the Indians appeared on the scene.

Youngsters Join Parade.

An Indian brave riding on a prancing pinto pony didn't swerve from the line of march, but in one quick grasp of his hand, a swing of his shoulders and a soft chirrup to his mount, the boy was seated in the saddle with the warrior. He waved happily to his mother and continued as a part of the parade. It was just an incident, but typical of the spirit of the day.

Tall, somber Cossacks with their fur helmets looking much too warm for the occasion, Indian girls carrying toy balloons, a Mexican chuck wagon, a stage coach, and "Abraham Lincoln" in a seagoing hack—these and many more features were part of the caravan. For the first time elephants ridden by bedecked mahouts and parading with a bored air, and three soft stepping camels were in the parade.

It was all intended for the children, but if the throngs packing the Avenue of Flags was any indication the lure of the circus is not lost when the cares of middle age are shouldered. The parents seemed to enjoy the day's program as much as did their children.

Throughout the day Nickel was king, providing entrance to the Fair for children under 12 years of age and acting as open sesame to a majority of the exhibits and shows, and to all in which children would be interested. Nickel drinks and sandwiches, made in children's sizes, were available for those who did not bring picnic boxes.

Finnish Day Observed.

Other events featured on yesterday's program included Finnish day, Dairy day, and an assembly of the National Association of Credit Men. A large delegation of visitors from Champaign, sponsored by the chamber of commerce of that city, visited the Fair during the day. The Finnish day services included a program of songs and speeches in the evening in the Hall of States, with Maj. Felix J. Streyckmans giving the address of welcome. The musical high light of the day was a concert of the Humina band of Ashtabula, O.

Today semi-finals and finals of the national outdoor fencing championship will share honors with an amateur boxing tournament as the stellar attractions at the Fair. Following preliminaries held throughout the United States, today's fencing matches will see some of the most famous foilsmen of the world appearing. The boxing bouts will show Chicago champions of all classes.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The smallest Bible in the world is on exhibition in the south wing of the Hall of Religion. It is about one-third the size of a postage stamp and is less than a quarter inch thick. It was printed in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1895.

The lagoon boat service was expanded Thursday, providing a 15 cent shuttle service between the Administration building, the Federal building, the Hall of Science, the Enchanted island, Byrd's ship, and 23d street. Heretofore the only service was the complete sightseeing tour of the lagoon.

The official opening ceremonies of the Ukrainian pavilion at the 39th street entrance will begin at 3 p. m. tomorrow with a parade from the 23d street gate south to the pavilion. Tea will be served at 4:30 and a concert by the Ukrainian chorus of Chicago, the Ukrainian folk ballet, the gypsy Ukrainian String orchestra, and the Harrison school band will begin at 5 o'clock.

The Sunday twilight concert sponsored by the Forty and Eight society of the American Legion on the plaza at the Sears building, will be held at 7 p. m. tomorrow instead of 5 as previously stated. The 122d Field Artillery band, directed by Capt. Haskell Horr, will give tomorrow's program. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan will act as master of ceremonies.

Total costs to see the Fair, taking in all exhibits, are: adults, $26.20, and children, $16.80. These figures were announced after a thorough check by the promotion office of the Fair, and include even the $3 rides on the airships, and rides in wheel chairs and rickshas.

A special train bringing 250 California flower growers for the Pasadena Tournament of Roses to be held in the Horticultural building at A Century of Progress will arrive early Monday. Miss Marjorie Casey, the "Miss California of 1933," who is now in Chicago, will meet the train.

Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic flyer, visited the Fair Thursday to discuss plans for making Chicago the terminus of a flight from Dublin. He is planning a nonstop flight from New York to Rome, from there to Athens, then to Dublin, and from Dublin to Chicago. He hopes to make arrangements for landing in Grant park on his arrival from Dublin.

Charlie White, Century of Progress physical director, will conduct a hiking tour of the Fair grounds Sunday mornings at 11 o'clock. He teaches correct posture and breathing. After the hike the participants will be given a series of exercises designed to tone and strengthen the muscles of the heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, and intestines. A swim in the lake closes the program. The hike and exercises are free and any one may join the party. The hikers will assemble at Jantzen beach.

The 12th and 18th street gates will be open at 8 a. m. instead of 9:30 hereafter on Sundays and holidays, it was announced yesterday by E. Ross Bartley, director of promotion. The exhibit buildings will continue to open at 10 o'clock. The early opening of the gates is to accommodate visitors whose trains arrive early.

The Porcelain Enamel institute exhibit will be dedicated tomorrow by Rufus C. Dawes, Maj. L. R. Lohr, and members of the Porcelain Enamel institute. The program will start at 10:30 a. m. in the court of the Hall of Science, where the group will assemble. They will then be escorted to the enamel exhibit in the General Exhibits building.

The A. Harris & Co. department store in Dallas, Tex., is providing trips to the World's Fair on a charge account basis. Members of the Dallas Junior Chamber of Commerce have been here this week on the first of such trips and a second party will leave Dallas on July 8 for a five day visit to Chicago.

Champion bridge players from 20 cities were guests of the United States Bridge association last night at a tournament at Bridge hall in the Hall of Science. The champions leave today on a cruise of the great lakes. They sail on the S. S. North American and will meet the S. S. South American, sailing from Buffalo with eastern champions, transferring to the latter ship to hold a bridge tournament ending in Chicago, June 28.

Mademoiselle from Armentieres, who was the subject of many jokes, songs and stories of returning American soldiers after the world war, will be introduced as a new feature on Tony Sarg's marionette show at the Streets of Paris tonight.

Employes of the Firestone Rubber company of Akron, O., will make an excursion to the Fair, costs of which may be taken out of their checks in six payments. Special trains will leave Akron next Saturday and arrive in Chicago at 11 p. m.

Railroad in Grant Park to Be Dedicated Today

The narrow gauge railroad in Grant park, from the Monroe street parking space to the north end of the World's Fair, will be dedicated at noon today. The ceremonies will be held at the Monroe street terminal of the line. Among those present will be Mayor Kelly, Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress Exposition; Melvin Traylor, banker, and Richard Prendergast, head of the railroad company.

A Casual Finds Life Is Worth Living After All

On May 18 Henry Gustafson, 47 years old, a casual, tried to commit suicide by stabbing himself. The knife penetrated his heart. He was taken to the John B. Murphy hospital. There, despite his protests that he did not wish to get well, Dr. Henry R. Kenny sewed up his heart. A few days later, when he was promised a job as gardener for the hospital he recovered, Gustafson expressed a wish to live. Yesterday he was pronounced well enough to work and went happily to digging in the flower beds.

EVANSTON GIRL, 3, WINS FAIR BABY BEAUTY CONTEST

Five Others Get Medals; Few Boys Enter.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Patricia Downs, 3 year old daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Jack Downs of 808 Washington street, Evanston, yesterday was chosen Miss Enchanted Island in a juvenile bathing beauty contest at A Century of Progress in which about 400 children under 7 years of age were entered.

There were few among either the contestants or the 7,500 spectators who crowded the island as composed as little Patricia, who tucked her curls under her newly acquired crown and smiled and posed for photographers.

Children Object to Delay.

The contest was not without an element of discord, however, due largely to the fact that many of the children were kept standing in line in the sun for two hours. By 4 o'clock, 45 minutes before the program closed, their sobs and howls rent the air. Judging took place on an open air platform in front of the children's theater.

It was not the children, however, but the mothers, who caused the guards, judges and officials the principal confusion. Women rushed past guards to the platform to see if it was their child crying. They even attempted to point out the merits of their children to the judges on occasions.

Five Gold Medals Awarded.

Besides the selection of Miss Enchanted Island, five other children were awarded gold medals.

Betty Emrick, 3 years old, of 7251 South Shore drive, blue eyed with short yellow curls, was judged the healthiest. Her sun tan was emphasized by her white bathing suit.

Jean Funk, 4 years old, of 1460 Summerdale avenue, was named the child "with most perfect development." Barbara Cameron, 7144 Ellis avenue, 3 years old, was second in "perfect development."

Elaine Barron, 6 years old, of 3750 Pine Grove avenue, was named the second most beautiful. She is a brunette. Geraldine Sylvia Haynes, 6 years old, of Keokuk, Ia., was adjudged "second most healthy."

Few Boys Enter Contest.

Some of the children refused to go on the stage and parade. Among these was the doll-like Anita Mar, 18 months old, of 2132 South La Salle street, whose father, Mar Chena, is secretary of the Chinese Benevolent association. A few boys were in the contest.

Mrs. Lenox R. Lohr presided, and Miss Josephine Blackstock, director of the island activities, crowned the queen.

DR. WEIZMANN IS IN NEW YORK; SOON TO VISIT CHICAGO

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Zionist leader, arrived today from London on the Berengaria to be the guest of honor at Jewish day on July 3 at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. He was welcomed at quarantine by Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Chicago, who had flown here as the representative of Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois.

At the Cunard pier the former president of the Jewish agency for Palestine and of the world Zionist organization was welcomed by a committee headed by Nathan Straus Jr., Felix Warburg, and Louis Lipsky. Hundreds waited outside the customs barrier to cheer Dr. Weizmann as he passed through to an automobile that conveyed him to Mr. Warburg's house.

In an interview on board the ship he discussed conditions in Palestine, which he left three weeks ago.

"There are now only 200,000 Jews in Palestine, and by the end of this year the number will have been increased by another 35,000," he said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ontario, June 23.—Another round in the extradition proceedings against Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities man, who is wanted in Illinois on charges of larceny and embezzlement, was fought out in court here today. Justice Kingston reserved judgment on Insull's application for a commission to take evidence of certain witnesses in Chicago who had made depositions in support of the extradition application.

Indicating the sort of evidence Insull desires to secure in Chicago, J. C. McRuer, Insull's counsel, cited one of the charges involving the alleged theft of $344,000. In support of this charge a check for $70,000, payable to Washington Flexner, had been placed in the evidence.

"To deprive one of the right to get that evidence would be a great hardship and a great injustice," McRuer pleaded before the court.

Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general of Ontario and counsel for the state of Illinois, charged McRuer with "trying to make it a trial here instead of a prima facie case, to have Insull's trial here instead of sending him for trial to Chicago, where the witnesses are available."

Sharp Earthquake Is Reported at Reno, Nev.

EFFORT TO KILL SALES TAX LOST; PASSAGE LIKELY

Final Vote Will Come Next Week.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Rebellion against the sales tax melted in the Illinois house of representatives today, and it seemed likely that the 2 per cent bill would be passed next week.

Overnight changes of votes which yesterday threatened to substitute a 1 per cent occupational tax for the sales impost were responsible for the brighter future now facing the Horner administration's main hope for idle relief and subsequent tax reduction. Last night there were 72 opposing votes; today there were only 59.

Morning whispers of attempts to bring about a deal between the state administration and the Illinois Agricultural association to aid the state sales tax bill became stronger late this afternoon after Gov. Horner told newspaper men he believed the legislature should pass the Lantz bills.

Taxes for Poor Relief.

This series of bills would authorize the city councils of Chicago and cities of other counties not under township organization, the villages in those counties, and the counties themselves to increase taxes on real estate and personal property for poor relief. Such taxes, they provide, may be levied for any amount without regard to the limitations of the Juul law or any other statute. The measures constitute the program of the farm bloc in opposition to the 2 cent retail tax the governor is backing.

Despite the greater showing of strength made by the sales tax bill today, it is said the governor fears the bill will not pass unless additional support is obtained.

He was asked whether it was true that he had been called upon by Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, and had agreed to support the Lantz bills.

"Yes," he replied. "I think they ought to go through."

But he denied that there had been any understanding at the conference that the farm bloc, as a result of the talk, will deliver votes for the sales tax. He said that Smith "is not opposed" to that bill.

All Amendments Defeated.

It was not difficult for the administration leader, Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], to send the bill to third reading this afternoon, untouched by amendments. All amendments offered were defeated, but at the price of searing oratory directed at the governor and the Democratic party as a whole.

Although not considered a perfect gauge of sentiment, the best test of strength offered today was on a motion by H. D. Sparks [Rep., Shelbyville] to strike the enacting clause from the bill, thus rendering it inoperative. The vote was 59 to 78, the latter count numbering the bill's proponents.

Whether all these will vote for it Monday or Tuesday cannot be foreseen, but the administration appears confident of obtaining at least 77 votes from Chicagoans and others from the larger municipalities who are now dependent for relief funds upon the state relief commission.

Occupational Tax Defeated.

Defeated yesterday by one vote, the occupational tax amendment was called again today on motion of Maurice O. Kalahar [Rep., Bloomington]. The most effective appeal for its adoption came from Schaefer O'Neill [Dem., Alton], who declared it the fairest kind of tax because it broadened the collection base to include 150 occupations "instead of selecting one isolated group [the retail merchants] as a subject of taxation."

But the motion to revive the substitute was defeated 71 to 58 and in rapid succession other amendments were voted down also. Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill attempted to change the tax from retailers to manufacturers and was voted down, 65 to 65. Charles J. Jenkins [Rep., Chicago] wanted an amendment prohibiting retailers from "passing" the tax on to consumers but failed, 68 to 49.

Assail Gov. Horner.

Two Republicans who have gone after the governor before for his sponsorship of the sale tax, added to previous accusations during the debate. L. M. Green [Rep., Rockford], perhaps the most bitter opponent of the tax, charged that the administration was "using the lash" and "the steam roller" to push the bill. Patronage, he said, is being distributed as an urge to vote.

Searle was more bitter. He envisioned a "Chicago Tammany hall" and referred to "High Tax Henry," meaning the governor, Barnet Hodes of the tax commission and Chairman Lindhelmer of the commerce commission as the "three musketeers."

Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur] took after Searle for making the tax a political issue.

"Misery should not be measured by the political yardstick," he said.

HOUSE DEFEATS BILL TO REPEAL AUTO TITLE LAW

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Receiving only 60 of the 77 votes it needed, the bill to repeal the automobile certificate of title law, known as the anti-theft law, failed to pass the house of representatives today.

By the parliamentary maneuver of postponing the conclusion of the roll call, the author, John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon], saved his measure for further consideration next week. But the assembly, according to present plans, will be in session only four more days before adjourning, and it is believed generally that Devine cannot effect the completion of enactment in that time, as every house bill must have three days consideration in the senate.

The anti-theft bill, which requires every automobile owner to obtain a certificate of title from the secretary of state and provides that the secretary shall maintain a register of engine and serial numbers, and which also provides for the licensing of the dealers in used cars and parts, was passed six weeks ago and was approved by Gov. Horner on May 11.

VISITOR AT FAIR

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, visited the Fair yesterday, making a tour of the grounds with officials and a thorough inspection of the exhibits of his own department in the Federal building. He was received in the Court of Honor by a detachment of cavalry and infantry troops from Camp Whistler, and was received by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

SUSPECT HUNTED FOR SLAYING OF DRY KILLS SELF

Surrounded in Hiding Place in Field.

Creston, Ia., June 23.—[Special.]—Rather than surrender to vigilantes who had surrounded his hiding place in a hayfield, Claude Ridout, 38, of Creston, named by his wife as the slayer of Harry Elliott, federal prohibition agent, committed suicide today by shooting himself.

Ridout was trapped by the vigilantes, armed with riot guns, in a primitive shelter he had built in the field. Harry Cruzen, one of the leaders of the posse, warned Ridout that if he moved the vigilantes would "shoot, and shoot to kill."

Fugitive Shoots Self.

There was a moment's silence, and then Ridout leaped to his feet, placed a pistol against his head, and fired. The posse brought his body to Creston.

Ridout's wife, held in the Mahaska County jail, tonight told officers that she was with Ridout last night near Oskaloosa when he shot and killed Elliott, Des Moines dry agent, and wounded A. A. Murphy, a special employé of the liquor bureau. The shooting occurred when the officers attempted to halt Ridout as a suspected liquor runner.

Mrs. Ridout sketched in detail the gun battle in the darkness on the highway and the wild ride through southern Iowa and northern Missouri on her husband's flight.

Shoots Elliott First.

When their car was halted by the officers, she said, her husband opened fire, killing Elliott. Then he shot Murphy, she said, and, as the officer slumped to the pavement, leaped in the car and raced away.

"I covered my eyes part of the time; it was so awful," she said. "I called to Claude and told him to get in the car and get away from that place."

Earlier in the day Mrs. Ridout had refused to tell where her husband was and to answer any questions concerning the shooting.

In 1928 Ridout served ninety days in jail after being convicted of bootlegging and in 1929 he was sentenced to six months imprisonment on the same charge. Last November he was arrested by Agent Elliott for illegal transportation of liquor.

Postpone Blackwood Inquest.

Oskaloosa, Ia., June 23.—[Special.]—Inquest into the death of Gerald Blackwood, who died yesterday of wounds received when he was shot by one of three liquor raiders, was postponed today to Monday.

STATE RECEIVES BIDS FOR ROAD WORK IN CHICAGO

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Bids were received today by the state highway department for the construction of 11.98 miles of pavement, including several city street improvement projects. The cost of the work will be about $879,347, including cement to be furnished by the state.

The apparent low bidders for work in the Chicago area are:

Route 8, 0.30 miles bituminous resurfacing on 5th avenue, Moline: Geneva Construction company; $6,650.

Roosevelt road from south of 47th avenue to Kolmar avenue in Chicago; H. G. Goelitz company of Oak Park; $4,222.

TEST INDICATES UTILITIES BILL TO PASS SENATE

Final Vote Next Tuesday or Wednesday.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Twenty-four hours after Gov. Horner put his influence directly behind the public utilities bill, it survived a test in the senate which indicated there are enough votes behind it to pass it next week before the assembly closes its session.

The test of strength came on the same effort to amend the bill that was made in the committee on public utilities yesterday immediately following the governor's personal appeal to Democratic senators to pass the bill as a necessity for the fulfillment of campaign pledges. This second time the defection in the Democratic ranks was even less than in the committee meeting. Only James O. Monroe, Collinsville, anti-administrationist, lined up on the Republican side.

Sees 30 Votes for Bill.

When the battle was over, proponents of the bill, led by George M. Maypole, chairman of the utilities committee, said they had enough votes to pass the bill and predicted the final roll call would show 30 or more favorable votes, only 26 being required for passage.

The bill, which is intended to extend the rate making powers of the Illinois commerce commission, particularly by permitting it to establish rates and placing on the companies the burden of proof that the orders are unjust and by charging the costs of rate investigations to the companies, was amended by the change to which Gov. Horner had agreed as a compromise.

As drawn, the measure placed no limitation on the costs that might be levied against a company but the governor agreed to accept the Wisconsin limitation which is one-half of 1 per cent of a company's gross operating revenue. This provision was offered as an amendment by Harry C. Stuttle of Litchfield and then came the test.

Offers Substitute Proposal.

Monroe proposed as a substitute that the limitation on costs be placed at one-tenth of 1 per cent, which was the plea of counsel for the large Chicago companies. Three of these lawyers, Harry J. Dunbaugh, for the Commonwealth Edison company; F. L. Daly, for the People's Gas Light and Coke company, and L. M. Jones, for the Illinois Bell Telephone company, had argued that the Horner figure would mean the state might collect $2,250,000 from the 450 million dollar annual operating revenue of the utilities in Illinois.

Senator C. J. Kribs [Dem., Prairie du Rocher] in opposing Monroe said the reports to the commerce commission showed the companies' operating income for 1931 was only $265,000,000, so that the Horner maximum probably would allow costs little in excess of $200,000 for 1933 or 1934.

Monroe Plan Rejected.

Stuttle moved to table the Monroe amendment, and it was killed by a vote of 28 to 15, with four Democrats absent and three Republicans voting with the winning side. An amendment offered by Wilber H. Hickman [Dem., Paris] to exempt companies from the payment of costs if rates fixed by the state are knocked out by the courts also was tabled, the vote being 25 to 18. The bill then was advanced to third reading, upon which it would be taken up next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The measure to extend the terms of Chicago aldermen from two to four years was passed by the senate, 38 to 0. If the bill is signed by Gov. Horner the adoption of the law must go to a referendum in Chicago, since it is an amendment to the nonpartisan aldermanic act which was adopted by that route. If approved by the voters, it would apply to aldermen elected in 1935.

U. S. COURT DENIES RECEIVERS' PLEA FOR $160,000 FUND

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday dismissed an appeal of two state court receivers who sought to obtain $160,000 from the bankruptcy trustee of the Hawkins Mortgage company of Indianapolis, and rebuked the receivers.

The $160,000 was about to be distributed among preferred stockholders after the general creditors had been paid off, when, in 1932, Harry K. Hock was appointed receiver in a Delaware court and George T. Whittaker was made ancillary receiver in an Indiana court. They demanded the $160,000 from the federal trustee, contending that the stockholders had no valid right to it.

Federal Judge Evan A. Evans, who wrote the Appellate court's opinion sustaining the action of former Judge George E. Q. Johnson of the District court, said:

"The appellants are mere spoils hunters looking for fees for themselves and counsel."

Morton S. Hawkins, head of the defunct mortgage house, has been sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary on mail fraud charges and other officials received shorter terms. The company, once worth several millions dollars, went into bankruptcy in 1924.

Keeps Husband 5 Minutes; Gets Divorce in 3 Minutes

Mrs. Margaret E. Windchy, who had her husband only five minutes after she was married to him, got a divorce from him yesterday in three minutes before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. Eugene Windchy, 7331 Harvard avenue, left her five minutes after their wedding in 1931 when she refused to live with his mother, she testified. Mrs. Windchy, who was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole, lives at 6323 Ingleside avenue.

PUTS 3 EVANSTON BUILDINGS UNDER TAX RECEIVER

Judge Jarecki's Drive Is Turned to Suburb.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $300,812. The collections for the day and the total of uncollected taxes for four years are shown in the following table:

	1928.	1929.
June 23	$ 17,079	$ 46,283
Uncollected	19,216,973	50,178,581
	1930.	1931.
June 23	$ 20,924	$ 172,535

Personal property tax collections for 1931 during the day totaled $40,751.

The drive for the collection of delinquent taxes was directed to Evanston yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Acting under the Kerner-Skarda act the judge ordered the appointment of the county treasurer as receiver to collect back taxes on three apartment buildings in the suburb. A dozen Evanston property owners averted similar actions by promising prompt settlement of bills.

William Lister, Evanston corporation counsel, promised to coöperate in the drive to collect overdue taxes. He said the Evanston city council had ordered all renting agents and managers of tax delinquent properties to file regular reports of income and pay taxes as soon as possible.

Placed in Receivership.

The three Evanston buildings for which County Treasurer McDonough was appointed receiver are: 910 Judson avenue, owing taxes of $3,800; 918 Judson avenue, owing $4,637; and 903 Main street, owing $5,216.

In addition Judge Jarecki appointed receivers for eight other delinquent properties in Chicago, as follows:

Property—	Taxes due.
Paul Bauer, 811 Cass street	11,168
2381 North Damen avenue	7,090
1373 East 57th street	7,236
6915 North Ashland avenue	6,910
609 West North avenue	9,429
6415 North Richmond street	9,316
2300 North Clark street	6,541

Four Evanston hotels were included in the receivership petitions taken under consideration by Judge Jarecki. Attorneys for the Georgian hotel, 1524 Hinman avenue, Evanston, paid $10,000 on a bill of $38,715 and promised to meet the balance in monthly payments of $2,000.

"That won't do," Judge Jarecki said. "This debt has been accruing for five years and at the rate of $2,000 a month it would take another fourteen months before settlement is reached."

Orders Filing of Information.

The judge instructed Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly to file an information demanding an explanation of the hotel's delinquency. Melvin L. Straus, who has figured in many receivership actions, is trustee and manager of the property. Straus also was named in an information directed against the 721 Main street building in Evanston. He is trustee of the property, which owes taxes of $6,993.

A suit against the Evanshire hotel was dismissed when attorneys produced tax receipts showing that taxes had been paid last fall. The receiver of the Evanston hotel was given a continuance to raise money to apply on the hotel's tax bill of $16,056.

Judge Jarecki yesterday accepted a total of $174,331 in payments on back taxes from property owners who paid to avoid receivership action. The largest payment was made by Attorney Morris Shaeffer in behalf of Murray Walbach, real estate man. The attorney gave checks totaling $79,620 for back taxes on ten properties.

Other payments included: 180 Chestnut street, $19,998; 7844 South Halsted street, $6,028; 6754 Stony Island avenue, $7,713, and 216 East Delaware place, $18,493.

Injunction Issued by Judge.

Judge Jarecki blocked an effort to override one of his receivership orders by issuing an injunction restraining the Lurya Lumber and Wrecking company from further demolition of a building at 1146 South Michigan avenue. The building was placed in the hands of a county receiver last week for nonpayment of back taxes of $23,968.

"You cannot escape your obligations by destroying the property," the judge said. "The debt remains."

The Northern Trust company was cleared of any responsibility for the delinquency of $12,445 on a building at 1561 Howard street. Attorneys for the bank said the institution had nothing to do with the management of the building.

Promise to Pay $46,055.

Lawyers for the Cuneo Press, 2278 Grove street, said they would settle the company's tax obligations of $46,055 today. The Mid-West Athletic club was given until Monday to pay a substantial portion of its $90,000 delinquent tax bill.

County Treasurer McDonough distributed $268,500 in tax receipts to the major tax spending bodies yesterday. Of the total, $200,000 went to the city and school board, $15,000 to the state, $25,000 to the sanitary district, $10,000 to the south park board, $3,500 for Lincoln park registered bonds and $5,000 each to the Lincoln park board, the west park board and the forest preserves.

INDIANA REPEAL CONVENTION TO MEET MONDAY

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—Elaborate plans were completed tonight for the special 18th amendment repeal convention to be held in the state house Monday afternoon. Lieut. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, who will open the convention as temporary presiding officer, announced the appointment of Senator William Hardy, Evansville, as chairman of the committee on permanent organization. Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University and a dry delegate from Monroe county, will be invited to sit on the committee, which will be composed of seven wet and five dry delegates. This committee will propose rules of the convention and nominate slates of wet and dry candidates for convention officials.

IN AIR RACES

MISS HELEN MacCLOSKEY.
[Acme Photo.]

GIRL PILOT SEEKS SPEED CROWN AT TRIBUNE RACES

Helen MacCloskey in $5,000 Events.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Helen MacCloskey, 23 year old amateur flyer of Pittsburgh, Pa., plans to climb into the ranks of the professional flyers at the American air races, to be staged at Chicago airport July 1, 2, 3, and 4. Her entry was received yesterday by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events. Miss MacCloskey is entering two high speed events and three races for stock model planes.

Miss MacCloskey made her appearance in air racing last year at Cleveland, when she finished with the field in the Cord Cup Handicap Derby. She took eighth place in the Sohio Mystery Derby and finished fifth in a race for stock model planes, in which she outclassed three men pilots. Her racing technique has improved since then, and she is flying a faster plane.

Opposes Picked Pilots.

She will be a lone woman fighting it out with a hand picked group of the best pilots in the country for the two $5,000 purses that have been posted for the Baby Ruth and Aero Digest Trophy races, both of which will be flown over a fifty mile course. Her plane is a monocoupe racer powered by a Warner motor.

Miss MacCloskey is given much better odds by air racing fans in the race for stock model planes powered by motors of 500 cubic inch displacement or less. In that race she will be flying against three planes similar to her own and a Cessna cabin plane flown by Eldon Cessna of Wichita, Kas. Her chances for victory are not as good in the stock model races for planes with larger cubic inch displacement allowance because of the faster entries.

Johnny Livingston of Aurora, who has won air race prizes totaling $56,000 in the last five years, is considered the leading contender for the Baby Ruth and Aero Digest trophies among the entries received. He has entered his new Cessna racer [Warner motor] which has been clocked at more than 250 miles an hour. John B. [Jack] Wright of Utica, N. Y., is another favorite. He will fly Livingston's monocoupe racer [Warner motor].

Harold Neumann of Moline, Ill., is expected to figure in the larger portions of the prize money in Ben O. Howard's racer "Ike," which is powered by a Menasco inline motor. Joe Jacobson of Kansas City, Mo., has entered a third Howard racer, "Pete," which is powered by a Gypsy motor. Other entrants in the two trophy events include E. M. [Matty] Laird of Chicago in his Ranger powered racer and Harvey C. Mummert of Hammondsport, N. Y., in a Mercury racer [Cirrus motor].

52,000 Race Tickets Sold.

Earl M. Harvey, director of ticket sales for the air races, announced yesterday that more than 52,000 tickets have been sold. He said that reserved seats and boxes are being disposed of rapidly and that few will be left on the opening day. The tickets are being sold at a reduction in advance.

Among the locations where air race tickets may be purchased he listed the Chicago Motor club, the Commonwealth Edison company, Marshall Field & Co., Mandel Brothers, The Fair, Merchandise Mart, Illinois Athletic club, Lake Shore Athletic club, Chicago Athletic club, Illinois Bell Telephone company, Couthoui ticket agencies in all hotels, Dutch Mill Candy stores, THE TRIBUNE Public Service bureau at 1 South Dearborn street and at twenty-five booths in the loop.

DRYS HELD UP WHILE ON RAID; ALKY IS STOLEN

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—A band of gunmen held up prohibition agents who were raiding a bootleg alcohol "cleaning" plant at Coes place, New York, today, disarmed the agents, loaded a truck with alcohol from the plant and escaped.

The cleaning plant is less than a block from the first precinct police station.

There were two prohibition agents, both armed with revolvers, at the plant when the gunmen arrived. The police said that the agents, apparently frightened, could give no more accurate guess as to the size of the gunmen band beyond the fact that it numbered "from four to twenty men." The agents said several of the band had guns.

PROBE BUSINESS DEALS BY OLD W. PARK BOARD

Reveal Failure to Ask for Bids on Contracts.

State's Attorney's investigators turned their attention yesterday to the business transactions of the west park board during the régime of W. R. James as president. The assistant prosecutors delving into west park affairs as a result of the charges made by the new board headed by Harry Joseph have discovered that the previous west park board in many cases failed to advertise for bids on large contracts, and in some cases where bids were asked the work was awarded to other than the low bidder.

The new avenue of investigation was opened up when the prosecutors, Henry Seyfarth and T. J. Strachan, discovered that the James board sold 86 tons of junk for $3. President Joseph has tried without success to determine why the old park board received so little for the junk, which, he says, should have brought a higher price on the market.

Records Show Junk Sale.

Records of the park board show that in November, 1931, the old board sold 1,200 pounds of copper scrap, 10,900 pounds of lead cable scrap, and 80.05 tons of miscellaneous scrap for $3 to I. Zaslowski, a west side scrap and metal dealer.

"An examination was made of the cash received book and the accounts receivable record of L. Zaslowski from the date of the deliveries to Feb. 28, 1933, and no record was found of any additional moneys received from this sale of scrap," says the report by the new park board, which has been turned over to the assistant prosecutors.

Prosecutors Seyfarth and Strachan refused to discuss their investigation of contract awards under the James board, but it was admitted by park officials that the low bidder in many cases withdrew his bid in favor of the next highest bidder. The favored concern thereafter, it was pointed out, had no competition in getting the contracts.

Fees to Lawyers Total $77,593.

It was disclosed yesterday that a number of attorneys, two of them former judges and all of them leaders in Republican politics, collected a total of $77,593 for legal services furnished for the James board. Some of the attorneys' fees were as follows:

George F. Barrett, former judge	12,355.15
John F. Tyrrell, attorney for Republican committee	7,700.00
Leslie F. Bushonville	2,800.00
William L. Morgan, former judge	714.00
Charles Mariner	425.00
A. O. Galvin	2,118.10
Edwin J. Nunn	1,000.00
Milton D. Smith	1,000.00
K. J. Gutzsell	500.00
William C. Wetmuth	300.00

"It seems like the big shot lawyers could get the money, but we have to get along on promises of getting paid some time," remarked a veteran park employé when these pay roll disclosures were announced by the investigators.

TEACHERS SUPPORT MAYOR KELLY; CALL OFF DEMONSTRATION

A school teachers' demonstration scheduled for Tuesday afternoon in the city hall was postponed indefinitely yesterday because of the efforts of Mayor Kelly to meet the back pay rolls. John Fewkes, leader of the teachers in recent parades and massmeetings in the loop, made the announcement.

"Mayor Kelly has been working hard to obtain cash for the teachers ever since he went into office," said Mr. Fewkes, who is head of the physical education department at Tilden Technical High school. "We do not want to do anything that could be construed as antagonistic toward him and want to show our coöperation. The teachers feel that the mayor has the best interests of the school system at heart."

Mayor Kelly held conferences with the loop bankers night and day recently, resulting in the purchase of $12,500,000 worth of school tax anticipation warrants. The cash financed a three months' payment of salaries to school employés and brought them up to the first of this year. The back pay owed to school employés up to date is $21,800,000.

Mr. Fewkes also pointed out that a teachers' parade might endanger adoption of the $40,000,000 bond issue bill for the Chicago schools pending before the legislature in Springfield. If the bonds are sold the money will be sufficient to operate the schools and pay all salaries up to Jan. 1, 1934.

INDICT MRS. OPAS AND 4 ALLEGED CO-CONSPIRATORS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles Lac and James Myzott, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years each in the penitentiary; William Chisholm, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Edward Kupla, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; John Macko, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; J. Stewart Mohl, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Edmund Flood and Alex Martin, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Ollie Ray and Terry Terrill, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge John Prystalski.

Mrs. Bessie Opas, 36 years old, was reported named yesterday in a true bill charging her with conspiracy to murder her husband, Marion Opas, owner of the Opas Motor Sales company at 5114 South Racine avenue. Also reported named by the grand jury on the same charge were four alleged co-conspirators: Dominick Zullo, 19 years old, 3226 Polk street; John De Salvo, 17 years old, 3103 Congress street; Angelo Masso, 21 years old, 518 South Central Park avenue, and Jerry Lehman, 18 years old, 1959 Washburne avenue.

Masso, Harvey Schieber, 22 years old, 3519 Flournoy street; and Joseph Devito, 22 years old, 4346 Van Buren street, also were reported named in a true bill charging them with the murder of Homer R. Barnhart, 24 years old, 4310 Crystal street, during a dispute over a small traffic accident two years ago. The solution of the murder came as a result of the arrest of Masso in the Opas case.

BRITAIN IS URGED TO TAKE ITS CUE FROM ROOSEVELT

Treasury Chief Heckled in Budget Debate.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—The European parliamentary villain—war debts—was driven off the floor of the house of commons this afternoon by a new hero and by an American—President Roosevelt.

Members of parliament had settled down for a short Friday session to give the budget of Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain its third and final vote. Arguments about money always result in a cluster of slurs against the United States because the American taxpayers want their money back. The ogre raised its head as per schedule, but before the debate was over Chamberlain was assailed by Laborites for failing to do anything but talk. The debaters said they wished Mr. Roosevelt held an office in the British government.

Starts Dispute Himself.

Chamberlain himself started the dispute when he declared his budget to be one of strictest financial rectitude.

"I refused to reduce taxation as a stimulant to industry because if I had followed the advice of those seeking an unbalanced budget I would have inflicted upon our national credit an injury which would have taken years to heal," he said.

"May I ask the right honorable gentleman whether he is referring to the United States of America?" asked a Laborite.

"You may ask, but I am not going to answer," Chamberlain replied.

Morgan Jones, Welshman from Glamorgan, introducing an amendment in behalf of the Labor opposition, raised the war debts question and scored Chamberlain because they were not settled. He predicted another "undignified" interval at the last minute unless a new arrangement is reached soon. Jones asserted that the internal debt in Great Britain is equally heavy on British taxpayers and that he did not advocate repudiation, but a fresh settlement.

Wants Roosevelt as Chancellor.

Later Col. Josiah C. Wedgwood, another Laborite, declared he believed the people of Great Britain would rather have Mr. Roosevelt as chancellor of the exchequer than Chamberlain, "for he does things instead of talking like Chamberlain who is not the motive power in England today."

"While we have been talking, America has been acting," he continued. "Few people have much hope in the world economic conference. There is no hope at all unless our financiers and statesmen can see the problem in the same light as they do in the United States and can advance towards stabilization and recovery of trade in agreement of principle and details on measures which should be taken."

The Aberdeen Conservative, R. J. G. Boothby, followed with this declaration:

"When Mr. Roosevelt says, as he frequently does, that it is his intention to raise commodity prices, the world believes he is going to do something, but when the chancellor expresses a similar intention, nobody believes he is going to do anything at all.

"The chancellor recognizes that the limits of taxation have been reached, but he is not able to hold out any hope of substantial economies. There should be $500,000,000 of economies in the budget.

Urges Controlled Inflation.

"The chancellor has been scathing in his denunciation of an expansionist policy, but he had not advanced a single argument against it. By his own showing on the present policy the budget will not be balanced. Why shouldn't he go in for a policy of controlled inflation? It is the only way he will be able to balance the budget again. Almost miraculously at the eleventh hour salvation appears to have come from the other side of the Atlantic.

"President Roosevelt has seen the light. To the indignation of orthodox economists and the horror of the Bank of England President Roosevelt is proceeding to take action to save his own country, at any rate, from collapse and catastrophe."

ASK ROOSEVELT TO CANCEL U. S. MAIL CONTRACT

Atlantic City, N. J., June 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has been asked to recall a mail contract made by the government with the Archibald Roosevelt-Morgan Shipping company in order to effect a saving of more than $800,000 per year. The request was made in a resolution submitted to the 14th annual encampment of the New Jersey department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, here today.

The resolution, offered by John J. Mullin of this city, councilman of the Ninth district, pointed out that Archibald Roosevelt, first chairman of the National Economy league, had received a contract for carrying mail from Baltimore to England at the rate of $6 per mile, or approximately $2,000 per trip, regardless of the amount of mail carried.

The resolution was ordered forwarded to the national encampment which meets in Milwaukee in August for action.

Daniel Henrici Acquitted by Jury in Forgery Trial

Daniel Henrici was found not guilty of forgery by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph Desort early this morning. The verdict was returned at 2:20 o'clock after about four and one-half hours' deliberation. Henrici, nephew of the founder of Henrici's restaurant, was charged with forging a check for $655 against the account of a stockholder in the Arnoldsville Building and Loan association. Henrici was secretary of the association at the time.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOOTS SON.

Joseph Goger, 25 years old, 112 Marengo avenue, Forest Park, was shot in the left arm last evening when his father accidentally discharged a small rifle which was being used for target practice in back of their home.

MARKS BIRTHDAY

PRINCE OF WALES.
[Acme Photo.]

LONDON, June 23.—(AP)—The prince of Wales celebrated the 39th anniversary of his birthday today by putting in his usual busy round of duties and recreations in the enthusiastic style which has won him the affection of the British people.

After reading hundreds of telegrams and letters of greeting from admirers in all parts of the world, the heir to the throne went to Buckingham palace for a brief birthday visit with his parents.

A round of golf on the Eltham, Kent, course this afternoon gave the prince his daily recreation. Returning to formal duties tonight he was present at a naval pageant at Greenwich.

BRITAIN RELENTS; ALLOWS U. S. GIRL TO BOW TO QUEEN

Americans Protest Attempted Ban.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—This is the story of a little girl who almost didn't get to meet the queen and the resultant diplomatic crisis which today rocked the world economic conference.

The heroine is pretty, brown eyed Margaret McReynolds, daughter of Congressman Samuel D. McReynolds of Tennessee and a member of the American delegation. She was one of the thirteen American girls scheduled to be presented at the court tonight. There wouldn't have been any story if Margaret hadn't gotten a call at noon today from Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador, who, as every one knows, represents American social interests abroad.

Says Party Is Off.

"Tell Margaret the party is off," said the ambassador in diplomatic language. Then he explained. It seemed that too many little girls, and a lot of big ones as well, wanted to meet the queen. The evil was not confined to the American delegation. Every wife and every daughter of each of the sixty-six national delegations at the conference wanted to be presented at the court—which may explain why there are so many delegates here.

The court couldn't hold them all, so the chamberlain broadcast a general warning that no wives and daughters of delegates could be presented. This barred Miss McReynolds and also Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the American secretary of state, but left Mrs. Paul Hays, Mrs. Hull's niece, on the list.

Missing a chance to meet the queen when you have set your heart on it is bad enough, but it becomes a catastrophe when your papa has laid out $500 or $600 for your dress and you have just about dislocated your knee from practicing the curtsey in front of a mirror.

Americans Call War Council.

The whole American delegation was turned upside down while a council of war was called to take steps. One of the steps envisaged was to have McReynolds resign for 24 hours so Margaret would not be a delegate's daughter. In the meantime, Ambassador Bingham was instructed to make diplomatic representations and not to accept any "token" invitations.

At 5 p. m., when THE TRIBUNE correspondent arrived at Claridge's hotel, the headquarters of the American delegation, no formal revocation order had come through, but the embassy had reported that negotiations were progressing.

Judge McReynolds explained the hitch, declaring his remarks must not be interpreted as a protest. Judging by the various signs, the judge hadn't been protesting—just roaring.

"Doesn't Care a Hoot, but——"

"We don't really care a hoot about the whole business," the judge said, "but it would be sort of foolish if Margaret was not presented after all the papers back home had announced it."

Just at this moment the telephone rang. As the judge answered, the phone in the next room rang and Miss McReynolds dashed for it. While both were talking a young man, who seemed to be in training for diplomatic service, judging by his cuffs, rushed in without knocking and shouted: "It's O. K., judge."

"Bingham says it's fixed up," the judge called to his daughter.

"Yes, they've just called me too," Margaret answered.

The terms of the accord relaxing the court edict could not be learned, but every one agreed it was a triumph for American diplomacy.

"Thank God that's fixed up," was the comment around the conference hall. "It would just about have wrecked the conference if McReynolds' daughter had been prevented from going to the court."

[Details of the presentations at the British court are on page 13].

DISCHARGE PAPERS LOST.

L. R. Benston, department service officer of the American Legion, asked yesterday that the finder of discharge papers of Harley Mervin Miller, which were lost in Chicago, return them to the American Legion Service department at 209 North La Salle street.

PRESIDENT SAILS UP MAINE COAST IN BRISK BREEZE

At Pulpit Harbor for the Night.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Motor Ketch Mary Alice, Pulpit Harbor, North Haven Island, Me., June 23.—[Special.]—A spanking offshore wind whisked Skipper Roosevelt and his Amberjack II. over a sunlit, white capped sea today from Portland, Me., to Pulpit Harbor.

It was yachting weather and no mistake. Cracking on all sail, the pilot President made the most of it. Lee rail under, in a racing smother of foam, the white schooner breezed away the sea miles.

Goes By Morning's Objective.

The President's schooner danced through the Georges islands, slipped through Davis Island passage, with the destroyers nervously picking their way through the narrow, reed strewn channel. Then northwest through Muscle Ridge channel and through Fisherman's Island passage into West Penobscot bay.

Obedient to the schedule fixed this morning, the destroyer Ellis went ahead to pick out an anchorage at Tenants harbor. But Amberjack II. went flying by, President Roosevelt waving from where he sat at the wheel for the destroyer to up anchor again and come on. It was too choice a day to lose an hour in harbor that could be spent sailing.

So onward the flotilla cruised, now through an open stretch, now through waters dotted with islands. Green and friendly appeared the islands in the warm sun, but knelling bell buoys and mooing whistlers marked rocky fingers straining to snatch the bottom out of a straying craft.

Outstrips Its Convoy.

Capt. Irwin Hall of the Mary Alice ordered all sails set, too. Under foresail, mainsail, and gaff the black ketch heeled over with the drive of the wind. In addition, her motor was turning over at full cruising speed. Both together were needed to keep in sight of the fleeting Amberjack, with the oilskin clad figure of the President crouched over the wheel and her crew flat on deck with feet braced against the lee rail.

The wind twanged through the rigging, the spray flew, and the rock gray and pine green Maine coast spun astern to windward.

"By jeeper," quoth Cap'n Hall, as he gazed ahead at the scudding Amberjack, "but he's a-hossin' her along! Look at her now! That ain't yachtin', That's Gloucester sailin'. She heels over like a cup defender."

Republican Instincts Revive.

"By jeepers," mourned Cap'n Hall. "I wish to hell I was sailin' in her! See him crack it to her!"

Suddenly Republicanism that had been lulled to sleep reasserted itself. A man caught getting soft, the cap'n hitched himself grimly erect in the pilot's seat.

"By jeepers, he must have old Teddy or some of them other cousins a-helpin' him!" quoth Cap'n Hall.

The start of the day's trip was made shortly before noon. Lying at anchor in Chandler's Cove, just north of Portland, the Amberjack was the center of a bevy of sightseeing boats. Among the visitors was a delegation from the Democratic women's organization of Maine, who presented a ship's clock to the President.

Denies European Trip.

Through his secretary, Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to deny reports that he intends to go to the London parley.

Early's statement follows:

"Recurring and widely published reports that the President will board the cruiser Indianapolis for a rush trip to London are without foundation in fact. The President plans to complete his vacation cruise and return to Washington, D. C., as scheduled.

"At no time has the President considered going to London and he sees no reason whatsoever to do so now. Reports from London received in the last 24 hours have been altogether satisfactory to the President.

"Although the President is far up the Maine cost, he is and has been in continuous communication with Washington, D. C., at all times since he left. The state department has kept him fully advised of all developments in the economic conference."

Mr. Early said the President's cruise will end a week from today at Eastport, Me. Then, after a one day visit to Camp Bello island, Mr. Early explained, the President will board the Indianapolis, but to return to Washington, D. C., and not to cross the Atlantic.

The President's two younger sons, Franklin Jr. and John, and A. G. Paul of Philadelphia, a friend, joined the Amberjack's crew today. The augmented crew was divided into three watches with a third of the number sleeping aboard the destroyer Bernadou at night.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An account of the induction of William J. Keefe into office as a United States customs judge, published in THE TRIBUNE, gave the name of William J. Tilson, presiding judge of the same court, as William J. Fulton. The error was made by the City News bureau.

UNREST IN AFRICA

PARIS, June 23.—(AP)—Disorders and disaffection in African colonies, chamber of deputies lobbies reported today, have reached such a stage that the radical Socialists have decided to interpellate the government. Officials denied the reports, but deputies said communists are fomenting trouble in Algeria, that French have clashed with Italians in Tunis and that rebellious uprisings have occurred in Morocco with disturbances in Rabat.

ALDERMEN VOTE A REDUCTION IN TAXICAB RATES

2 New Schedules Put Up to Council.

ent high rates resulted in 5 cents reduction in the "flag pull" charge less than a month ago, the policemen in the license bureau were said to be actively opposing any council action.

For three hours yesterday aldermen serving on the taxicab committee debated the merits of the new ordinance and its schedules of fares. At one time debate became so stormy that Chairman James Bowler [25th] broke his gavel in attempting to restore order. Ultimately Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] and Oscar F. Nelson [46th] were dispatched to the office of Mayor Kelly to ask his opinion of the two rate schedules. Half an hour later they returned and reported:

"The mayor wants to be fair. He believes that the 15 and 10 schedule with the extra charge is sufficient. However, if the subcommittees wish to put both schedules into their recommendations to the council he will be glad to study the situation and report his ideas to the council on Wednesday."

Grossman Drafts Ordinance.

The blank form of the ordinance which was drafted by Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman then met with immediate approval of the aldermen, who pointed out the features which had been drawn to protect the public. Ald. Arvey produced a copy of an editorial in yesterday's TRIBUNE, stating that with the suggestions embodied therein as a yardstick the ordinance measured up to what a proper taxicab regulation should be.

Some of these features were provisions that each taxicab shall be insured for liability up to $2,500; that all damage judgments against taxicab companies must be paid within sixty days after the last day for appeal of the judgments has passed, and that no driver shall work more than 12 hours in any 24 hour period.

The ordinance also creates a contingent fund which each taxicab company or independent owner must set aside as an emergency source from which all damages or other claims against the company can be paid. Just what proportion of the profits or income of the taxicab company must be set aside for this fund is to be determined at another meeting of the committee next Monday.

A Five Year Contract.

The ordinance as drawn is a five year contract with the operating companies. It was on this basis, a long term contract, that the committee members voted for lower rates. They pointed out that it would end the competition between the licensed independents and the two large companies.

Commenting on the ordinance and present schedules, Mayor Kelly said: "The vehicle commission can determine the final rates to be fixed, but time is passing and we must change the present unpopular rates. I will guarantee that the commission will complete its investigation within 60 days.

"With business booming for the taxicab companies as a result of the Fair, they can afford to gamble with the city for 60 days."

Woman Hit When Bat Slips from Ballplayer's Hands

Miss May La Rocca, 31 years old, 715 North Trumbull avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when she was struck by a baseball bat which flew from the hands of a player in a street game in front of the Agar Provision company at 310 North Green street. Miss La Rocca, who is employed there as a stenographer, was struc kwhen the bat crashed through a window. At the West Side hospital it was said her skull might have been fractured. Irving Otterson, 11 years old, 1722 North Tripp avenue, was the player who lost his grip on the bat.

Nicest Tan On The Beach

Now to Be Had Without Painful Burning!

Here's the secret of a gorgeous tan. Simply use Norwich Sun Tan Oil before exposure. Apply liberally to all unprotected parts of the body, both before and during exposure, and you will acquire a nice tan without going through "burn, blister and peel."

Norwich Sun Tan Oil helps prevent sunburn because it screens out part of the sun's rays. Instead of "broiling" and turning a lobstered, you develop a nice, even bronze tan, a tan far more flattering than you get the old way. It is marvelous how it works. The best tan is acquired slowly. Be sure to guard against over-exposure the first few days.

Thousands who used to dread the sun now face it with impunity with Norwich Sun Tan Oil. It must be good—made by the makers of Unguentine For Burns. Norwich Sun Tan Oil is sold by all druggists, 35c and 60c. Be sure you take a bottle with you to the beach. The genuine has the name Norwich on the label.

AMERICAN ENVOY DEFIES FRANCE TO QUIT PARLEY

as a development of an Anglo-Saxon-German bloc against the French bloc, with the Scandinavians and South Americans sitting on the sidelines.

The French are fearful that they may be forced off the gold standard. They are determined to hang on as long as possible, but if Holland, Switzerland, Poland and Germany go off, as seems likely, they may be compelled to follow. In that event the French bitterness against the rest of the world will be increased.

Russia Backs U. S. Proposal.

Even Russia is being drawn into the Anglo-American-German group. The Russians are supporting several proposals made by the American delegation. Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov had a long conversation, which was described as friendly, with MacDonald today. This was the first time there has been any contact between the Russians and British and it is ascribed to the good offices of the Germans. Whether the questions of British prisoners in Russia and the British boycott of Russian trade and the Russian boycott of Britain were touched on was not revealed, but it is probable that they were discussed.

Litvinov and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, will meet at the foreign office Monday. It is believed they will talk of the boycotts and explore possible avenues of settling the row growing out of the recent trial and sentence of two Metropolitan-Vickers engineers.

One of the forms in which this settlement might be couched, it is suggested, is a simultaneous cessation of hostilities. The British embargo on Russian goods due to the imprisonment of Leslie C. Thornton and William McDonald at Moscow, expires on July 19. On that date it will either terminate or be renewed.

Work Goes On Behind Scenes.

Committees and subcommittees were working hard today in every room of the Geological museum. The conference now is in full swing and real work is being done behind the scenes. Dozens of resolutions have been submitted dealing with various technical subjects.

Among those handed in today was one by the Irish delegation dealing with the position of the central banks of the small countries, which are dependent on the greater countries for currency cover. This is the position of Ireland, whose currency is based on sterling and must fluctuate with sterling fluctuations.

The Irish wanted some sort of central fund created by a big central bank on which the little countries could base their finance without direct control by their neighbors. Such a scheme would free the Bank of Ireland from the Bank of England and British treasury control.

The conference adjourned over the week-end this evening.

PROTECTION FROM AUTO THIEVES.

The Chicago crime commission urges the legislature not to repeal the uniform motor vehicle anti-theft act enacted in May this year and approved by the governor. A bill for the repeal was introduced by Representative John Devine. The law is the result of efforts to give greater protection to motor property in this state, particularly in Chicago, which has become the worst spot in the country for the stealing and stripping of automobiles.

As a result of the thefts many car owners in and near by Chicago are finding it difficult to obtain insurance and are being put to considerable additional expense in getting it. A continuance of the robberies will increase the insurance difficulties, and if they get much worse the consequence may be more cancellations of overburdensome increases in rates. It is difficult to account for the freedom with which the criminal gangs operate, because the very character of the crime, with its retailing of the stripped parts, would seem to put furtiveness out of the question and to require organization and more or less open dealing. This species of crime is known to be a training school for young criminals and it is well suspected of having protection.

The act which is in some danger of being repealed endeavors to safeguard the sale of parts and to identify ownership at a minimum of inconvenience to the owner. It is thought by men who have studied the provisions that the law will do a great deal to protect the car owner from these extraordinary depredations and improve the insurance risk. It may be that the state at large does not yet suffer so much as the metropolitan area, but that may be only a matter of time if nothing is done to check the crime. Certainly the legislature should not be so inconsiderate as to repeal the law before it has been given a trial. There is an extensive and active business in stolen cars, the record of which can be read nearly every day in the police reports. Although automobile theft is not localized here, no other city has so bad a showing. The car owners are paying the bill and they should be given relief.

ANOTHER SCOTTSBORO DECISION.

Judge James E. Horton, in the Alabama court in which the first of the Scottsboro Negro defendants had a second trial and second conviction with death sentence, has set aside the verdict. In his decision he says that the jury came to a conclusion at variance with the evidence, the preponderance of which was in favor of the convicted defendant. In the second trial of these young Negroes, removed from the scene of their first trial to remove it from prejudices and passions, only one witness, one of the white hobo girls, stuck to the story which brought conviction in the first instance. The other woman repudiated her story and the prosecution declared that she had been tampered with by the New York radical organizations which had undertaken the defense.

It has been a tradition in parts of the south that the story of a white woman is proof against any denials or even any evidence to the contrary in such a case. The methods used by the New York defense attorney and committee were ill calculated to permit justice to keep the upper hand in a trial necessarily confronted with the deepest racial prejudices and preconceptions. It was observed at the time that the defense by indicting the people themselves was preventing a free exercise of justice, troubled as its course would have been at best.

Judge Horton's decision granting a new trial indicates that the legal purpose of the south is to prevail not only against the passions of the easily aroused people of a community but in spite of the provocations afforded by violent criticism. Criticism is hard to stop when any section of the country permits violence to pay little heed to humanities and rights, and it is sometimes the case that this criticism only stiffens the purposes of the people at fault. But the bar and the judiciary in the south show a determination to make law the rule, even when community sentiment is deeply stirred and impatient to punish, regardless of evidence and lawful proceeding. The administration of justice in the control of such men will prevail. The south is developing a sensitiveness on that subject and Judge Horton expressed it.

A PUBLIC SERVICE NEEDED.

The tendency to propose new government functions requiring new taxes to support them is observed whenever men of similar trends of thought and like background get together for mutual discussion of their problems.

It is seen at conventions where men, thinking in terms of their own industries and professions and not always unconscious of the gain in importance to their fields and themselves, promise, through government recognition and participation, cures for what ails everybody.

The National Association of Credit Men in convention in Milwaukee propose a credit control plan and want the appointment of a national credit administrator. Price, employment, and production stabilization cannot be attained without coördinated credit control, they point out.

The National Fire Protection association in its recent convention recommended the organization of a national rural volunteer fireman system of a million men, with its implied need for regulation and control presumably through some form of tax supported government center. These are but recent samples.

There is no quarrel with these specialized thinkers for emphasizing the importance of their work in the social plan. They invite public interest, however, because they reveal that the public mind has not yet awakened to the vital need for fewer and not more public bureaus, departments, and agencies and the consequent appropriations to support them.

The enormous United States department of agriculture, with its infinite bureaus and far flung activities, had its inception in such an idea of a special thinker and was at first of even less magnitude. So have others of the multitude of government tax consuming bureaus and administrations which are stifling American industry and pauperizing American people.

If every convention would center its influence on the elimination of one or more reasons for taxation instead of devising suggestions for new, even if desirable, ones, its officers would deserve canonization for a notable public service.

MORE PROHIBITION MURDER.

The prohibition murder near Oskaloosa, Ia., reveals all the characteristics of the typical dry enforcement crime. An unarmed youth is killed and the excuse is given that he made a motion toward his pocket which the enforcement officers interpreted as an attempt to draw a gun. This is no legal justification, but it has been used repeatedly by dry law agents who have been encouraged officially to assume that a suspicion is justification for violence. The list of citizens who have been maimed or killed on suspicion is a long one and the present administration should put an end to it. Recent cautionary instructions are obviously not taken seriously in some quarters and should be followed up by more stringent orders. Undoubtedly one of the chief sources of the reaction against the prohibition régime is the indignation among normal Americans roused by lawless violence in the name of law enforcement. To that extent violence has been useful in bringing home to the public the evil of bigotry in legislation and administration and hastening the end of a fanatic régime. But now there is not even this dubious compensation for these crimes and they should be stopped by orders imperative enough to be obeyed.

At any rate the murder at Oskaloosa appears another reason for the states which have not yet ratified repeal to do so as soon as possible.

THE FIVE AND TEN PRINCESS.

The five and ten princess and prince have been married by civil code and religious ceremony in Paris and have departed for Lake Como. Prince M'Divani is said to have cost Father Hutton of New York a pretty penny in an annual dower settlement. There are people who say that the Russian Georgia princes are decidedly second rate to our own Georgia colonels, whose family traditions and innate pride would prevent them from taking a subsidy with a wife. Mr. Hutton evidently wanted to make an honest man of the prince and put him beyond some of the temptations which beset the best of continental princes.

At the same time it is likely that if the Woolworth end of the Hutton family had ever been so careless in bargaining and had ever offered such prices the Woolworth building would not be as high as it is. Mr. Woolworth knew a five cent retail price when he saw it and did his buying accordingly. All the M'Divanis are a bit shopworn, and Alexis, the Hutton buy, however he may seem to romantic, misty eyes, has counter marks on him and shows handling.

Many of the rich daughters of this democracy know what they want, whether it is good for them or not, and vicarious experience, repeated in instance after instance, does not rub off the charm for the next fascinated damsel. If father can raise the price the matter can be arranged. Romantic merchandise is on the counter in Europe, but the Woolworths, of all people, ought to know what priced counter. Fortunes are made in one fashion and disposed of in another, which is a break for some princes, who do not ask for a lady's hand but for her father's—on a check.

Editorial of the Day

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Historically the municipality is a creature of the state. Legally it still conforms to historical tradition. Its incorporation is an act of the state. Its powers are granted to it by the state. Its revenues are largely at the mercy of the state. Realism compels the recognition of these facts of present day law. But realism also requires us to look at the city as an economic and sociological unit, having a significant relation to the unified life of the nation.

Just now we are witnessing a striking development of political practice in America—cities going directly to Washington to secure funds and authority for public works projects. We are witnessing another change—cities appointing official delegates to watch over state legislatures and lobby for the interests of cities. These two and similar changes are evidence of the driving energy of urban units, overriding the formulæ of historic constitutional law.

If laws and political practices were readily susceptible to alteration we might properly call at once for consolidation of larger cities and counties, for a machinery by which cities could deal direct with Washington, and for a more complete autonomy for the municipality within the state. But political change in the United States is slow, almost imperceptible, in its operation.

Harassed by state legislatures which overrepresent rural counties, the cities of the United States must resort to just such subterfuges, for the present, until they have built up a new system of procedure. Then they will be in position to assert and secure a legal status that conforms to reality. Meantime, city governments everywhere must be prepared to put up with a good deal of painful surgery from the incompetent doctors in their state legislatures, as well as a great deal of distressing interference and conflict among township trustees and other anachronisms reminiscent of the horse and buggy age.

AND NOW PROF. MOLEY is speeding to London to pull the economic conference out of the ditch. Prof. Moley has had to turn out so often and hustle around so fast to smooth out trouble here and there that we picture him living in a house in Washington with a brass pole in his room down which he can slide at every hour of the day or night and drop into his auto and dash down the street clanging the gong or probably sounding a siren. And if he ever takes his clothes off at night he probably has his pants stretched on a stepladder arrangement so that he can leap from bed, run up the stepladder, and drop right into his pants and shoes. Of course, he keeps his shirt on and he naturally hasn't time to stop for a coat. When a four-eleven call comes in that the Tennessee reclamation project has collided head-on with the federal emergency commission or that the inflation bill has run into the emergency relief measure, CLANG! CLANG! CLANG! goes the alarm in Prof. Moley's bedroom. Glancing up at the dial he sees it indicates 66-44-88, and he knows that would be the Treasury building. By this time he is sliding down the pole and dropping into his big sixteen cylinder car, and away he goes. He's a wonderful salvage corps, is Prof. Moley. And all by himself, too.

PRAIRIE SKY.

I.

You say the prairie has no charm,
That it is bare, monotonous, and flat—
You only see the lonely farm,
The thinly scattered trees, and that
Black fertile soil, far flung and low
Where prairie grasses bend and blow,
The fields which men have ploughed and sowed
For years beside the long straight road.

But lift your eyes to where on high
Time and space have ceased to be,
To where the glorious windswept sky
Reaches to infinity
And cloudy banners come unfurled
Up from the edges of the world.
Awake your soul—its wings set free,
For there is all eternity.

LUCETTA CHASE.

THE DOLLAR went to eighty cents yesterday in the world foreign exchange market. As I looked over my bills and what I'm expected to pay in income taxes I don't think I'm going to keep out of the poorhouse unless I can buy dollars cheaper than eighty cents apiece. About three dollars and thirty-five cents a bushel for dollars is all I could pay and get any kind of break.

RATTLESNAKES are reported being seen all around in the Bronx and other places in New York. Out here you still have to say you've been bitten by a snake to get a doc to write you a whisky prescription, but in New York they only have to see one. But that is a big improvement on general conditions down there. For a long time after the government took the ban off the docs writing prescriptions they didn't have to do any more in New York than look at the snake pictures in the encyclopedias and they wore the ones in the public libraries all out.

FOR THOUGHTS HAVE POWER.

I will not hold an unkind thought;
For thoughts have power to curse or bless,
And many sorrows they have brought.
I will not hold an unkind thought.
And when, unasked, they come, I've taught
Myself to dream of happiness.
I will not hold an unkind thought;
For thoughts have power to curse or bless.

SECRETARY HULL has had to formally deny rumors he is going to resign. Now, that's something that Ambassador Brookhart never has had to do and never will have to do. No rumor would have the brazen effrontery even to whisper that Mr. Brookhart would ever quit a public job. And any rumor that so much as tried to say quit wouldn't be able to wiggle more than five feet from where it started before it would give up in despair and flop right over on its back and die.

EPITAPH FOR A QUIET MAN.

Some bent of mind denied him the acclaim
The skillful earn who play for their applause.
Life in his philosophy was not a game
Nor an encounter tooth and nail and claws.
A pacifist, you might have called him then,
Meekness his attribute, and the other cheek
He turned to meet the palms of hostile men,
Nor ever in a passion sought to speak.
His modulated tone was music slow
And quietly he moved along life's way,
Content to take the world as it would go
And live the fullness of each passing day.
His was a life dispassionate through the years,

ROLL YOUR OWN.

It has been said that everybody talks about the weather, even complains about it most of the time, but nobody does anything about it. The answer is that nothing can be done about it.

The reply is about as flippant and superficial as the original witticism. It is true when taken in general that no man can do anything about it. But, in a sense, a man can do a lot about his immediate weather. A man particularly feels the weather as it is exhibited by the air that lies between his coat and his skin. There is a layer of air trapped against his body, and held in the meshes of his clothing, and its condition is the weather to him. Since his skin is almost one hundred all the time, whereas the temperature of the general air rarely registers as high as that, the man's skin is more of a heater than is the sun, so far as that man's immediate world is concerned.

Therefore, instead of grouching about what the sun is doing a man should sweep his own doorstep. The less air that is trapped next his skin, and the more closely it is trapped, the hotter the world will appear to the individual. For that reason, in hot weather the minimum amount of clothing allowed by the rules of the game should be worn. Let that clothing be as loose in weave as possible. Have few tight places such as collars and other bands, corsets, and garters. In very cold weather it is well to wear a coat that tucks in at the waist or is held tight there by some sort of band, sleeves that fit the arms closely at the wrist, trousers that are bound against the ankles, and some sort of a shirt that is snug at the neck or even ends in a cap arrangement.

In hot weather there should be no coat and the shirt at its lower end should follow the pattern of that of the Chinaman. There is no place in the scheme for a starched collar. Corsets will not be mentioned since dandies no longer wear them.

Even the lightest of summer wear is heating as compared with the altogether. It is permissible for babies and younger children to be dressed in the altogether except that the untrained younger ones should wear one garment. Babies who go naked from June to October do not have cholera infantum. If they get some spoiled food diarrhea may result, but it does not take the form of cholera infantum.

Nor does the clothing field exhaust the possibilities of a man for changing his climate. His diet may be heating or otherwise. All food, even ice cream, is heating, but some is more so. The physiologic chemists speak of the dynamic heat of meat. That eating fats and greases makes body heat is a matter of common information. The quantity of food is of importance as well as its quality.

Every street has a shady side, and that no man who would make weather to his liking should overlook. Housing is of enormous importance in home made weather.

And, finally, a man can eat properly, wear the correct clothes, and live in the right kind of a house—and spoil it all by getting hot under the collar. The reader knows what that means even though he protest to the contrary.

CAROTIN.

M. A. writes: I read about the use of carotin. Please write where a person can obtain this preparation, or some preparation rich in vitamin A. Can one get carotin at the drug store?

REPLY.

It is sold in drug stores. In can be bought in grocery stores in the form of carrots and other colored vegetables.

BE CAREFUL.

P. K. writes: When taking sunbaths should a person apply anything to his skin? If so, what and when—before or after taking the sunbath?

REPLY.

No. But be careful to graduate the exposure so as to prevent sunburn. By being careful you can get a good tan without any burning or blistering. Caution, not chemicals, is what you need.

UNOCCUPIED BUILDING.

Chicago, June 19.—[Friend of the People.]—At the corner of our block is an uncompleted apartment building. The windows and doors have been boarded up a time or two, but recently a gang of men cleaning up tore a board from one of the doors facing Jarvis avenue and since then, by obtaining access through this opening, children and others enter the building. What department of the city should this be reported to? J. S. W.

The building in question is in the hands of receivers, whom we have notified to board up all door and window openings and keep building in a safe condition.

GUARDIANSHIP ESTATE.

Chicago, June 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—At the time of my father's death I was a minor. My share of an estate divided between eight amounted to $5,000. 1. My brother, who remained on the homestead, was my guardian. My share was not given to me when I became of age. 2. I have my brother's note for the amount which has accumulated. 3. During the hard times the last few years the government has taken the mortgage. 4. Is there any chance for me to regain any part of that which is due me? I am the only one of the eight who did not receive his share. H. R. S.

1. The guardianship estate should have been created and there should be sureties on the guardian's bond.
2. This seems to imply that maybe no estate was created. Your facts are not clear enough for us to advise you.
3. We do not understand your facts on this point.
4. Yes, your chances seem good enough to warrant going over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 24, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—The administration food control bill was passed by the house last night after amendments had been written into it putting into effect what amounts to nation-wide prohibition for the duration of the war. These amendments provide: 1. No person shall use any foods, foodstuffs, or feeds, except for governmental purposes, in the production of alcoholic beverages. 2. The President is authorized, if, in his opinion, it is necessary, to require any person having control of alcoholic or distilled liquors, to turn them, or any proportion of them necessary, over to the government for use or redistillation for use in the manufacture of munitions or other military or hospital supplies. An amendment by Representative Lenroot to permit the manufacture of light wines and beer was defeated.

PETROGRAD.—News from various centers yesterday indicated both a clearing of the situation and in other spots a spread of chaos. In Moscow Elihu Root, the American commissioner, made two addresses to the working classes and soldiers and roused them to an enthusiastic indorsement of the program for continuing the war. Meantime Petrograd anarchists, who have seized the country home of Gen. Burnovo, refuse to yield possession and will hold an armed demonstration against the government today, the outcome of which is problematical.

WAR SUMMARY.—Paris reports a lull in the German counter offensive along the Chemin des Dames. A dispatch from the front says the Teutons have been unable to break the line at any point. Berlin claims success on a mile front. Petrograd and Berlin report renewed fighting of minor character on the Russian front.

CHICAGO.—Anti-administration forces in the city hall and State's Attorney Hoyne in his offices in the Criminal court spent yesterday laying the mines with a view to blowing the mayor and his newly appointed school board off the pay rolls. The proposed action against the mayor will be taken in the city council judiciary committee. Ald. Otto Kerner of the Twelfth ward, backed by a majority of the members of the judiciary committee, will move at a special session this morning to draft a resolution to be presented to the council tomorrow calling upon the mayor to resign.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Illinois will determine in November, 1918—by direct vote of the people—whether or not the state shall be pulled out of the mud. Gov. Lowden yesterday signed the Meents $60,000,000 good roads bill, submitting the bond issue to the voters.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—[a] What rate of speed had the engineer Hogan attained with the locomotive 999 during the Columbian Exposition? [b] Was Hogan's speed that year the record at that date? [c] What is the present record speed for locomotives?

ANSWER—[a and b] The 999 attained a speed of 112 miles an hour, which was the fastest speed at that time. [c] There is no official speed record for locomotives at the present time. Many of the engines on fast trains are designed to go 130 miles per hour, but it is doubtful if they have ever been run at top speed.

QUESTION—Does the one dollar bill with a star before the serial number have an increased value at the Fair?

ANSWER—No.

QUESTION—I have a ticket for the old Columbian Exposition. Does it have any value at this Fair?

ANSWER—No.

AT OAK STREET.

Chicago, June 17.—I have been swimming at Oak street for the last twelve years and never have conditions been so bad as they are now. We thought it couldn't be any worse last year. Most people figured that with a new party in power and a changed personnel the conditions at the beach would also change. They did. And for the worse.

The following are some of my experiences so far this year: On Sunday, June 11, I was told to stay in close to shore, as there were too many people at the beach to allow any swimming. After the wind changed we were forbidden to go in at all because "the water was soon to be rough." On Monday, June 12, when the lake was warm and almost calm, we were told we couldn't go off the pier "because there were not enough people at the beach," but we could wade out to a life guard in a boat about 50 feet off shore. Then we couldn't swim three feet either way of him without being yelled at. On this occasion there were only about a dozen people at the beach and a total of eight life guards on duty. On inquiring about the rules I was told that there were so few people present that keeping them out of the water or making them stay close to the boats made it easier for the guards. They certainly are a pessimistic lot; they figure you are going to do just one thing when you come to the beach, and that is drown.

The commissioners of Lincoln park have granted permits to private concerns to build boat landings on beach territory this year. I just wonder if some unfortunate swimmer will have to pay with his life before the authorities decide that a beach accommodating thousands of people is no place to have motor boats racing about. Lincoln park might just as well turn all the animals in the zoo loose on the people as turn motor boats loose among the bathers. Maybe they want the boats to run over the swimmers as an excuse for saying the beach is unsafe and closing it to the public for good.

The situation is ironical, to say the least. The people of Chicago pay millions in taxes every year for the upkeep of Lincoln park so that they might have recreational facilities and a certain amount of protection, and what do they get? Instead of conveniences for the public such as diving boards and ladders we get boat landings for private use and a park full of verboten signs. Instead of protection we get guards that either run us out or won't let us go in the water. FRED CONNELLY.

THE LAWNS IN LINCOLN PARK.

Chicago, June 21.—What is the matter with the Democratic administration in Lincoln park? It is only the middle of June, but the grass is burned brown. Never in July or August during the last four years has Lincoln park looked as frazzled as it does now. There seem to be plenty of laborers moving about, but no one adjusting a hose. Perhaps the Democrats rely upon their wet policy to keep Lincoln park green. W. S. BURCH.

THE BAND CONTEST IN EVANSTON.

Evanston, Ill., June 12.—In spite of the emphatic denials of Drs. Pollard and Alexander, the food served to the contestants in the national high school band contest, held last week in Evanston, was not only "not outstanding" but even unfit to eat.

Many citizens of Evanston, sensing their civic duty in housing these young visitors, inconvenienced themselves to receive them into their homes. We expected nothing in return save the favorable reports which our city would receive when these youngsters returned home.

However, some of those in charge decidedly failed to equal this civic-mindedness. Who of this group is responsible for serving poor food and exacting exorbitant prices, transportation and otherwise, when many householders gave freely of their convenience and even necessities to receive these young people? I think that it is only fair that we should know the facts and that a complete financial statement should be published, including the names of the persons and companies concerned. This one affair has done very much to stain the reputation of Evanston.

DISGUSTED EVANSTONIAN.

PORTRAIT OF AN AFTERNOON NEWSPAPER READER.

Chicago, June 21.—A young man and woman driving north on Michigan boulevard in a new Packard roadster last Tuesday evening about 5:20 o'clock, came to a stop at the Lake street stop light and called for the newsboy. The youngster made his way through the lines of cars and came up to the roadster. The man selected a newspaper and settled back in his seat, where he very leisurely read the headlines, glanced through the sports section, folded the paper back and read the stock market reports; then, the light changing, he snorted a would-be wisecrack to his fair companion, handed the newsboy the jumbled up newspaper without payment, and drove away, leaving the newsboy standing on the boulevard trying to figure a way to—I imagine—hit the fellow in the head with a news stand. JAMES WOODS.

THE HIGH COST OF OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, June 16.—We own a bungalow in Cicero which is rented for $28.50 a month. Our interest on the $2,000 mortgage is $120 annually, the taxes $154 for last year, and yesterday we received a $70 cleaning bill.

For the privilege of owning this house, without any special assessments, water taxes, etc., we will pay $2.

Surely there must be something drastically wrong with the tax system to demand 45 per cent of the gross income of any enterprise. S. E. KEENAN.

ANY SUGGESTIONS?

Chicago, June 20.—What, if anything, can be done to suppress the latest and loudest noise nuisance in the loop? I refer to the raucous broadcast wagon that has been parading up and down Dearborn street all day. F. D.

Schoolboys of 1900 to Hold Fair Reunion

Manual Training Alumni Will Meet.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

ALFRED T. CARTON, Hubert Burnham, Noble Brandon Judah, and a half dozen of their friends have A Century of Progress date next Tuesday evening that nothing can supersede. They are attending the 1933 reunion of the 1900 graduating class of the old Chicago Manual Training school at the Century club.

All of them have pleasant memories of the days they spent on Latin verbs and the square root of 16 at the Manual Training school, and they haven't missed an opportunity to recall these memories at least once every twelve months the last 33 years. In fact, this alma mater remains their favorite in spite of Yale, Harvard and Princeton competition.

The Commercial Club of Chicago was responsible for the organization of the Manual Training school in 1882. The enrollment was limited to boys and the building was at 12th street and Michigan avenue.

The school operated until 1904, when it was joined with the University High school at the University of Chicago.

At the dinner Tuesday night on the Century club terrace there will be 35 or 40 men from all parts of the country. Other Chicagoans will be Emory Rockwell, Albert G. Sherer, Edward E. Brown, John Dunham, and James Forstall.

After dinner Mr. Burnham has promised to take the party on a de luxe sightseeing trip of the Fair.

Many Clubs for Society.

The problem of society is rapidly becoming, "Which Century of Progress club will it be tonight?" There is the Century club, the Congo club, the Parisian Rendezvous [after next Tuesday], the sophisticated Trustees' Lounge, and now the Malibu.

This is the beach club of Hollywood, private, of course, that is to be opened July 3. It's hard to imagine the murals, the landscaping, the furnishings and incidentals that are to be accomplished at the clubhouse by then, for it is in such a primitive state right now.

Aldis Browne, one of the sponsors, has a desk, a telephone and a typewriter in a little cubby-hole. He's spending most of his waking hours there. Other sponsors are Sheldon Clark, Weymouth Kirkland, Emil Wetten, Alan Dixon, Stuyvesant Peabody, Farren MacMahon, and Harry Nacy.

It is the Algiers "set" of Hollywood that has been appropriated for the club with an outlook on a New Orleans street and a London courtyard. There will be a two story living room, a dining room, a sand dune landscaped with cacti, a beach with red and yellow and blue umbrellas, and a cool lake breeze.

The membership is limited to 400.

Luncheons at Century Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes were host and hostess to luncheon guests yesterday noon, but separately. Mr. Dawes had a large party at the Century club for Secretary of War Dern and Mrs. Dern and Bishop James De Wolf Perry, just returned to this country from a trip through the orient. Mrs. Dawes was hostess meantime with Mrs. Henry Gordon Gale and Mrs. Tiffany Blake to three dozen visiting scientists and their wives in the Trustees' Lounge at the Hall of Science.

The "scientific" luncheon started with jellied tomato bouillon and was climaxed with fresh peach ice cream. A long silver top table decorated with black bowls of California poppies was spread on the terrace. Mrs. Blake was at one end, Mrs. Gale at the other.

Among the guests were Sir Daniel and Lady Hall of London, Mrs. Robert Millikan, who is here from California with her distinguished husband; Mrs. Irving S. Cutter, looking lovely in white; Prof. and Mrs. Charles E. Merriam, Mrs. Levy Civita, Mrs. Dallas B. Phemister, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Dr. and Mrs. Fay-Cooper Cole.

The after-luncheon entertainment was a three hour lake trip on the S. S. Wilmette.

Miss Edith Cummings was among those who served themselves a buffet luncheon at the Century club. And so was Joseph T. Ryerson. This noon the James M. Hutchinses, just returned from an eastern holiday, have invited 100 guests for a 1 o'clock Century club lunch.

The Czechoslovakian restaurant next the Czechoslovak pavilion had its opening yesterday with that patriotic dish, duck and dumplings, for a party of distinguished visitors. There were

Baxter-Landi Charm Again in Good Film

"I LOVED YOU WEDNESDAY."

THE CAST.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"And if I loved you Wednesday,
Well, what is that to you?
I do not love you Thursday
So much is true."
—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

From this verse the play, by Molly Ricardel and William Du Bois, got its title.

I didn't see the stage production, but, judging from the screen play it must have been an entertaining one.

The story tells of a lovely Parisian dancer who, in youth, is burned at the flame of her love for an art student who turns out to be a married philanderer.

Vicki makes up her mind that never again shall a man hurt her. She devotes her life to her career in which she is immensely successful, the while basking in the sunshiny loyalty of another, and this time, a real man's affection.

Philip Fletcher is this chap's name. He's an engineer whom she meets in South America, travels with to New York and there parts from. He goes forth to move the mountains 'round Boulder dam. She, to pursue her profession.

Five years later when Vicki is completing a New York engagement, Philip comes to claim her. . . .

Reënters the worthless but now wealthy Randall Williams! . . .

From here on most of the action takes place in a ritzy Manhattan speakeasy, where Vicki, Fletcher, Williams and a charming and philosophical Mrs. Williams meet, and the "Reunion in Vienna" motif appears.

What follows is not wholly unexpected to the seasoned theatergoer, but attention certainly does not stray as Vicki, in a welter of indecision, plans first to go yachting with Philip and then to renew the old romance by fleeing to Brittany with her erstwhile love. . . .

The dialogue is brittle and sparkly and the picture has been excellently directed and staged. The Boulder dam scenes are a triumphant combination of thundering reality and imagination.

I am tremendously fond of both Elissa Landi and Warner Baxter, and gloat to report that they are satisfactory as usual throughout this film. A fascinating team! Miriam Jordan is an intriguing personality as the wife. Victor Jory you hate as you should, for he is perfect in the character of whom saith the hero:

"I haven't much use for a married man who philanders, but always runs home for food and shelter. . . ."

See you tomorrow.

Bishop Perry Avers Chinese War Is Myth

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Most Rev. James De Wolf Perry, primate of the American Episcopal church, last night came to the defense of Japan in that country's recent operations in Manchuria and China. Bishop Perry is a grandnephew of Commodore Perry, who opened Japan to the western world in 1869. He has just returned from the orient, and while in Japan Bishop Perry was royally received as a relative of Commodore Perry.

Bishop Perry spoke last night before 300 members of the Church club of Chicago and for the first time gave his opinions on conditions in China and Japan.

Bishop Perry is the official spokesman for the Episcopal church. In his address he even went so far as to assert that cable dispatches to the American press on the Manchurian situation were almost completely in error and grossly misleading.

"The war was grossly misrepresented by the press," declared Bishop Perry. "That war was fought almost entirely in the American press, it simply wasn't there. There was a job of police work which was greatly welcomed by the Chinese. It was a job that had to be done and it was done, and that was all there was to it."

As to the possibility of future warfare between Japan and the United States, Bishop Perry spoke scornfully. He asserted that if war between the two countries ever comes, it will be caused by movements originating elsewhere than in Japan.

"Friendship between America and Japan will establish a lasting peace in the Pacific," Bishop Perry said, and added that "if this friendship is broken it will be America's fault and not Japan's."

"The Christian church of China is not a dream," declared Bishop Perry. "It is a fact. Our leaders in Christian missions in China are not the sort described in the report of the laymen's inquiry. There is no China, strictly speaking. It it just a great mass of people without leadership, waiting for some great force to forge them into a world entity."

Queen of Fair Earns a Place in Vaudeville

Appears with Honor Maids in Loop Theater.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Queen Lillian of A Century of Progress, who was merely Lillian Anderson of Racine, Wis., until chosen for this high honor in THE TRIBUNE'S international beauty-plus-dignity contest, made her stage debut yesterday, with her faithful maids of honor—Lorraine Nevens and Ruth Joyce Hardie in private life—as attendants and partners. Miss Anderson's appearance was at the Chicago theater, as a special feature of the vaudeville section of the new week's program.

The entrance of the World's Fair celebrities comes in a striking tableau at the conclusion of the variety entertainment. The great stage of the Chicago theater is handsomely decorated for the number and the sixteen girls of the Evans ballet, posed in a graceful pattern, serve as attendant muses and coryphees. Ray Bolger, chief comedian of the bill, is master of ceremonies for the act.

Queen and maids of honor, in the rich costumes of the Exposition's dedication pageantry, enter the stage picture under a floral arch. They are, as has been frequently remarked, an eyeful, and they get the salvo of applause that they merit. Then they slowly come "down stage" as serenely as if they were born to the purple of their mythical rank and the theatrical spotlight. Not a flicker of stage fright or self-consciousness. They make their debut into a series of vaudeville bookings with the easy smiles of experienced players.

These girls are more than beautiful: they are clever. They do more than pose; they perform. As the master of ceremonies explains, they have known each other only a few weeks and have rehearsed this vaudeville appearance only a few days. Nevertheless they face the amplifying microphone and sing a catchy and tricky ballad called "Hold Me" with skill and charm. A trio of harmonizing entertainers who have been working together for years could not have done it better.

Misses Anderson, Nevens, and Hardie will continue on the Chicago theater's program until next Thursday night, making three appearances a day. The night performances of this section of the program begin at 7:19 and 9:40.

The other vaudeville numbers are: Ray Bolger, a dancing eccentric comedian who was featured in last season's "Scandals"; Cardini, a playing card manipulator who is exceedingly adept in this most difficult form of the "magician's" art; Frances Langford, a spirited and pretty singing girl; the Four Trojans, acrobats and tumblers; Iva Kitchell, character dancer, and the Evans ballet, sixteen well trained girls who appeared in several costume dances.

In its balance, in its freedom from hackneyed material, and its graceful ballet numbers, this is an unusually good vaudeville program. The addition of Queen Lillian and her maids makes it unique.

Large Audience Cheers Ballet in Concert Series

Overture—"Secret of Suzanne"..... Wolf-Ferrari
Iberia—"Images Pour Orchestre," No. 2..... Debussy
La Guiablesse.....William Grant Still Chopiniana..... Chopin
L'Apprenti Sorcier.....Dukas
Bolero..... Ravel

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This was the final ballet night of the lovely series, too soon to come to an end, presented by the Friends of Music. Being a final night, it was considered wise to repeat the numbers that had been so well received in earlier concerts.

Consequently Miss Page and the Negro group appeared in "La Guiablesse," the Laurent Novikoff ensemble in "Chopiniana," and Miss Page and the Novikoff ensemble in "Bolero." And as the art of the dance is popular in Chicago, there was a large and enthusiastic audience.

There would probably be a similar audience for a third performance, could such be possible. Here are three elaborate ballet scenes, all different, all good shows, and all with the familiarity of repetition growing smoother and more certain in their effects.

The limited amount of orchestral music on the program was conducted by Mr. DeLamarter, who created a fine impression, particularly with the Debussy composition.

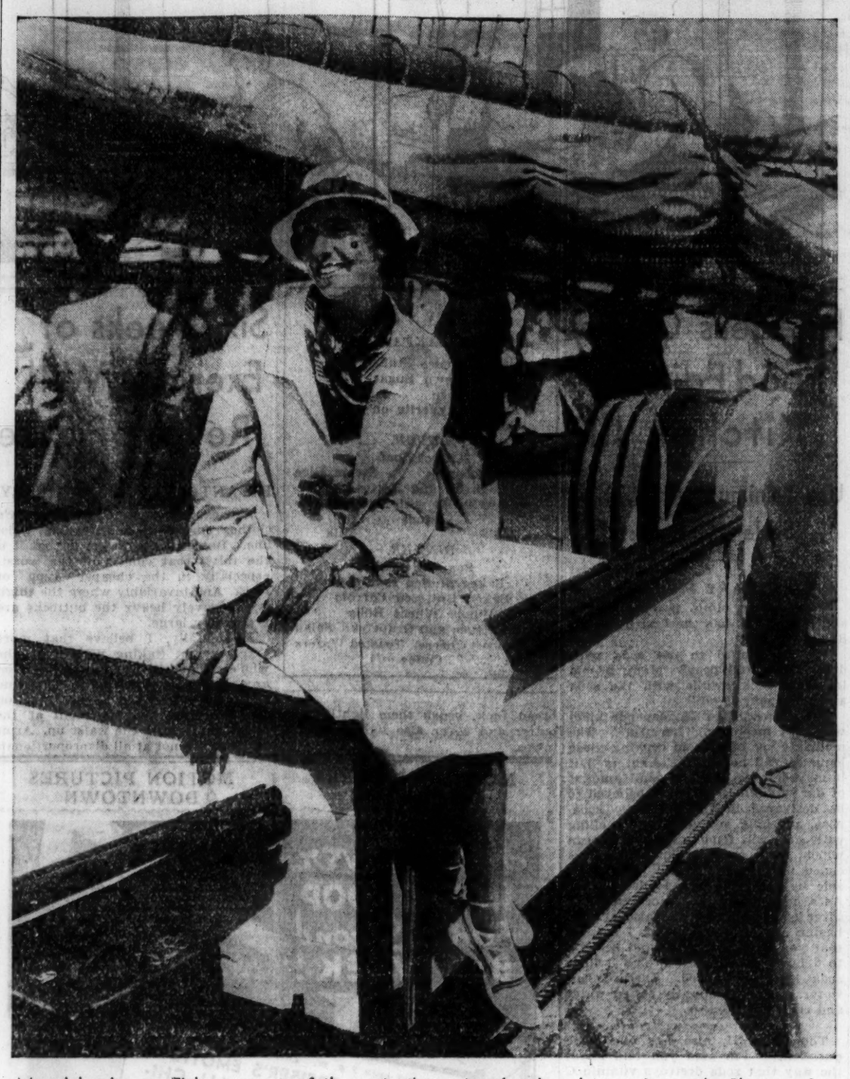
A large group of white trousered Swedish male choristers crowded the stage of Orchestra hall last night, where the American Union of Swedish Singers gave the first of two concerts—the second will be tonight—in the fortieth anniversary and tenth quadrennial festival of the organization.

They are a sturdy lot, disdaining to take their seats even during the numbers in which they were not engaged, and their singing, as sturdy as themselves, had a resonant power nothing short of thrilling. Swedish songs, and good ones, became their part of the program under the direction of Oscar Ekeberg.

Lillian Gustafson, soprano, was the assisting soloist. She was heard in two numbers by Mozart, which she sang with fine, full tone and well poised ease of manner.

Joseph N. Weber of New York, president of the American Federation of Musicians since 1899, was reëlected to that office in the convention at the Palmer house yesterday.

Enjoys Ride on Ship That Has Only Sails



Mrs. John Jerome Finlay was one of the party that enjoyed a three hour cruise on the Bluenose, famous racing and fishing schooner of Nova Scotia, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Finlay, the former Jane Scriven, had chosen a white tennis dress and coat, canvas slippers with no heels, brimmed white hat, and a gay orange bandanna handkerchief tied cowboy fashion around her neck as the most appropriate and comfortable costume for this unusual party at which the women dressed in various ways, ranging from black satin suits to red flannel slacks and jackets. Good Shopper Always Finds Something New

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If you are a serious snooper for something different you can discover lots of tricky new things that leave you gasping even though you have shopped for years. The newest things to earn the best adjectives you possess are the race track goggles, binoculars or long distance gogles fastened to a regular old fashioned spectacle frame. You focus these glasses on the horse you either picked to win or loose, plant the things securely over your nose and fasten the spectacle frame ends around your ears and the fun begins. It's so delightfully simple and easy to manage one wonders why it wasn't discovered years ago.

These trick new binocular goggles are small, compact, and fold into a small leather case fastened with a zipper. It, too, is so small that you can pack it in your handbag without any difficulty.

Two new discoveries for the gal who parks her socks during the summer weather . . . first, a tube of cream which you rub over your legs that leaves them a solid suntan shade without a streak . . . perhaps the easiest, quickest way imaginable to acquire an even suntan in five short minutes. Of course you can suntan arms and backs and necklines with the same obliging stuff, but it is a perfect find for the exposed legs.

If you discarded socks and went back into them again because you loathed the shoe without the silk protection of a stocking you will be glad to hear about the separate silk stocking feet that you can buy in pairs just as you would a full length silk stocking. The stocking feet look for all the world like very scant bed slippers . . . they come in a good neutral shade, they are fashioned with thin rubber back counters to keep them in place and a snug rib around the top to keep them smoothly in place around your toes and lower instep.

Julia Kramer to Become Bride at Church Ceremony on July 8

Wedding to Richard Lam port to Be Held at 8:30 P. M. at St. Chrysostom's.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN a candlelight service in beautiful St. Chrysostom's church Miss Julia Kramer is to become the bride of Richard Morey Lamport Saturday night, July 8, the Rev. Frederick F. Shannon of the Central church reading the service at 8:30 o'clock, assisted by the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson of the Fourth Presbyterian church. The Rev. Dudley Stark, rector of St. Chrysostom's, will be away then. Following the service there will be a reception at the Churchill.

Miss Kramer, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy A. Kramer, has chosen her good friend, Miss Marion Gordon, as her honor maid, and four other friends, Miss Caryl Bloomingston, Miss Helen Lamport, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Shirley Selig and Miss Mary Claire Walker of Racine as bridesmaids. Miss Walker and Miss Kramer roomed together at Miss Wheeler's school year before last and Miss Kramer was a debutante last season.

Robert Heller is coming from Cleveland to serve as best man for Mr. Lamport, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Lamport of South Bend, and ushering will be Alden Vose Jr. of Westport, Conn.; Joseph Birdsell of South Bend, and the bride's brothers, Le Roy Jr. and Henry.

Mr. Lamport and his bride plan to go east on their wedding trip and upon their return they will be at home at 1320 North State street in the apartment of the Kramers while they are summering at Harbor Point. In the autumn the young couple will take an apartment of their own.

Two North Shore Weddings Today.

There will be two important weddings this afternoon on the north shore, both of which will be small, informal home weddings. At 4:30 o'clock in the garden of the residence of George Randell Roberts, her father, Miss Eleanor Roberts will become the bride of Ralph Bernard Mack in the presence of relatives and close friends, and half an hour later Miss Rosamond Baker, daughter of the Edward L. Bakers, will say her wedding vows to Edgar Stanton Jr. in the drawing room of the Bakers' Lake Forest house.

Miss Roberts will be attended by her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Jones, and Mr. Mack will have his brother-in-law, Charles L. Howard, as best man. The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson of the Fourth Presbyterian church will perform the ceremony. After a motor trip north, Mr. Mack and his bride will be at home in Highland Park with Mr. Roberts and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Marshall S. Marsh, for the summer, and next fall they will move to town to Mrs. Marsh's apartment on Lake Shore drive.

For her attendants, Miss Baker will have two good friends, Miss Virginia Chapman, daughter of the John A. Chapmans, who made her debut last winter, and Miss Marie Louise Gardner, daughter of the Henry A. Gardners, who will make her debut this fall. Francis Stanton will serve his brother as best man, and Joseph C. Belden Jr., the bridegroom's cousin, and Cameron Waterman of Detroit, who roomed with Mr. Stanton at Yale, will usher. Mr. Waterman, who is a brother of Mrs. Ralph I. Farwell of Lake Forest, arrived yesterday for the wedding and will be with the Edgar Stantons in Winnetka over the week-end.

After the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. Herbert Prince of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, the bride and bridegroom will stand in the garden to receive the best wishes of their relatives and close friends. After a week's wedding trip spent motoring north, Mr. Stanton and his bride will be at home at 2600 Lakeview avenue. Miss Baker and Mr. Stanton did not plan originally to be married until autumn, but they found an irresistible little apartment, which they could not have unless they took it immediately, so the wedding plans were changed radically. The bride is doing the apartment in modern style and it is sure to be very smart and attractive.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. Joseph Alexandre has gone to Hewletts Landing, Lake George.

Mrs. Stillman Armstrong left today for Manchester, Vt.

Western Tradition at Ferguson Wedding.

The guests who attend the Ferguson-Breasted wedding in Arizona late this month are to have an unforgettable experience for we hear from Tucson, where the bride-to-be, Miss Martha Munro Ferguson, lives, that she is planning to recapture the picturesque, romantic qualities of the old west for that day and as far as possible have the wedding like it would have been had it occurred in the days when her father, the late Robert Munro Ferguson, and the late Theodore Roosevelt, used to get together to talk over Rough Rider days.

Guests who come from the Pacific coast will be flown in the private plane of the bride's mother, Mrs. John C. Greenway, and those from the east will be met by airplane at El Paso. They will then be taken to the nearest railroad point to the ranch [42 miles]. From there the bride insists that all the guests ride in muledrawn buckboards or buggies drawn by pinto ponies to the ranch, which is her childhood home and is in the Burro mountains in southwestern New Mexico.

Miss Ferguson will become the bride of Charles Breasted at 11 o'clock in the morning on Wednesday, June 28. There will be no attendants although the bridegroom's father, Dr. James H. Breasted, will stand up with his son. The bride's gown is to be of yellow and white checked gingham patterned after the costumes of pioneer women and she will carry on her arm a sunbonnet of the gingham filled with mountain poppies.

Wedding on Sept. 13 Is Announced.

The announcement, made this morning, of a wedding that took place last Sept. 13 will be quite a surprise to friends of the Edwin M. Hadley family in Glencoe. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harold Clausen of Horicon, Wis., announce the marriage of their daughter, Elna Mary, to Raymond W. Hadley, son of Col. and Mrs. Edwin Marshall Hadley of Glencoe, which took place last September in Christ Episcopal church in Waukegan.

Mrs. Hadley is an alumna of the University of Wisconsin, and Mr. Hadley was graduated this June from Knox college. After their return from

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"Swell" Garrick, the world's perfect tailor dummy, is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. When a friend, young Alistair, a subaltern in the Guards, is taken over by card sharpers and gives a check he can't meet, Garrick promises to retrieve the check. Maitland, the gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, who is unknowingly being used as a decoy. Her presence makes Garrick's task to his liking. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune left her by an uncle who died in Rome. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but manages to defeat Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda committed to a mental institution as a certified lunatic. Garrick calls on his uncle, professor of therapeutic chemistry, and learns of a drug which will produce the symptoms of insanity from which Rhoda is suffering. Having no proof of guilt Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. He kidnaps Maitland and holds him captive until he learns where Rhoda is being held.

INSTALLMENT XII.

SWELL GARRICK MISSING.

A moment later Kendall appeared. Garrick was watching the woman and could swear that she flashed a warning signal with her eyes. Kendall himself was a bit of a surprise. He was a short man, probably in the middle fifties, nearly bald but with a large, untidy beard, shabbily dressed and looking none too clean. His voice was thin and high pitched. He bowed.

"How do you do, Mr. Garrick! You would like to see over our little establishment, perhaps? We always welcome visitors."

The man had nothing of the swaggering bully about him, yet, in some way that Garrick could not define, he was horrible.

"No thanks!" said Garrick. "I have come to take Miss Fairclough away. Perhaps you will be good enough to read this."

Kendall read Maitland's letter, then looked at the woman and nodded. She got up and left the room and it was not until she had gone that Kendall turned almost absently to Garrick.

"I confess that Major Maitland's abrupt decision surprises me," he said. "Miss Fairclough is a very good patient. I am having her brought here to see you in a moment."

Then, quite literally, Rhoda was 'brought' into the room. The door

"I confess that Maj. Maitland's abrupt decision surprises me," he said.

was opened from the outside and Garrick heard a woman's voice saying with an assumed, oily gentleness:

"It's quite all right, dear! It's only a gentleman friend to see you. There's nothing to be frightened about."

A nurse was holding Rhoda by the arm and another nurse hovered behind her, as if she were likely to break out violently at any moment.

Garrick held himself in check until the moment when he could see Rhoda's eyes. But that which he saw in her eyes made him angry—murderously angry.

Rhoda, he knew, was as sane as himself. But she was frightened, bewildered, had been made to believe she was insane.

"Lyle!" she gasped, is if she doubted the evidence of her senses, as indeed she did.

"Yes, Rhoda! I've come to take you away."

"I can't believe it!" she faltered.

"Of course you can't!" he said. "Because all these people have made you believe that you're off your head when you're not . . . Stop that foolery!" he barked at the nurse. "Let go of Miss Fairclough's arms!"

There was Kendall, the matron, two nurses, the two swarthy men servants and heaven knew how many besides. So far, things had been rather suspiciously easy. Garrick's right hand closed over the automatic in his pocket.

"My car is outside," he said to Rhoda. "We can sit in there and wait for your things. Then I will tell you the trick by which they got you here."

Even as he took her to the car he was conscious of an improvement in her condition.

"I—I'm almost beginning to believe it's real!" she exclaimed as he got in beside her.

"It's perfectly real, Rhoda. You're no more subject to hallucinations than I am."

"Then—am I—aren't I at all—I mean—just a little——"

"Not in the very least! You were injected with a drug that produced the symptoms of madness and that made the two doctors certify you as insane. It was a trick to get your money. The drug wears off in four days and there's absolutely nothing whatever the matter with your mind."

It was terrible to have to assure the girl he loved that she was not a lunatic.

A couple of dressing-cases were handed to Richards—the gates were opened and the car drove off.

"I am taking you to my aunt, Lady Carstairs," he explained. "In a day or two—as soon as you feel fit and have forgotten this nightmare of being surrounded by people who told you you were mad—we'll have the doctors in and upset that certificate. You're feeling better already, aren't you?"

"Yes. You're simply making me believe that everything will come right. Isn't it funny—I haven't even said 'thank you'."

"It's not funny at all. It would, if you come to think of it, be silly to thank me for seeking my own happiness."

She looked up, then slipped her hand in his. Between these two there was a perfect understanding that made a formal declaration superfluous.

"Here we are! It's a first floor flat. You'll like Aunt Martha—she's rather a dear!"

Lady Carstairs was the widow of a distinguished diplomat. She was intensely devoted to her nephew and well familiar with his rather unconventional habits. She gave the girl a hearty welcome and asked no irritating questions as to why Rhoda's visit was now six days overdue.

With the assurance that he would return in time for tea, Garrick tore himself away. The main thing was that Rhoda was now safe—so he thought.

Garrick, hurrying to keep his word to Maitland, decided that it would be as well if the gang were kept in ignorance of the location of the warehouse.

Maitland offered no objection to lying, trussed up and blindfolded, on the floor of the automobile.

Garrick, making a slight detour, drove to Maitland's house. It was impossible to liberate him anywhere else as he was still in his pajamas.

While he was removing the bandages and cutting the cords, George appeared.

"O, there you are, George! Just help Mr. Maitland, will you? . . . Goodby, Maitland! Keep off the grass in future, won't you?"

Garrick took the car back to the garage, then went by taxi to Lady Carstairs' flat.

Lady Carstairs was alone in the drawing room and he took the opportunity to give her as much information as was necessary.

"But I think," smiled Lady Carstairs, "that she won't be alone very much longer."

"Bonniwell tells me that it would be very difficult to procure evidence against her guardian," explained Garrick. "So unfortunately we cannot get married until she is twenty-one—nearly five weeks, worse luck! I'm afraid it's rather imposing on you——"

"No, you're not!" asserted Lady Carstairs. "You know perfectly well that I shall be delighted to have her for that time."

Rhoda came into the room and was followed by Padfield, the parlor maid, with a tea wagon.

Already she looked very different. It was as if in changing her dress she had put away the fear that had enveloped her like a cloak.

"May I pour out tea for you, Lady Carstairs?"

"Do please, dear. It's good practice for you and it saves me a lot of trouble."

Garrick thrilled with inward satisfaction. It was all so ordinary and commonplace—and that was just what Rhoda needed above everything else.

And then, into that peaceful, commonplace tea party, came horror.

It announced itself first in the person of Padfield, who came into the room as nearly breathless as a perfectly trained parlor maid will ever allow herself to be.

"O, my lady! There was a number of—persons in the hall. There are two policemen and two hospital nurses, and they're asking for Miss Fairclough."

Garrick stiffened. For the moment he was at a loss.

"Will you let me see to it, Aunt Martha?" he asked, and went into the hall.

The sergeant looked at him expectantly.

"Do you happen to be a Mr. Garrick, sir?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Well, there's a serious charge against you. I haven't got a warrant for your arrest but I can get it at once if necessary. The thing is, are you willing to come round to the station of your own accord?"

"Perfectly willing! What is it all about, sergeant?"

"Why, you're charged with abducting a lunatic—Rhoda Fairclough—they've come to take the lunatic back to Nympstone House and I'm here to see that they do it without molestation. They have their ambulance outside. And if the lunatic is here it will be better for you to produce her without causing further trouble."

'Produce the lunatic!' The woman he loved. Useless to attack the sergeant, who was merely doing his duty and speaking of Rhoda Fairclough as the law regarding her.

Use Minimum Amount of Soda with Beans.

BY MARY MEADE.

The cookery clinic is open again, and Mrs. M. H. has the first question. She asks:

"Is it harmful to use soda with dried beans and peas? Many people let them cook awhile with the soda and then pour it off."

The answer, Mrs. H., depends upon what we mean by "harmful." The moderate use of soda in cooking these legumes will not hurt the eaters, but it may deprive us of a small amount of our vitamin B, which is believed to be destroyed in the beans by soda. Also, anything but very brief cooking with soda will tend to give us a bean which, while it cooks quickly, yet becomes unpleasantly mushy on the outside by the time it is tender within. As a compromise, and since salt is a giver of good flavor and also acts to hasten slightly the cooking, I suggest that you soak dried peas and beans 6 to 8 hours in water to which a little soda has been added. Discard this water, add fresh slightly salted water and cook until tender.

Then Mrs. H. also has one more question. "I'm glad you told about the way that soda destroys vitamin C in tomatoes. But how do you keep your tomato soup from curdling without it?"

That's a worry many cooks have, Mrs. H. The acidity of the milk and of the tomatoes has something to do with the curdling danger. So the use of very fresh milk is one safeguard. But the method of putting the soup together is the real test. The safest way is to simmer the tomatoes and seasonings for 15 minutes, then strain and thicken them with the blended flour and fat. When smooth and thick, add the hot tomato mixture slowly to the cold milk and heat to the boiling point. Serve immediately. Does that sound backwards to you? But just try it. I think you'll find no need for the vitamin C killer—soda.

Next from Mrs. T. E. J. who asks, "When is the proper time to salt potato chips—after they are fried or before?" Usually after, although good results have been obtained by soaking the slices in salted ice water and then frying without later salting the chips.

Next, a question about butter. "I like packaged butter because it's easy to serve. My husband insists tub butter is better in quality and flavor. What do you think?"

And my answer is that there just isn't any way of comparing "packaged butter" and "tub butter." There are good and bad members of both families—about the same number of each.

Flavor depends upon the freshness of the cream which goes to make up the butter, the feed the cows have been eating, the method of preparing the butter, and so on. As a rule, that butter which comes from the most reputable, most scientifically organized dairy is the best in quality and flavor that can be bought. It is usually packaged as a safeguard against contamination and the picking up of foreign odors.

Next question, from Mrs. G. H.: "How can I make my Parker house rolls tender and soft—not crisp on top?" One help is to turn the oven heat down slightly at the end of the baking. This dries out the crust less. The best way, however, is, when done, to take them from the oven to the bread rack, brush them lightly with butter and cover also lightly with a towel.

Six Weeks of Exercise Will Revamp Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We hear much about how this year's clothes emphasize a spreading waist line. But my observation is that it is the thigh that comes off the worst, especially in the cheaper type of frock. And invariably where the thigh is excessively heavy the buttocks are profoundly large.

Incidentally, I believe that more extra weight (taking women on the whole) lodges in the thighs than on any other part of the body. Time and again there is called to my attention the silhouette that is small at the waist, small from the waist up. Arms and legs are not at all disproportionate—but the things and lower back are inordinately weighted down with excess fat.

The hips, of course, are noticeably larger than the upper part of the body calls for. Incidentally, do you know that in a well proportioned figure, bust and hips should measure just about the same? An inch or two more of hip is not bad—but three, four, five, and six inches put the figure all out of gear.

The bathing suit season is particularly hard on the heavy-thigh type of figure. On the other hand, swimming is just about one of the best exercises you can recommend for thigh reducing. And bicycle riding, which we spoke of the other day. This last named exercise, of course, may be done without the bike if the same mechanical action is gone through.

So many of the dresses this year are cut tightly along the thigh line and pull in under the buttocks, so that the silhouette's faults are badly outlined. Frequently, vulgarity is added to the already faulty picture. It isn't a bad idea to buy just such a frock study the figure in it and set about to fit the form to the dress.

Six weeks, maybe less, of consistent daily exercise will whittle down the protuberant flesh. Really, it will. Exercise designed with definite aim at thigh and buttock. Dieting isn't what this type of figure needs. It's local exercise. I have some grand ones for the job in illustrated and printed form which you may have for the asking and a stamped addressed envelope.

Julia Kramer Wedding Will Be Held July 8

Evening Service to Be at St. Chrysostom's.

a wedding trip to Green Lake, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Hadley will be at home in Evanston.

Mme. Rene Beaudron of Bourges, France, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mlle. Marcelle Augere, to William Carson Lockwood, son of Mrs. C. W. Lockwood of Eau Claire, Wis., which took place Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Lockwood's sister, Mrs. Carson Elwood, at 63 East Division street. The Rev. J. J. O'Meara of the Holy Name cathedral performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Mlle. Huguette Flori attended the bride and John Heise was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood are motoring to Canada and will be at home after July 5 at 1120 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn are entertaining the Winthrop W. Aldriches, the Paul Gardners and Mrs. Louis Morris, who are here together from New York and are staying at the Drake hotel, at dinner at their lovely home in Lake Bluff tonight. The Aldriches and their party are returning east the first of the week.

This evening in their lovely Washington road home in Lake Forest the Lithgow Mitchells are giving a dinner party for Mrs. Mitchell's sister and brother-in-law, the Laurence A. Egglestons of Minneapolis, who are here seeing the Fair with two of their children, Elizabeth Ann and Mary Alice. The Mitchells have invited twenty of their friends to the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Eggleston will be here a week more.

Polo Match at Fort Sheridan.

At 3:30 tomorrow afternoon there is to be another polo match on the Fort Sheridan field with Herbert Lorber's North Shore polo team playing the Sixth Corps Area team.

Miss Libby Chase is to be one of the judges in the children's events at the Sixth Corps Area horse show to be held at Fort Sheridan July 3 and 4, and quite a number of the youngsters who are learning to ride and to jump in Miss Chase's classes will be in the show.

There is to be a housewarming at the Bruce Willis Strongs' new apartment at 1540 Lake Shore drive tomorrow afternoon in the form of a reception for the members of the Green Room of which Mrs. Strong has long been an active member.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is planning to leave in about a week for her summer place on Long lake in northern Michigan. Her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, is on her way home from her California residence for a fortnight's stay in Chicago with Mr. Mitchell and her first glimpse of the Fair, and it is probable that she will go to Michigan for a short visit with her mother before returning to Montecito.

Miss Venetia Dormer, a niece of Mrs. Houston Johnson, will arrive today to spend ten days visiting Mrs. Johnson and seeing the Fair. Miss Dormer, who is in New York just now and who will go on to Ottawa from Chicago to visit Lady Clark, is a niece of the Hon. Cecil Dormer, British minister to Siam.

Mrs. Walter Cummings and her three sons, Walter Jr., Arthur and Edward, are leaving Tuesday to sail on the North cape cruise for a six weeks' trip, and then they will go to Washington to join Mr. Cummings, who has taken up his duties as executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury. The Cummingses will take a house in Washington for the winter.

Tomorrow's Tribune to Contain List of Sally's Party Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Tomorrow should be a very important day for you young "growing-ups," because THE TRIBUNE that comes on Sunday will have—in addition to all the comics and features you children await so eagerly each week—two very important announcements.

The first of these will be the printed lists of the names of 50 boys and 50 girls who'll jump for joy, because finding their names will mean they're invited to my big party at White City next Thursday.

And all the youngsters who aren't bobbing up and down gleefully will probably be busily reading—because the second item I speak of is the announcement of our next big party, which takes place on July 6. So you'd just better watch for the paper boy tomorrow!

Winged Mercury Toques Appear at French Races

AUTEUIL, France, June 23.—(AP)—Winged Mercury toques made their fashion debut in the bright sunshine here today at the Prix des Drags Steeplechase, forecasting fall styles. The smartest women of Paris appeared in toques of olive green, sapphire blue, black, and red velvet, with crowns treated to give modified height. Most outstanding were Mercury toques with two fabric wings. The toques were worn tilted, generally accompanied by shoulder capes of the same velvet.

U. of C. Drama Group to Give "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

Uncle Tom stood on the slave auctioneer's block once more yesterday at the University of Chicago as members of the University Dramatic association prepared to present "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The performance will be given this evening in Mandel hall on the university campus. The student impresarios have advertised that bloodhounds will positively appear.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright; 1933; By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

CLASS DAY.

Due to the illness of Wilton Bershire, professor of history, Fordney was "pinch hitting" for him.

"Most of you fellows," he said, addressing the class, "are more interested in history than in criminology, but it is surprising how closely the two subjects are linked, so I'm going to tell you something of the murder of Julius Caesar."

The class listened attentively.

"As you know," he continued, "Cassius and Brutus were the chief conspirators against the gallant Caesar. They, with their cohorts, secretly met at midnight on the day before the 'Ides of March.' Many suggestions were made as to the best manner of assassinating the great general.

"Much conversation and argument had ensued before Cassius' suggestion was adopted. Wine was passed and more talk about to be started when Brutus said, 'Hark, comrades! The clock strikes three; the hour grows late and we must away while it is yet dark!'

"Silently they filed into the night and went their various ways. The next day, the fatal 'Ides of March,' the great militarist and statesman who had befriended both Cassius and Brutus, was struck down in cowardly fashion. You know the manner of his death, so I won't go into that. The populace, incensed at the act, caused both principal conspirators to flee and they later died ignominious deaths.

"Now, there is an interesting——"

"Pardon, professor," interjected one of the class, "you are undoubtedly the world's greatest criminologist, but unless you're purposely trying to fool us you'd better polish up on your history!"

Dr. Frantisek Soukup, president of the Czechoslovak senate; Dr. Ferdinand Veverka, minister to the United States, and Mrs. Veverka; Dr. Jaroslav Novak, the consul general in New York, and Mrs. Novak; Bedrich Kalda, the Cleveland consul general, and Mrs. Kalda, and Karel Brejska, the consul general in Pittsburgh.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Italian consul general, Giuseppe Castruccio, will have tea in the Italian garden outside the Horticultural building on the Enchanted island. This garden is decorated with statuary from Italy more than 1,600 years old.

Bernadottes Go to Minneapolis Today.

After six days of luncheons and dinners as the representatives of their King Gustav V, of Sweden, Count and Countess Bernadotte will fly to Minneapolis this morning. In the Minnesota city they will continue their official mission and will be present at a Swedish midsummer festival and also will open the Northwest Air races, which are being run as a preliminary to the American Air races which THE TRIBUNE is sponsoring here the first four days of July.

Yesterday noon Count and Countess Bernadotte were the guests of Mrs. Potter Palmer at A Century of Progress luncheon in the restaurant of the Art institute. Mrs. Palmer served her guests—ten of them—a simple menu from her own kitchens on a refectory table spread with a boldly patterned gingham cloth.

Mrs. and Mrs. Duncan Phillips of Washington who are patrons of the Phillips Memorial galleries there were guests. And so were Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, Miss Mildred Adams, Chauncey McCormick, Burton Holmes, and Mr. Palmer.

The famous Renoir, "The Canoeist's Breakfast," which the Phillipses have loaned to the Art institute World's Fair exhibit was requested recently by the officers of the Louvre for an exhibit there Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. The decision, however, is in favor of its remaining here through A Century of Progress.

Count and Countess Bernadotte will return to Chicago by plane next Tuesday.

The membership of the Alliance Française, both seniors and juniors, will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the library of the Alliance's room in the Fine Arts building to hear M. Georges Desjardins speak on Lavorsier, a great French scientist. M. Desjardins is professor of physics at the University of Lyons and he and Mme. Desjardins are here for the International Scientists' meeting.

Artists Will Launch Open Air Exhibition at Grant Park Today

Art not for art's sake alone but also for some good cold cash so that 500 artists may eat will go on exhibition in Grant park this morning. The fair held last year brought the artists approximately $17,000.

The artists will open their beach umbrellas and set up their screens and benches in the park in the plaza at Congress street early today and daily thereafter until the Fourth of July. There will be some ribbon cutting first to dedicate the fair, and present for the opening ceremony, according to Miss Cati Mount, the manager, will be Mayor Kelly, Miss Jane Addams, and Chauncey McCormick, art patron.

About 20,000 pieces of art, it was estimated, will be placed on exhibit.

Yankee Women Bow to British King and Queen

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—Thanks to the world economic conference, the last court of the season, held at Buckingham palace tonight, became an international affair, rivaling the first, or diplomatic, court in May.

Although wives and daughters of delegates to the conference were barred, nearly all of the various delegations from the 66 countries were represented by women curtesying to the queen who for the first time this year was accompanied by King George. Rheumatism in his left shoulder which prevented him from wearing full dress uniform kept him away from the four previous courts.

Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, wife of the new American ambassador, officiated for the first time in presenting the following American women: Mrs. Monahan, wife of the American air attaché, Capt. John W. Monahan, formerly of Chicago; Miss Alexandra Bacon, Westbury, L. I.; Miss Henrietta Bingham, Louisville; Miss Victoria Brady, Gladstone, N. J.; Mrs. Paul Hays, Staunton, Va.; Miss Carol Hulings, Baltimore; Mrs. Henry Koelsch, Searborough, N. Y.; Miss Margaret McReynolds, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Eleanore Preston and Miss Helen Robbins, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Linton Wells, Glens Falls, N. Y.; and Miss Barbara Wertheim and Mrs. Gladys Kemp, New York City.

Mrs. Monahan's ensemble was a symphony in green by Patou. Her gown was of pale green satin with bodice form fitting and skirt flaring. Her train was of the same material, embroidered with rhinestones on the shoulder and across the back. Her feather fan was of the exact shade to match and so were her slippers of silver and green brocade. Over her pale green gown she wore a cloak of a darker shade of velvet.

Mrs. Bingham's presentations were made in an empire gown of embroidered silver lace over soft madonna blue taffeta. The skirt was itself cut with the train of silver and over this fell the court train of similar material. Mrs. Bingham's daughter, Henrietta, wore a Molyneux gown in rich rose petal crinkled crêpe cut on graceful lines and clinging to her figure. Its beauty lay in its extreme simplicity. The cowl of the bodice was cut high in front, draping to a deep V waist at the back forming an applique bow. The train was of rose petal satin trimmed with satin roses to tone.

Mrs. Paul Hays, niece of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, head of the American delegation, was presented in a simple white satin gown of princess inspiration.

Alice Rosman Comes to Town; Has New Book

Popular Author on First Visit to Chicago.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

ARRIVING this morning to celebrate the birthday of her latest novel, "Protecting Margot" [Minton-Balch], Alice Grant Rosman is seeing not only Chicago but America for the first time. For Chicago she feels a special fondness, for it was here that her first book, "The Window," was first received with the clamorous cordiality with which we—in our frank mid-western fashion—are wont to welcome what we like. Since then she has become one of the most popular novelists in the country, and the readers of THE TRIBUNE have enjoyed eagerly serials from her pen.

ALICE GRANT ROSMAN.

She writes the sort of books that anybody can—and everybody does—read. They are novels done with a light touch that never have that quality of dead fishiness or of mushiness that is too often found in the literary handclasps which some authors offer their publics.

Miss Rosman writes about real people and decent ones. Romance buds, blooms, and is brought to fruit; the reader is delightfully entertained, and his or her feelings are never either harassed or insulted. Miss Rosman doesn't write down to her readers who want "just a good story," nor does she insult her more thoughtful readers by giving them pap. She sets out to write an entertaining story and she always succeeds to the joy of her constantly growing audience.

"Protecting Margot" is true to Miss Rosman's favorite recipe of making her characters unusual and amusing by the exposition of what is in their minds more than by what happens to them. Plenty of things happen, but it is not the events so much as the way those events are accepted or rejected by her characters that has given her books their phenomenal success. The Margot of the title of this book is 43 years old, and she was deserted as a very young wife by a husband whose family rejected him for his unrighteous act of running off with a woman he loved. Margot, never being able really to blame her husband, for a lifetime has been managed by that family when the book opens.

Being "protected" has turned into their protecting her for their own selfish purposes. How she is released from the claws of a violently managing sister-in-law is the pleasant theme of the book.

Although Miss Rosman lives in London, and has ever since she went there as a young woman to finish her education, she was born in Australia and she seems almost more American than she does British when you meet her. She's right away friendly and she never turns on that stolid English reserve which so endears the Britishers one to another.

Mabel Tyrrell is another English writer who has had a pleasing American success with her first novel, as Miss Rosman did with "The Window." "Miss Charlesworth" has something of the same quality that Miss Rosman's novels have. It sets out to be charming and pleasant rather than profound, and it succeeds in giving the reader that gentle relaxation which is found in what we used to call "hammock novels" in the days when hammocks were slung on shaded porches and ladies dared eat caramels without a thought of their figures and lemonade, not gin, clinked in the glasses of casual callers.

"Miss Charlesworth" tells a gentle story which suddenly becomes dramatic, not only the story of the heroine who gives it its title but of those whom fate gave her the managing. For she was the sort of person who all her life had discreetly but surely directed the lives of other people, chaperoning girls on the grand tour, for instance, which is one of the seven arts of life in itself. "Miss Charlesworth" is much more plotty than Miss Rosman's novels, but it is destined for the same discerning readers.

"The Little Virgin," by G. M. Attenborough [Stokes], is another fresh English novel. Although it is named for one character, the real heroine is an older woman who, achieving in her thirties an unexpected legacy, adopts two children, a self-assured little boy of ten and [later] the little maid of all work who gives the book its misleading title.

There is nothing ironic about the title, and the word "virgin" has come, through too often being used, to have about it an air of aggressiveness. Ribby, the little virgin in this book, is a child and a young woman passionately devoted to the pursuit of knowledge, not of life, and the label which she wears has implications which the book in no way fulfills. It is a light, pleasant, unsexy tale of normal people—except for one Dulcima who, unlike the other characters who are alive, is rather a lay figure for overstressed modernism.

Modern are both hero and heroine of "Walk Into My Parlor," by Pamela Frankau [Morrow]. Neither one of them wanted to be trapped by marriage. Both were trapped by love. The hero had a technique which he thought was proof against any possible spider of emotion. Women fell in love with him, but he never allowed himself to be entangled emotionally. The heroine always kept her lovers waiting for hours—and they waited. Miss Frankau has modernized the phrase "When Greek Meets Greek" in her sprightly tale of the meeting of Waldo and Miranda.

Writers of City Organize Group to Fete Authors

The writers section of the social functions committee of A Century of Progress was organized on Thursday afternoon in the Trustees' lounge in the Hall of Science. It is composed of representative Chicago writers with Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank as chairman, and it is to be dedicated to the official entertainment of noted men and women of literature and the stage who come to Chicago to visit the World's Fair.

Elections of officers and committees made Miss Fanny Butcher, literary critic of THE TRIBUNE and president of the Chicago chapter of the international P. E. N. club, chairman of the committee to invite creative writers to be the guests of the group. On her committee will serve Thornton Wilder, Bernadotte Schmitt, Vincent Starrett, president of the Society of Midland Authors, Robert Willson, Dorothy Aldis, and Margaret Ayer Barnes.

The journalistic group is to be headed by Charles Dennis, with John T. McCutcheon of THE TRIBUNE, Llewellyn Jones, Margaret Ayer Barnes, and Tiffany Blake of THE TRIBUNE to assist him.

Miss Harriet Monroe, editor of Poetry, a magazine of verse, heads the poetry group, with Edith Franklin Wyatt, Marion Strobel Mitchell, Mrs. Frank G. Logan, and Lew Sarrett to complete her committee.

Llewellyn Jones was elected vice chairman of the inclusive committee and Kenneth Horan secretary.

The committee will meet for luncheon every second Friday, when visiting celebrities will be entertained. Among the other well known writers who are members of the committee are Miss Jane Addams, Mary Hastings Bradley, Robert Morss Lovett, William Montgomery McGovern, William Nitze, Henry Justin Smith, and Mary Synon.

Poets Gather in London for Many Reasons

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—London is in no sense a paradise for the poets; but the poets have been much with us recently. Not only has Prof. A. E. Housman delivered a beautiful and illuminating address on poetry, which is to be published in book form and which should be read by all to whom poetry is the breath of life; but the younger poets have joined together in an important sequel to "New Signatures" called "New Country." "New Signatures" and "New Country" are important, not particularly because they fire shots that will be heard 'round the world, but because they demonstrate what the most admired of our younger writers are thinking and saying.

A. E. HOUSMAN.

Mr. Housman's lecture is important because it is entirely free from nonsense and because what a poet says of his craft—when he is a poet of such eminence as Prof. Housman—is always of the first significance.

But the poets have seen, further, in the flesh. W. B. Yeats and James Stephens have both been in town, brimming with loquacity. Siegfried Sassoon has torn himself away from the country. Robert Nichols has appeared, brown and enthusiastic, from the continent.

Mr. Nichols, who has for some months made his headquarters in Vienna, has had to visit London for, I am sorry to say, health reasons. He has had a return of an old trouble and has come to consult the physicians. To do this he has left his long planned and elaborate poem on the subject of Don Juan, and also the satire of which some portions have been serialized in the New English Weekly. Mr. Sassoon, who lives entirely in the lovely seclusion of Wiltshire, and whose literary work, although it may privately delight his friends, does not yet adorn the lists of publishers, has paid a flying visit for the purpose of showing that he is still, as the song says, "young and healthy." His sojourn amid poetic groves is a hardship to his personal admirers, but he has lost none of his zest and genius, and when he does produce a book it is sure to be his ripest and best work. Meanwhile he is well and happy, at which we all rejoice.

Stadium Loses on Show; Only 11,204 Attend.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Barney Ross is the new lightweight champion of the world.

Chicago's west side youngster, the first Golden Gloves champion ever to win a professional title, ended the three year reign of Tony Canzoneri last night at the Stadium by outpointing the New York Italian in ten rounds.

Canzoneri, more experienced, and the better at close quarters, made the most of his advantages, but Ross came through in the last two rounds with an attack which brought him the title. The judges voted in favor of Ross. E. A. Hintz scored the ten rounds, 52 to 48, while William Battye cast his vote for the new champion, 53 to 47. The referee, Tommy Gilmore, gave 50 points for each.

Stadium Loses on Show.

Eleven thousand two hundred and four saw the title change hands. The gross receipts were announced by Stadium officials at $46,303.90. Canzoneri will receive his guarantee of $30,000, while Ross' 20 per cent of the net receipts probably will total more than $7,000. The Stadium will show a deficit of several thousand dollars.

The fight was so close at the finish that the crowd, which had stood cheering throughout the last round, waited silently for the official announcement. Al Smith, the announcer, collected the votes. The crowd waited while the cards were checked by Joe Triner, chairman of the commission, and Louis London, secretary.

Once Smith took the microphone, but the crowd roared disapproval when his announcement begged consideration for a championship fight. Again the announcer took the mike.

Acclaim New Champion.

"The new champion of the ——," he started, but a roar cut short his words. The cheers of the crowd, largely composed of Ross fans, who had followed his career since the days when he won the Golden Gloves intercity featherweight title from New York in 1929, virtually shook the building, for Barney had whipped Canzoneri.

A dozen photographers leveled their cameras. Ross, a mighty tired young man, his face streaked with perspiration, gyrated this way and that with his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, and his trainer, Izzy Kline, while Al Smith held up the winner's hand in time honored custom.

Canzoneri, apparently stunned by the decision which gave the battle to his rival, stood in his corner, his back to the ring and his eyes tightly closed to keep back tears. Certainly Canzoneri believed he had fought as well as Ross, that he had earned a draw decision, which would have enabled him to keep the title.

Canzoneri Cheered in Defeat.

Then suddenly the temper of the crowd changed. Ross made his triumphant exit, and attention shifted to the forgotten Canzoneri. The thousands cheered and applauded him as they had on many other occasions.

No title fight in Chicago was better fought. Each boxer rose to heights in the early rounds, lashing out with sharp lefts and countering with rights to the head. Thus they came through to the eighth round with the decision in the balance.

Ross had piled up an early lead in three rounds. The fiercely fought first round was about even, but Ross' left, which stood off the charging champion, and his success in toe to toe encounters sent him to the front in the next two sessions.

Canzoneri took command in the fourth and fifth, opening cuts over Ross' eyes. Both showed the effects of the pace and slowed up, seeking now to counter for winning points.

Ross Calls on Reserve.

They clinched frequently as they made ready for the final effort. The eighth round brought no change in the tide of battle.

Then came the ninth round. Ross called on unsuspected reserve power and attacked fiercely. He hooked to Tony's head with unerring accuracy and repulsed the ex-champion's charges. When the bell rang he was whaling at Canzoneri in the New Yorker's corner while Tony dodged in and out, scarcely offering a retaliatory blow.

Ross scaled 134¾ pounds and Canzoneri 133½ at the official weighing in yesterday.

Nick Scalba, who like Canzoneri fights under the management of Sammy Goldman, was defeated in the eight round semi-windup. Nick was whipped by Johnny Pena, New York featherweight. Scalba was a Golden Gloves intercity bantamweight cham-

Judges' Vote Decides Bout by 10 Points

BY ARCH WARD.

Barney Ross was voted into the lightweight championship of the world at Chicago Stadium last night by Judges Edward A. Hintz and William A. Battye. The referee, Tommy Gilmore, called the bout a draw. The combined vote of the three gave Ross a margin of ten points.

The round by round card of the three officials follows:

GILMORE.

1—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5	6—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
2—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5	7—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5
3—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	8—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
4—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	9—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
5—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	10—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5

Total—Ross 50, Canzoneri 50.

HINTZ.

1—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4	6—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5
2—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4	7—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6
3—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4	8—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5
4—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	9—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
5—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	10—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4

Total—Ross 52, Canzoneri 48.

BATTYE.

1—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	6—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
2—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4	7—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6
3—Ross 5, C'nz'n'ri 5	8—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
4—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4	9—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4
5—Ross 4, C'nz'n'ri 6	10—Ross 6, C'nz'n'ri 4

Total—Ross 53, Canzoneri 47.

The crowd was a keen disappointment. Four years ago Canzoneri fought Mandell in the same ring before a gathering twice as large and with receipts that exceeded $100,000.

Charles Bidwell, president of the Chicago Stadium Operating company, estimated the Stadium lost $10,000 on the show.

Manifesting complete scorn for Canzoneri's formidable reputation as a puncher, Ross tore into the champion with such energetic fury it was evident from the start that he intended to win the crown as quickly and impressively as possible.

Canzoneri, built like a bull, fought like a bull and with about the same degree of gentility. He was much stronger than his opponent at body punching, but lacked Barney's finesse in the open. He was always dangerous, however, and surrendered his title only after a gallant fight. It was not until the middle of the tenth round that the fans as a whole were convinced Ross was to be the new champion. A terrific right to the jaw and Tony, his eyes swimming, looked to his corner as if for help.

Ross, intercity winner in 1929, is the first Golden Glove fighter to gain a professional title. Barney won his amateur honors as a featherweight.

Not many of the parishioners were in their pews when the services opened at 8:20, but those who were stayed until the last thud had been thudded in the bout that followed the title match. It unquestionably is great to see some one else get his ears knocked off. The freshmen class in psychology should look into this.

"What more can the people ask for?" demanded a ringsider as the two great fighting cocks flew at each other in the closing sallies. "How about the battle of the Marne for an encore?" suggested a fan from the gold coast.

Several notables who have been cheering Ross since he was a Golden Glove favorite saw him crowned king of the lightweights. They included Mayor Edward J. Kelly, State's Attorney Thomas Courtney, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer and Patrick A. Nash.

Ross occupied his lucky corner, the northwest side of the ring. This is the same corner he worked from the nights he whipped Bat Battalino and Billy Petrolle in his climb to the heights.

The fans gave Fred Caserio, co-captain of the Golden Gloves team which meets the champions of Ireland at Soldiers' field Aug. 2, a big hand when he was introduced before the windup bout. Wesley Ramey, Harry Dublinsky and Tony Herrera, all challengers for the lightweight title, also took a bow.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, sat next to County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough. Jacobs offered Art Winch and Sam Pian, managers of Ross, $20,000 for Bar-

Second Big Thrill

BARNEY ROSS, the new lightweight champion, said in his dressing room after the bout: "This is the second big thrill of my boxing career. The first was the night I won the Inter-City Golden Gloves title in New York."

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—THE WINNER!"

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ted Lyons' luck continues to be the same—all bad. His White Sox mates were feeble again yesterday with their bats and Ted himself was that way in his pitching. The upshot was another easy triumph for the Washington Senators. The score was 7 to 3, and the winning end of it is easily explained by the sixteen hits with which the visitors embarrassed Lyons before a turnout of 20,000 south side women constituents. It also was the fourth consecutive trimming for the Sox.

The pain of the defeat was intensified for the Sox because it was administered by their old mate, Tommy Thomas, who was shipped away last year on a charge of indifference. The home athletes operated under the delusion that the way to annoy Thomas was to hit the first ball. It didn't work, but it did make his job easier, thus delaying his usual attack of weariness. That caught up with him in the eighth, however, and his boss preferred to let Jack Russell protect the four run lead remaining after two Sox had scored.

Manush Jars Lyons.

Heinie Manush, as is his custom of late, was among the most active in the job of plastering Lyons with his third straight defeat and his seventh of the season. The big fellow singled in his first appearance to make certain that his string of consecutive hitting games would stretch to 26. Later on he hit three more safely, one a homer, giving himself the unusual distinction of having been successful 28 times in his last 42 times at bat over a stretch of nine games.

Another prominent actor, although in a different way, was Fred Schulte, the Senators' center fielder. The Sox persisted in hitting lazy flies while Thomas was pitching and nine of these fell into Schulte's hands. At one stage he retired five batters in a row. The American league record for outfield putouts is 11, originally set in 1919 by Hap Felsch of the Sox and later equaled by Sam Rice of the Senators and Johnny Mostil, another White Sox member. The major league record of 12 is held by Earl Clark, who was a Boston Brave in 1929.

Sox Score in First.

The Sox made a flying start against Thomas, but the fun subsided too soon. Hayes opened the home first with a single to left and stopped at third on Haas' two bagger to right. Hayes sneaked home while Cronin was throwing out Swanson. The screeching lady fans anticipated something worth while from Simmons, but he crossed them up by grounding feebly to Myer. Appling ended the inning with a fly to Goslin.

Lyons gave up a pass and three singles in the second, so had no reason to complain over the scoring of two runs. The incident opened with base on balls for Schulte. He went to third on Kuhel's single to right. Bluege singled to center to shove Schulte over the plate. Kuhel and Bluege tried to perpetrate a steal of second and third, but the former was killed off. Bluege took third while Dykes was tossing out Sewell and scored when Thomas singled.

Four Senators got to base during a busy third, but only one of them made

Chambers and Armstrong in Amateur Final

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Don Armstrong of Aurora, a seasoned campaigner in match play tournaments, and Bill Chambers of the Sunset Valley club will meet today at 36 holes for the third annual Illinois state amateur golf championship over the No. 3 course at the Medinah Country club.

Armstrong and Chambers reached the final by playing consistent golf throughout the first three days of the tournament, particularly Armstrong, whose game improved with each match. Although Chambers boasts of a good record in local golf, he is regarded as the dark horse, whereas Armstrong has been a favorite since the qualifying round.

Armstrong entered the championship match by defeating Henry Foley of Elmgate in a semi-final match, 7 and 6. Chambers was forced to exert himself to win over Allen Oakley, the visiting author from Quincy, one of those rare journalists who can actually play golf. Chambers finally won on the 18th green, 1 up, after having been 3 up at the end of 14 holes.

Oakley Is Beaten.

Armstrong won the first hole of his match with Foley, when the latter, a former Illinois and Cook county champion and a member of Chicago's national public links team last year, was weak with his drive. It was the second hole, however, that inspired Armstrong and unsettled Foley. Armstrong drove into the water at the 150 yard second, but stuck one foot into the water, and with the other on the bank at the left of the green, boosted it out to little more than a foot from the pin for a three and a half.

The Chamber-Oakley match was of a different color, the Quincy golfer rallying time and again, but never quite catching his opponent. Oakley's second to the first green was short, and he was one down. Chambers went two up at the second with a ten foot putt for a birdie, but was in the woods at the third while Oakley was winning the hole with a par four. Allen went two down again at the fourth by missing a short putt. Both were in trouble at the fifth, despite which Oakley won with a six. They halved the remaining holes through the turn, Chambers rounding it one up.

Par on 18th Wins.

Oakley was in trouble at the 10th and 11th, and Chambers went three up, but Allen holed out a 40 foot chip shot for a birdie at the 12th. They halved the 13th, and Chambers took the 14th when Oakley found the rough, leaving him three up with four holes to go. They halved the 15th, and Chambers lost two successive holes, the 16th by topping his drive and sending his third into a trap and missing a short putt at the 17th. He won by matching Oakley's par four at the 18th.

Armstrong Beats Kokes.

In the quarter-final round in the morning Armstrong moved up by defeating Wilbur Kokes, who conquered Warren Dawson, the defending champion, 6 and 5, on Thursday. Foley had to battle to the 18th green before he eliminated Jimmy Garard, former University of Chicago captain. Oakley also was pressed before he defeated Gus Fetz of Evergreen, 2 and 1. Chambers took four of the last six holes to win over Bob Bohnen, the tournament medalist, 4 and 3.

Judges Making Final Tabulation of All-Star Votes

The polls are closed in the vote on American and National league all-star lineups for the Game of the Century at Comiskey park July 6, but the judges—the contest department of The Tribune and papers in every section of the country which coöperated in conducting the vote—are still hard at work tabulating the returns. Final results of the poll on both leagues will be announced tomorrow.

The Tribune will give $500 in cash prizes to the fans who came closest to naming the teams. The first prize of $250 will go to the person who came closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selected the American league's starting lineup with starting pitchers will receive $100 and a similar prize will be presented for the National league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who named the six pitchers.

Here's Blow-by-Blow Story of Lightweight Title Fight

SECOND ROUND—Canzoneri led with a left tto the face and Ross countered with left jabs. While Canzoneri scored with a right to the body Ross landed three lefts to the face. Tony glanced a hard right off Barney's jaw. Canzoneri was forcing the fight, but Ross' left kept him off balance. Canzoneri shot a left to the body and a right to the head. Ross jabbed to the head with his left, but took a smashing right to the jaw. They slugged, with each scoring repeatedly. Ross scored with both hands to the head. Ross' left hook caught Tony coming in. Ross scored repeatedly to the face at the bell.

FOURTH ROUND—Ross led with a left to the face. Canzoneri shot a hard right to the jaw. Ross danced away, jabbing with his left. Canzoneri rushed in and scored with a hard left to the body and then cuffed Ross around the head. Canzoneri landed a sharp right to the head, and Ross backed away. Barney sent two lefts to the face, but Tony landed a terrific right to the jaw. Ross snapped Tony's head back with a left hook. Barney's left eye was cut in an exchange. Ross sent lefts and rights to the head, but took a pummeling in the body. Canzoneri ducked a left and scored with two hard rights to the head.

EIGHTH ROUND—Canzoneri took a left and right to the head to get a stiff left to the body. Ross scored with both hands to the face. Canzoneri connected with both hands to the head. Ross sent both hands lightly to the face, and they clinched. Canzoneri snapped Ross back on his heels with a sharp left to the jaw. Both connected to the face, and Tony followed with both hands to the body and head. Ross scored with two left jabs and then sent both hands to the head.

pion in 1931 and in that same year he won his bout in the first of the international matches with the champions of France.

Serici Stops Salbano.

Vincent Serici, New York middleweight, stopped Al Salbano of Minneapolis in four rounds in a six round bout. Serici's vicious body attack had the Minneapolis fighter ready to fall to the floor when the bell ended the fourth round. Salbano was unable to continue.

Georgie Turner, Chicago light heavyweight, outboxed Oren Miller, also of Chicago, in a four round preliminary. Turner had his opponent almost helpless on several occasions. Solly Dukelsky, Chicago, and Bill Connell, Monmouth, Ill., welterweights, went four rounds to a draw.

In the opening fight Frank Segilio, a local lightweight, knocked out Bill Reardon, Chicago, in the fourth and final round. Reardon was down for an eight count in the first round and was saved by the bell.

ney's contract a week ago. They turned it down. He repeated the offer yesterday morning with the same result.

Thomas Dennison, Democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, said this is the 40th year he has been attending major boxing attractions. He is 74 years old.

There was so much ballyhoo about Ross and Canzoneri being thoroughbreds that a delegation of turf notables turned out to look them over. Among them were Stuyvesant Peabody of Lincoln Fields and Washington Park, Starter Harry Morrisey, Joseph Cattarinach of Aurora, and Eddie O'Hare of Sportsman's Park.

Ross won all the way, in the opinion of Packey McFarland, a member of the boxing commission. Packey once was a contender for the world lightweight championship.

Two former lightweight champions were at the ringside. They are Sammy Mandell, who successfully defended his title against Canzoneri in the same ring four years ago, and Battling Nelson.

Joe Choynski, former middleweight who used to whip topnotch heavy weights, came from Cincinnati to attend the fight. He was accompanied by Al Bechtold, secretary of the Cincinnati boxing commission.

Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, and fourteen aids held a staff meeting yesterday at a loop hotel and then attended the Ross-Canzoneri title bout. Others who witnessed the encounter were United States Senator William Dietrich, State Auditor William O'Connell, Lieut. Gov. Thomas Donovan, and State Treasurer Edward Barrett.

Fans who get their thrill out of sound punching, enjoyed the knockout victory of Frank Segilio over Bill Reardon in the opener. After taking a vicious body wallop in the first round, Reardon began to fade like a cheap henna wash in a shower. From then on it was just a question whether he would be able to leave the premises under his own power or in the arms of his nearest relatives. The knockout came in the fourth and last round.

Parker, Lott in Semi-Final Round of Western Tennis

Semi-finals in all divisions of the western tennis tournament will be played today at the River Forest Tennis club. The finals are scheduled for tomorrow.

Drawn out and closely contested matches in the men's and women's singles featured the fifth day of play yesterday.

Frankie Parker, the defending champion in the men's singles, who beat John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., in straight sets yesterday, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2, today will oppose Thane Halstead of Chicago, who took a three hour, five set match from John Shostrum of Chicago, the Illinois prep champion. The scores were, 3-6, 7-5, 0-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Lott Opposes Bryan.

George Lott, who had an easier time defeating Jay Cohn, present Chicago city champion, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2, will meet Lefty Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn., as his semi-final opponent at 2 o'clock.

Bryan played a five set match with Henry Prusoff of Seattle, Wash., yesterday. The match lasted 2 hours and 40 minutes. Prusoff apparently could not stand up under the heat as well as his southern opponent, but he never quit trying as is evidenced by the score, which was 8-10, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 4-6.

Chicago has two entries in the women's single semi-finals, which will be played at 2 and 3 p. m., in Helen Fulton, who meets Kathryn Pearson of Houston, Tex., in the first game, and Eugenie Sampson, who will meet Katherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., in the second.

Miss Blackman Loses.

Miss Fulton defeated Elizabeth Blackman of Detroit, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, and Eugenie Sampson defeated Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Bonnie Miller of Los Angeles, seeded No. 1 in the girls' singles, reached the finals when she defeated Helen Grawn, Detroit, 6-1, 6-1, and she will meet the winner of the Elizabeth Kesting-Frances Herron match which will be played this afternoon.

Today's pairings:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Semi-Finals.

Change System in European Zone Davis Cup Play

PARIS, June 23.—(AP)—A new system of eliminations for Davis cup play in the European zone which will reduce the competitors next year to eight nations was announced today.

The 17 European teams already eliminated from the international tennis competition this year will play their 1934 round within the next few weeks, the four surviving teams to be drawn against the four 1933 semi-finalists in next year's play.

England, Japan, Australia and Czechoslovakia thus automatically qualify for 1934, with their four opponents to come from among Belgium, Hungary, Holland, Rumania, Poland, Italy, Monaco, Switzerland, Norway, Jugo-Slavia, Austria, Spain, Denmark, Greece, Germany, Ireland and Sweden.

Vines Meets Stoefen for London Title

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—An American is certain of victory in the men's singles of the London tennis tournament. Ellsworth Vines Jr., United States national champion and defending title holder in the Wimbledon tournament which starts next week, and Lester Stoefen advanced to the finals today.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, also defending Wimbledon champion, must defeat Mrs. J. B. Pittman, England's eighth ranking woman star, in the finals tomorrow to gain the title for which she did not compete last year.

Mrs. Moody today won from Virginia Rice of Boston, 6-2, 6-3.

Vines reached the final by whipping his doubles partner, Keith Gledhill, 6-8, 7-5, 6-3. Stoefen won the first set of his semi-final with Cliff Sutter, third ranking United States player, 12-10, and after the score of the second set had been tied at 12-12 they decided to toss for the right to face Vines tomorrow. Stoefen won the toss.

4-Way Fight Looms Friday for Team Title

A four cornered duel for the team trophy looms in the 46th annual National A. A. U. track and field games at Soldiers' field Friday night. The New York A. C., with 32 of the east's best athletes, the Olympic club of San Francisco, which has made reservations for 17 contestants, most of them Stanford athletes, the Los Angeles A. C. team, which is composed largely of University of Southern California stars, and the Illinois A. C. are the championship contenders.

Among the New York contingent are three Olympic champions, John Anderson, the former Cornell star, who won the discus last summer at Los Angeles, and Pat McDonald and Matt McGrath, members of the New York police force, who have been throwing the weights for nearly a quarter of a century.

The college stars in the New York squad are Grant McDougal of Pennsylvania, winner of the hammer throw in the national college games last year; Pete Zaremba of New York university, twice I. C. 4-A hammer champion; Howard Jones of Pennsylvania, winner of the 200 meters in the I. C. 4-A this spring; Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania miler; George Spitz of New York university, who has cleared 6 feet 8 inches in the high jump; Percy Beard, formerly of Auburn, holder of the official 120 yard high hurdle world record; Joe McCluskey, Fordham two miler; Jimmy Hatfield, hurdler who once starred at Indiana; Jack Ryan of Manhattan college, cross country champion; George Bullwinkle of City College of New York, 1932 eastern mile champion; Joe Mangan, Cornell's great 4:14 miler; Karl Warner, Yale's Olympic 400 meter man; Hillman Holcombe, Yale hammer thrower; George Werntz, 200 foot javelin man from Colgate; Lamoine Boyle, Pennsylvania broad jumper; Bob Kane, Cornell sprinter; Frank Crowley, a 4:15 miler from Manhattan college; Frank Nordell, New York university mile star; Joe Healey, Fordham 400 meter hurdler; Hop O'Dell of Manhattan, eastern javelin champion, and Keith Brown of Yale, a Chicago boy who has done 14 feet in the pole vault and 6 feet 5 inches in the high jump.

IT'S GAY WORLD IF YOU WAGER ON GAY WORLD

California 3 Year Old Outruns Rubio.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Gay World, the California 3 year old which races for J. A. Nix, came through with another smashing performance when he won the Thornton purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon.

He flew over the six furlong course in 1:11 3-5 and served notice on all rivals that it will take a fleet colt of his age to trim him.

Gay World had to come from behind to conquer Miss Melody from Stuyvesant Peabody's barn and the veteran sprinter Rubio. He let the others run their legs off in the early stages and then when he got ready to make his run he left no doubt about the result. He was running away from them at the finish.

Two Horses Get Support.

The early wagering indicated that the Thornton was little more than a match race between Gay World and Rubio. The owners of both wagered stoutly. Miss Melody, which split them, did not come in for much consideration.

Rubio had no excuses to offer. Jockey Westrope gave him one of his rousing rides, but the aged son of Runnymede simply wasn't up to the task of trimming Gay World in this race. Perhaps the eleven pounds difference in weight had something to do with it. However, Gay World ran as if he could pack any kind of a package and trim those that trailed him home.

Gay World wound up as the favorite and paid $5.44. It was a good price if one considered the ease with which he triumphed.

An Undertaker Smiles.

The Lincoln Fields patrons finally saw an undertaker smile. The undertaker is Will E. Schmidt of Chicago's northwest side. He was ready to smile 24 hours earlier, but his smiles turned to tears on that occasion, when his speedy mare Supreme Sweet was beaten.

When he appeared at the track for the opening of the program yesterday he wore a long face. A few minutes later Mr. Schmidt was upon a chair giving nine rahs, for his 4 year old Well Heeled came rolling home in the six furlong dash to win by two lengths. In the mutuels Well Heeled paid $89.50 to win, $43.90 to place and $13.10 to show.

Was there any wonder that Mr. Schmidt let that 12 inch smile spread over his countenance?

Three Jockeys Score Doubles.

Three jockeys scored doubles during the afternoon. They were Monte Parke, Lee Humphries and A. Tipton. The only victory Westrope was able to score was on Lamporte from the Three D's stock farm stable in the fifth race. Lamporte, a half brother to My Dandy, tossed Westrope out of the saddle before the field reached the post. He ran away from the others in his field and was at 10 to 1 in the betting.

Mr. Khayyam Is Favorite Today in $5,000 Dwyer

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Seven 3 year olds make up the field in the $5,000 added Dwyer stakes at a mile and a half, to be run at Aqueduct tomorrow. The Catawba stable's Mr. Khayyam, considered the leader of the 3 year olds, will be the favorite, but under the conditions of the Dwyer he will have to concede weight to the others, carrying 123 pounds. Kerry Patch will carry 121; War Glory, 118, and the others—Jovius and Edelweiss (coupled), Good Advice, and Union—116 each.

It was disappointing that Nimbus and Caterwaul were not entered. Others also sidestepped a meeting with Mr. Khayyam. The public has an idea—and it seems well based—that Mr. Khayyam is on a quick march to the championship of his division.

Edelweiss, the only filly entered, will run coupled in the betting with Jovius as the Trainer James Fitzsimmons entry.

9 Named for $3,000 Purse at Crete Today

The early summer racing season at Lincoln Fields will end this afternoon with the running of the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap.

The race carries $3,000 in added money and is a test at a mile and a quarter. Nine were named overnight for the battle, and the entry of Abraham Bartelstein, including Sidney Grant, Yonkel and Kibitzer, ruled as the favorite last night at 2 to 1. The Audley Farm entry of Late Date and Rocky News was the second choice at 3 to 1.

The Lincoln Fields Jockey club officials yesterday were preparing to handle almost a record breaking crowd. World's Fair visitors have swelled the attendance during the last two weeks to a point where the meeting has become the most liberally patronized ever held at the far south side track.

With half of its 1,600 stalls occupied and the remainder to be filled during the next three days, Arlington Park will be well supplied with racing material for its 30 day meeting, which starts Monday. Both the main course and the training track were alive with horses yesterday from soon after daylight until two hours before noon, many of them showing such speed in their trials that there is no question of their fitness.

Of principal interest were the workouts of candidates for the Arlington Inaugural handicap, the dash of seven furlongs featuring Monday's program. The trials indicate the possibility of a large field for the event, in which case the $2,500 added by the association will be equaled by the nomination and starting fees.

Sylvester W. Labrot's mare, Tred Avon, demonstrated her ability by stepping six furlongs in 1:15 after being rated at an even pace. She was timed the quarter in :24 and half in :48 2-5. That she may have a running mate in the three year old Rush Hour was indicated when that colt went three-quarters in 1:12 1-5.

TOWEL TOSSED BY FAN COSTS DEGLANE VICTORY

Boston, Mass., June 23.—(AP)—A spectator threw a towel into the Boston Garden ring tonight and robbed Henri de Glane of an earned victory over Ed George, wrestling title claimant, in the feature bout of a show.

Each wrestler had a fall and De Glane was torturing George's left shoulder, badly wrenched as the Frenchman evened the match with a hammerlock, when the towel came flying out of the claimant's corner and landed on the top rope that encircled the ring.

Believing the towel signalized George's forfeit of the match, De Glane released him. As soon as George gained his feet he dropped the Frenchman with a butt and pinned his shoulders to the mat. Referee Charlie Donnell then pronounced him the victor, a decision that brought boos from most of the 15,000 spectators.

Earl Grace Enters Hospital for Treatment of Leg

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Earl Grace, first string catcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, went to a hospital today to undergo treatment for a leg injury which has handicapped him this season. Manager George Gibson, seeking another catcher, looked over Val Picinich, former Cincinnati and Brooklyn receiver, before today's game and may sign him.

REDMOND PLAYS STOKES FOR GOLF TITLE OF SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., June 23.—(AP)—Ralph Redmond of St. Petersburg, Fla., will play Earl Stokes of Louisville tomorrow for the southern amateur golf championship.

Redmond eliminated Billy Howell of Richmond, Va., today, 6 and 5, as Stokes won a surprise victory over Jack Toomer of Hendersonville, N. C., 3 and 2.

Redmond, who defeated Eugene Vinson of Meridian, Miss., this morning, 6 and 4, had Howell down all the way and lost only one hole to the Virginian.

YANKS DROP TO 2D PLACE; SPLIT WITH BROWNS

Win Opener, 10-6; Then Lose, 5-4.

St. Louis, Mo., June 23.—(AP)—The New York Yankees' defense cracked in the eighth inning of the second game today and tumbled the world champions down into second place in the American league as two errors enabled the Browns to win the second half of a double header, 5 to 4, after the Yanks had taken the opener, 10 to 6.

Two New York errors played a big part in St. Louis' three run rally which decided the second game. They came after Charley Ruffing had weakened and granted a walk and two doubles that tied the score. Tony Lazzeri fumbled Muddy Ruel's grounder and let Oscar Melillo, who had driven in the tying runs, reach third. Lazzeri threw to third in an effort to catch the runner napping. Joe Sewell let the ball go through him and the winning run scored.

The even break, coupled with Washington's victory over the White Sox, dropped the Yanks a half game behind the Senators in the pennant race. The Senators had been tied with New York. Score:

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Two home runs and the opposition of Eppa Rixey spelled Watson Clark's debut as a starting pitcher for the Giants today. The Cincinnati Reds triumphed 2 to 1.

Clark pitched eight good innings before he was removed for a pinch hitter, but Ernie Lombardi collected a home run in the fifth inning and Sparky Adams hit another in the eighth. Rixey held the Giants to six hits.

COCHRANE HURTS SIDE; BROWN ON HOSPITAL LIST

Cleveland, O., June 23.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics and the Cleveland Indians both suffered player casualties today.

Mickey Cochrane, veteran catcher of the A's, hurt his side when he ran against the wall in front of the box seats making a catch of a foul ball in the fifth inning and had to retire in the following inning. He probably will be out of the lineup for several days.

Clint Brown, one of the Indians' best pitchers, was sent to bed suffering from an attack of gall stones. He will be on the sick list indefinitely.

WILD BILL OR BAD BILL, IT'S STILL HALLAHAN

Cardinal Southpaw Has Speed to Spare, Also Plenty of Alma Maters

(This is the eleventh of a series of sketches on players who will take part in the game of the century between American and National league all stars at Comiskey park July 6.)

There's Wild Bill Hallahan and there's Bad Bill Hallahan, but he's only one fellow. He's wild at times, just wild enough to be good, and he's invariably bad, that is, on the lads who try to hit him. The National league batters have known this for more than a few years now. The Athletics discovered it for themselves in the world series with the Cardinals in 1930. They discovered twice as much in the series the next fall.

Wild Bill or Bad Bill is a southpaw who has speed for which he doesn't have to apologize. He fairly blows 'em past the hitters, proof of which is provided by the vast number of strikeouts compiled both in the minors and majors. At Houston, Tex., in 1928, the last year he was pushed around from club to club, Hallahan struck out 244 batters. He subjected 177 National league men to the same treatment in 1930. In 1931 a total of 159 enrolled. Last season he dropped to 108 strikeouts, which, more than anything, probably indicates he could win without bearing down all the time.

Bad Bill, until 1929, was such a chronic baseball itinerant that he never had time to hang up his hat. His control always was so bad that employing teams didn't care for much more than the first look. Four teams—Syracuse, Kalamazoo, Fort Smith, and the Cardinals—owned him in 1924. In 1925 the Cardinals and Syracuse shared his company. In 1928 he actually spent one full season in one place, Houston, Tex., a Cardinal farm, kept him from start to finish, and because he won 23 games while losing 12, the Cardinal bosses finally decided it was about time to keep him at home.

the complete circuit. Manush started it with a homer into the right field seats, his second of three hits in a row. Goslin and Cronin followed with singles. Lyons staged a snappy fielding play to get Goslin at third on Schulte's bunt. After Lyons had thrown out Kuhel, he gave a pass to Bluege, filling the bases. Then he fast balled a third strike past Sewell. The Senators didn't break out again until the seventh when, with two out, Schulte tripled to left and counted when Kress failed to hold Kuhel's grounder.

Senators Break Out Again.

The victors made good use of their hits in the eighth, getting three runs on four safeties. Sewell led off with a single to left, and Thomas sacrificed. Myer banged a single into center, Sewell scoring. Manush also singled to center. The two runners moved up on Goslin's infield out and scored when Cronin pushed a single past Appling. The painful procedure closed with Schulte hoisting a fly to Haas.

After their own feebleness had made Thomas look pretty good for six innings, the Sox finally rallied with a couple of hits in the eighth. The hits along with some other happenings were sufficient to nudge their old pal out of action. Two were out when Simmons singled to right after doing nothing in three previous attempts. Appling walked and Cronin fumbled Kress' grounder, filling the bases. Dykes singled to left scoring Simmons and Appling. Manager Cronin lost no time getting Russell to the mound to finish the inning.

After watching the almost daily sufferings of his pitchers, Lew Fonseca, the White Sox manager, doesn't know what to do about the final with the Senators this afternoon. He might pick Milt Gaston and might take a chance on Ed Durham. He can't be free with his pitchers because of two games with the Athletics tomorrow.

Red Kress let two drives by Kuhel go right through his hands. The official scorer didn't object to calling the first one a hit, but when the same thing happened a second time he decided it was time to charge the red head with a misdemeanor.

The Sox are plainly down. They haven't looked the same since they extended themselves with the ninth and tenth inning rallies by which they nosed out the Yankees in the second game last Sunday. They won the next day also, but only because of swell pitching by Ed Durham.

Cubs Bench Billy Herman and Hartnett

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 23.—Manager Charley Grimm's intention to bench Second Baseman Bill Herman of the Cubs, announced today, when carried out will interrupt the young man's plans to set a major league consecutive game record.

Everett Scott's record, now threatened by Lou Gehrig, did not begin with his first day on a major league roster, nor was Gehrig's chain started with the first day of Lou's employment in the majors.

Herman has played in every Cub game since he joined up 25 games before the end of the 1931 season and while his total didn't approach the record, his start had seemed to justify his plans to set his cap for a mark starting from taw.

Grimm Can't Wait.

Herman's play, both defensively and offensively, however, has been of such unsatisfactory character that Manager Grimm felt he no longer could wait for Bill to snap into it.

The benching of Herman was only one of the steps in Manager Grimm's reorganization plans. When the Cubs resume against the Boston Braves tomorrow Gil Campbell will be behind the bat. This move will give Gabby Hartnett a well deserved rest.

Gabby has caught in every game this year without taking any relief even in double headers, except occasionally in late innings when he gave way to pinch runners.

But getting back to Bill Herman. Herman was purchased from Louisville late in the 1931 season, after he had rung up a batting average of .350 in 118 games in the American Association that year.

In the twenty-five games he played with the Cubs during the remainder of the year he was something of a sensation afield and finished with a mark of .327. Last season Herman played in 154 games, and besides being a bulwark at second base pounded out 206 hits for an average of .314.

Quake Shakes Billy.

Until the Cubs had clinched the pennant last year Herman had not missed an inning as a Cub. In the last few games he was relieved in the late innings by Bob Smith, a pitcher, who likes to monkey around the infield.

Herman also had played in all Cub exhibition games until after the Los Angeles earthquake. Several days after the quake Bill had a nervous collapse and was confined to his bed for several days, but later seemed fully recovered.

Manager Grimm had made up his mind this morning to shift Capt. Woody English to second base and send Mark Koenig to third, but later today was considering the assignment of Koenig to second and continuing Woody at third. He planned to decide after consulting the two players.

The Braves and Cubs will play the second of their four game series tomorrow afternoon, with Lon Warneke making his fourth try for victory No. 9. He will be opposed by Huck Betts.

HELENE MAYER WINS NATIONAL FENCING TITLE

Miss Helene Mayer of Los Angeles won the women's national outdoor foil championship at A Century of Progress yesterday by defeating Miss Dorothy Locke of New York, present national indoor women's foil champion. Miss Mayer, who won every bout in the tournament and who permitted her opponent to score only 9 points in as many bouts, outpointed Miss Locke, 5 to 3. Miss Mayer was 1928 Olympic champion.

Miss Locke placed second in the contest, and Mrs. L. G. Taylor of New York was third. Miss Locke won all of her bouts except the one with Miss Mayer. Mrs. Taylor won five bouts and lost five.

Nicholas Murray of New York was high qualifier among the six men who will fence off today for the foils championship. Murray won all of his four bouts. The other qualifiers are:

Miguel A. De Capriles, New York, won 4, lost 1; Arthur Fregosi, New York, won 3, lost 1; Joseph L. Levis, Boston, won 3, lost 2; Frank S. Righeimer Jr., won 3, lost 2, and Theodore Lorber, San Francisco, won 3, lost 2.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In the '70s there was no creamery butter. Dairy butter sometimes sold as low as 10 cents a pound. There never has been any improvement made on "good" dairy butter, but unfortunately all of it did not come under the classification of good. It was not until the '90s that butter had skyrocketed to the previously unheard of price of 40 cents a pound. Followed the well remembered slogan, "Go easy on the butter, kids; it's 40 cents a pound."

Eggs sold as low as 6 and 8 cents a dozen, while steak was 10 cents a pound with a liberal chunk of suet or liver thrown in.

Vaccination was something new at that time. Epidemics were accepted as inevitable, with very little attention paid to sanitation.

On the farms much of the laborious work still was done by hand. Scythes, rakes, cradles, etc., were still more generally used than mowing machines, reapers, binders, horse rakes, etc. Many buildings were still old log structures.

Looking back, one wonders what improvements our small grandchildren will see in the next 60 years to compare with those witnessed by one who now can claim threescore and ten years of active life. W. J. H.

Back in the good old days the late Philip D. Armour, Buck Morrissey, and Judge Q. J. Chott, later habeas corpus expert, and a few packing house cronies used to journey by tally-ho for week-ends to Camp Lake, Wis., on fishing trips. They put up at the place of Henry Yaws. On other occasions trips were to Willow Springs or Tiedtville [Des Plaines river], where pike, pickerel, and bass were caught, with quail, prairie chicken, and grouse plentiful for a change in diet. Reminiscer.

Today Just for Today.

There'll be no tomorrow until it's today,
So laugh and be merry, sing and be gay.
Plan not for the morrow, think not of the past,
Enjoy your today, for today shall not last.
Old folks may tell you to look on ahead,
To save and be thrifty for tomorrow's bed,
But why waste the present by worry and care?
Live and let live, think not of despair,
For yesterday is past and there it shall stay
And there'll be no tomorrow until it's today. D. Yvonne Braun.

first nine. He won the first with a par four, while Kokes was hooking his drive, but the match was square when Wilbur laid his drive right up to the second pin for a deuce. Kokes was in trouble the remainder of the nine, however, visiting traps, while Armstrong knocked down a birdie at the fourth by dropping his second shot three feet from the pin. Kokes won back a hole at the 11th, where Don found a trap, but the Aurora star evened that with a 20 foot putt for a birdie on the next green.

Foley Match Close.

The Foley-Garard match was close throughout, with Foley leading one up at the turn. He took the lead on the second hole when Garard three putted, but went one down by finding traps at the third and fourth. He evened it up with a par five at the fifth, while Jimmy was bunkered for a six. Foley took the lead again when Garard found a trap at the sixth. Foley was two up after the tenth, where Garard dubbed his drive. Foley then mussed up his next two tee shots and the match was all square once again. He took back his two hole lead, however, when Garard was in the woods at the 13th and took three putts on the 14th. Garard then rallied with a birdie on the 15th, dropping his second six inches from the cup. He was in the woods at the 16th for a six, but was only one down after the 17th, where Foley overshot the green. They each took a par four on

PHILIP SULLIVAN NOMINATED FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

Normoyle Named to Head Circuit Court.

The Circuit judges, at their meeting yesterday, recommended Judge Philip L. Sullivan for chief justice of the Criminal court to take office in September. Judge Denis J. Normoyle was elected chief justice of the Circuit court for the coming year and will assume his duties on July 17, when all other Circuit court appointments become effective.

Judge Sullivan's election as chief justice is dependent on the ratification of yesterday's action by the Superior court judges at their meeting next week. If the Superior court judges concur in the recommendation Judge Sullivan must still be formally elected by the Criminal court judges.

Alternate Chief Justiceship.

The custom has been to alternate the chief justiceship of the Criminal court between the Circuit and Superior courts from year to year. Judge John F. Prystalski, sitting chief justice, was elected from the Superior court last year. In the June 5 elections he was chosen for the Circuit bench, but the Circuit judges yesterday voted to have him stay in office until September. Judge Sullivan is sitting in the Criminal court at present.

Judge Sullivan is 43 years old and has been on the Circuit bench for 12 years. When he was elected in 1921 he was the youngest man ever elected to that court. He was chief justice of the Circuit court in 1923. Born in Marengo, he was graduated from Loyola university law school in 1911. Judge Sullivan lives at 7545 Phillips avenue.

Judge Normoyle, who is 56 years old, was elected to the Circuit court in 1927. He was born in Chicago and was graduated from the law department of Lake Forest university in 1901. He was chief justice of the Circuit court for the period 1929-'30, and since leaving the Criminal court, has been in the law division of the Circuit court. He lives at 5487 Hyde Park boulevard.

Trude Active Chief Justice.

Judge Daniel P. Trude was elected acting chief justice of the Circuit court, to act whenever Normoyle is absent. Judge Hugo M. Friend was chosen head of the chancery division, succeeding Judge William V. Brothers. Judge John R. Caverly was reëlected head of the law division.

The chancellors of the Circuit court, in addition to Judge Friend, are Judges Brothers, Philip J. Finnegan, who was chief justice during the last year, and Harry M. Fisher. Judge Finnegan takes the place of Judge Joseph Burke, who will be assigned to the law division.

Name Executive Committee.

An executive committee was appointed, consisting of Judges Normoyle, Friend and Caverly. The committee will make all assignments, including the selection of the Circuit judges who will sit in the Criminal court and the judges who will hear divorce cases. Judge Frank H. Bicek was appointed judge of the Juvenile court. Judges Walter J. LaBuy and Benjamin Epstein, who were elected on June 5, will sit in the Criminal court during the summer, Judge Normoyle announced.

Judges George Fred Rush, Sullivan, and La Buy were chosen as the members of the help committee. This committee fixes the number of employés in county fee offices.

COL. LINDBERGH GIVES HIS NEW JERSEY HOUSE AS WELFARE CENTER

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's gray stone house on Sourland mountain near Hopewell, N. J., scene of a shocking tragedy of childhood, will be devoted henceforth to welfare work for children.

The aviator and his wife, who have shunned the place where their first son, Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was kidnaped and slain on March 1, 1932, have turned the estate over to a nonprofit making corporation whose object is "to provide for the welfare of children, including their education, training, hospitalization, and other allied purposes, without discrimination in regard to race or creed."

This disposition of the estate was announced from the office of Henry Breckinridge, Col. Lindbergh's attorney, in the following statement:

"The property of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in Hunterdon county, New Jersey, will be used in connection with welfare work for children.

"The project has not developed with sufficient definiteness to date to admit an announcement of the specific plans."

As a refuge for children the estate will be known as "High Fields," from its situation dominating the sparsely timbered hills of Hunterdon and Mercer counties, in which it lies. The corporation formed by the Lindberghs to conduct it is the High Fields corporation.

The articles of incorporation provide that it shall have not less than five nor more than fifteen trustees. Five trustees were named in the articles. They are Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, Dr. Abraham Flexner, Mr. Breckinridge, and Owen R. Lovejoy. James M. Phelan of Weehawken, an associate of Breckinridge in his law office, was named as statutory agent.

WILLIAM ZARLEY, SURVEYOR, DIES OF FALL INJURIES

William H. Zarley, 55 years old, county surveyor of Will county, died last night at the Billings Memorial hospital of a skull fracture suffered on June 10 in the driveway of his home at 320 5th avenue, Joliet.

He was found lying on the driveway, but how the accident occurred is not known. Mr. Zarley had been subject to fainting spells and it is believed the injury resulted from such a fall.

Mr. Zarley had been surveyor of Will county since 1902. He was prominent in Masonic affairs and was deputy grand master of the Masons of Illinois. Surviving are his widow, Ruth, and two daughters, Mrs. George MacLean and Lois Zarley.

FAMILIES OF FIVE FIRED U. S. TRADE CHIEFS STRANDED

May Be Forced to Stay in China.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 23.—Unless arrangements are made in Washington within the next few hours five American trade commissioners and technical experts attached to commerce department offices in China will be compelled to return to the United States without their wives and children.

The five experts were hit by President Roosevelt's economy program. They received cabled orders to return to Washington five days ago. They were instructed to sail for San Francisco aboard the Dollar liner President Coolidge. The ship is scheduled to leave Shanghai early tomorrow morning, but no arrangements were made to finance the transportation of their wives and children.

Trade Circles Aroused.

The trade commissioners include Maj. E. P. Howard, aviation specialist; John F. Ehrhardt, engineering expert; Harold Robison, general commodities; Paul Kops, legal expert, and Edward O'Harrow, expert in radio and electrical equipment. They have been employed here from three to five years.

The cabled dismissal of the five experts produced a sensation in Chinese-American commercial circles. Protests were expressed and it was said that American firms have sold more than 200 planes, valued in excess of $7,000,000. It also is claimed that American planes have been popularized in China as a result of the work of Maj. Howard, a practical flying officer.

There is practically a similar line of complaint in several other lines of business, particularly in radio and electrical equipment.

It was learned today the government also has slashed the appropriation of the local American health service. This department inspects and requires the fumigation of cargoes bound for the United States and issues health certificates to aliens whose destination is the United States.

Withdrawal of the trade experts has reduced the American commercial attaché office here to three persons. The branches at Mukden, Manchuria, Tientsin, and Hongkong are closed.

Widow of Geo. W. Haskell Is Dead in Rome at 83

Word reached Chicago yesterday of the death Thursday in Rome, Italy, of Mrs. Mary B. Haskell, 83 years old. Mrs. Haskell came to Chicago as a bride and lived here until she went to Rome six years ago. She was the widow of George W. Haskell, a department manager for Marshall Field & Co., wholesale. Four children, Sidney C. Haskell of Geneva, Mrs. George C. Venard of Atlanta, and Mrs. Georgina Sands and Mrs. Vittorio Falorsi of Rome survive. Funeral arrangements are to be made later.

Judson A. Lamon Funeral Services Held at Paris, Ill.

Funeral services for Judson A. Lamon, 7100 South Shore drive, who died at St. Luke's hospital on Tuesday, were held at Paris, Ill., on Thursday. Mr. Lamon was vice president of the McCord Manufacturing company and until recently a member of the Chicago club. He was born at Paris, Ill., in 1867. He is survived by his widow, a son, Robert, S.; a daughter, Mrs. John F. Merriam of Chicago; his mother, Mrs. R. B. Lamon of Paris, Ill., and a brother.

CAPT. W. T. TURNER OF THE ILL FATED LUSITANIA DIES

LIVERPOOL, England, June 23.—(AP)—William Thomas Turner, who was captain of the Lusitania when it was torpedoed and sunk in May, 1915, died today at Great Crosby, near here. He was 77 and had been bedridden three months.

Capt. Turner was one of the few officers saved when the Lusitania was torpedoed by a German submarine and sank off the southeastern tip of Ireland near the entrance to the Irish sea. A number of prominent Americans lost their lives in the disaster.

His gold braided arm was said to have been responsible for the rescue of Capt. Turner, who remained on the bridge of the ship until the structure was submerged. He then grasped an oar and a chair which were floating past.

After he had clung to the chair for almost two hours it overturned. The captain then flung up his arm. It was seen by a member of the crew of a nearby boat, which saved him.

LACK OF FUNDS PERILS BABIES' SUPPLY OF ICE

Gifts Needed for Poor in Hot Weather.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Unless the free ice fund shows immediate growth, some poor families who have been promised ice for the rest of the summer are going to be disappointed. Only $19 was received by the fund yesterday and the grand total is now only $214.10.

This fund was created to provide ice for families with small children whose health depended upon sweet fresh milk. It has been credited with saving many infants' lives. It cannot do this again this year without support. Gifts, though small, will help send ice regularly. Yesterday's free ice fund gifts follow:

$10—Mrs. Norman S. Florsheim.
$4—Bookhouse for Children.
$2—M. B. H., S. K. White.
$1—A Lone Widow.

Total	$ 19.00
Previously acknowledged	195.10
Grand total	$214.10

The Camp Algonquin fund, which sends mothers and children for two weeks' vacations to Camp Algonquin, 45 miles northeast on the Fox river, received gifts as follows:

$10—Mrs. Norman Florsheim.
$5—Edith G. Barnstable, Mrs. Joseph K. Frank.

Total	$ 20.00
Previously acknowledged	1,023.99
Grand total	$1,043.99

Gifts to both funds may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

J. T. ALEXANDER'S WIDOW IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. John T. Alexander, widow of a pioneer Chicago stockyards operator, was killed Thursday in an automobile accident at Santa Fé, N. M., friends here learned last night. She was about 78 years old.

Mrs. Alexander and her sister, Mrs. Whitney Ufford of Coronado, Cal., were driving from the west coast to visit the former's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Baker, wife of Attorney John Ezra Baker, 404 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest. A tire on their car blew out, causing the car to overturn. Mrs. Ufford was not hurt.

Surviving Mrs. Alexander are two daughters, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Marie A. Healy, widow of Paul J. Healy, at one time president of Lyon & Healy, music house. Mrs. Healy is in Paris. Mrs. Alexander's body will be taken to her home town, Jacksonville, Ill., and placed in a mausoleum.

JOHNSON FIGHTS PRICE FIXING IN TRADE CODES

Wages and Hours His First Goals.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—(AP)—The question of including price fixing in initial trade agreements is pressing hard upon Hugh S. Johnson, head of the national recovery administration, for early decision in setting the new pace for industry.

Johnson's idea has been that the first codes presented by industry for his approval should pertain only to minimum wages and maximum hours of work, but many industrial leaders were understood to be taking the position that price fixing or something equivalent to wipe out what they deem unfair competition from sweatshops was equally essential.

So clearly has this line been drawn that it was expected that the cabinet advisory committee, headed by Secretary Roper, would be asked to consider the problem which arose first during consideration of the recovery legislation in the senate.

First Hearing Tuesday.

Johnson has taken the view that too rapidly rising prices would offset the value of wage increases and has asked that only wages and hours be treated in the first trade practice agreements submitted. This was done by the textile trade, upon whose code hearings will begin Tuesday, presided over by Johnson himself.

In authoritative circles it was said tonight that some industries, nevertheless, were considering a plan for presenting the agreements, with hours and wages effective immediately, but calling for price fixing at the expiration of 90 days.

These persons took the view that it was intended that through the relaxation of the anti-trust laws business should get some compensation for increasing wages and spreading work through reduced hours of labor.

They argued that if this compensation was to be obtained the time to seek approval was at the same time labor was aided.

May Work Under Farm Act.

So important is the price fixing provision considered in some industries that several not usually considered agricultural have discussed with the farm relief administration the possibility of adopting codes to comply with this act, which permits price fixing, instead of the industrial administration.

Meanwhile, Johnson went before a meeting of several hundred chain store executives to appeal for support of the recovery administration and to explain its functions.

While asserting that no effort was being made for the present to bring other than the major basic industries into line, he indicated that public opinion would be relied upon to make the law a success.

In the months to come, he said, "any business which does not bear the insignia showing that it is cooperating toward national recovery under this act will be unpopular with the people."

Earlier Johnson had told newspapermen that the licensing features of the industrial regulation legislation would be very little used for "it is repugnant to every American idea."

Industries to Police Selves.

"I want to avoid inquisitorial powers and police functions," he said, reiterating that he expected industries to police themselves.

The federal trade commission, at the same time, met and approved an up to date compilation of the numerous trade practice conferences held under commission auspices in more than a decade, together with the numerous rules adopted by various industries.

Commissioner Ewin Davis said the commission's experience in this field afforded virtually the only precedent for the type of industrial agreements being sought under the national recovery act.

Davis said that should the 150 trade practice agreements worked out by the trade commission be used by Johnson, he was unable to say whether the industrial control agreements would supercede trade practice rules or merely supplement existing agreements.

TWICE WEEKLY SERVICE OPENED BY STEEL BARGES

A tow of barges with steel from Gary, Ind., pushed down the Chicago river yesterday, inaugurating a twice weekly service of the Federal Barge lines made possible by the opening of the lakes-to-gulf waterway, which was dedicated on Thursday.

The Federal line has put 300 barges afloat along the new trade route between here and New Orleans, according to H. E. Ruddiman, assistant traffic manager of the lines in Chicago. Sixty of the smaller boats will ply between Chicago and Grafton, Ill., a river port just above St. Louis.

Legislation for improvement of barge terminal facilities must now be pushed, according to local engineers. Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, chairman of the Chicago regional port commission, has gone to Springfield to urge prompt action on a pending bill to create an interstate port authority for Illinois and Indiana. Indiana has already voted such legislation.

Standard Oil of New York Raises Price of Gasoline

New York, June 23.—(AP)—An advance of ¼ cent a gallon in the price of gasoline to approximately 5¾ cents will be put into effect on Monday by the Standard Oil company of New York, Inc., a subsidiary of the Socony-Vacuum corporation, it was announced today. This will meet the advance recently posted by the Hartol Products corporation.

Oil Committee to File Two Code Reports

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A semblance of peace was restored last night to the meeting of oil marketing and refining executives when a decision was reached by the code drafting committee to file separate reports on the controversial issues.

The independent oil men who numerically outweighed the representatives of the large companies on the drafting committee forced through a rule which if finally incorporated in the code would force the big distributing companies to drastically revamp retail distributing system. The consensus last night was that the rule stood little chance of final adoption.

Find Ten Other Hurdles.

Aside from the controversial issue of "lease and agency agreements," a trouble maker for many years, the committee found comparatively clear sailing in drawing up the remainder of the code.

The code adopted is based on that drafted by the marketing division of the American Petroleum institute. Several amendments were made and others are likely to be made when the tentative code is presented to the general meeting this morning.

The work of formulating the code was turned over to the committee of 52 and it was this group which neared the finish of its task last night.

Restricts Credit.

As tentatively accepted last night the code provides for the elimination of many practices now followed in the distributing field. Perhaps the most important of these were the restrictions placed on the granting of credit by marketers which in the past has been the means used by some companies of granting discounts to their customers. Use of coupon credit books is seriously restricted. Only books of $10 denominations can be issued and must be paid for in cash or full value credit.

Whether the "L-and-A" agreements would come up for further discussion at the general meeting this morning was not clear last night. Final decision may be deferred, it was said.

Some of the independents are bitterly opposed to the system. They charge that the agreements which the big distributors make with their retailers tends toward monopoly of the field by the 46 biggest companies.

Big Companies Defend System.

The big integrated companies are equally firm in their defense of the system. More than 65 per cent of the nation's 350,000 retail outlets are now operated under this system and an attempt to change would mean revolutionizing the industry, they declare. The big concerns distribute 95 per cent of the nation's petroleum products.

Axtell J. Byles, New York, president of the American Petroleum institute, opened the general meeting yesterday with a warning to the oil men that unless they patched up their differences "Uncle Sam would do it for them."

FIVE CLEVELAND BANK OFFICIALS ARE INDICTED

Cleveland, O., June 23.—[Special.]—Five prominent men, all directors or trustees of the Standard corporation, investment subsidiary of the defunct Standard Trust bank, today were indicted by the county grand jury on three counts charging "unlawful and willful misapplication" of the bank's funds.

The true bill charges that the five men, all members of the bank's executive committee, granted three loans to the Standard corporation which were in excess of the 20 per cent paid-in capital of the bank, thus violating the Ohio general code.

Those named in the indictment returned today are: W. E. Telling, president of the S. M. A. corporation [laboratory products]; F. E. Wright, connected with the National Research laboratories and the George R. McKay company; J. J. Klima, president of the Ohio Truck Body and Wagon company; C. Stirling Smith, former president of numerous companies, and Alvanley Johnston, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and director of the Empire Trust company, New York.

The indictment charges that the five officials, with the intent to defraud or injure the bank, willfully misapplied hundreds of thousands of dollars of the bank's money by lending it to the Standard corporation on unsecured notes.

National Distillers Buys Overholt and Another Plant

National Distillers Products corporation has purchased the Overholt distillery at Broad Ford, Pa., and also a distillery at Large, Pa. The purchases involve payment of 102,000 shares of National Distillers common stock and $600,000 in the company's 4 per cent notes, due on or before July 1. Charles Hayden of New York and O. H. Wathen of Louisville, Ky., have been elected to the directorate to fill vacancies.

Bank Closing Laid to 'Leak' of Telegram

Why the Old-Merchants National Bank and Trust company of Battle Creek, Mich., was allowed to close on June 13 is still baffling Chicago bankers. It is reported here that all arrangements had been made for strengthening the bank just prior to its closing and that some 2¼ millions of new money had been raised locally, the Reconstruction Finance corporation having agreed to put in funds in addition.

At the last minute the R. F. C. is reported to have made some additional demands and the public spirited citizen who had agreed to lay 2 million on the line for the good of the town withdrew his offer. Also, the day the bank closed a 350 word telegram discussing the condition of the bank is said to have been sent to Battle Creek over commercial wires. The news spread quickly.

Charles R. McKay, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, tells this one. One day in February, during the Michigan bank trouble, McKay, at the reserve bank branch in Detroit, was ready to dispatch a fleet of money trucks to various outstate banks with funds to help them along.

Just before departure time a clerk came running up to say that there was a shortage of $800,000 somewhere on the books. There was, however, no time to be lost, so McKay ordered the trucks to depart and went to his hotel to get a few hours' sleep before digging into this new difficulty. When he returned to the bank the clerk came in to say:

"It isn't as bad as we thought at first, chief. We've got the shortage down to $8.41."

The return of beer to the United States has brought happiness to German hop growers, according to Ernst Drescheler of Leipzig. The price of hops has gone up from 50 cents to $1.25 a pound since the legalization of beer, Drescheler asserted. With only four states in the Union where hops can be grown, much has to be imported from Germany and Czechoslovakia. Drescheler also said that the representative of an American beer barrelmaker who went to Germany with orders to buy 100,000 seasoned oak barrels was able to get only 20,000.

A railroad tank car which is being used to eliminate life periling jobs in industry is a feature of the exhibit of the General American Transportation corporation exhibit at A Century of Progress. The car is known as the "dry-flo." Among its uses is the transportation of pulverized silica used by makers of hand cleaning soaps and kitchen cleaners. Formerly workers unloading the material from cars often contracted a disease called silicosis, in which the lungs were punctured by silica dust. This disease is said to be always fatal. Now the material is carried in steel tank cars which are loaded and unloaded automatically, eliminating this peril to life.

Even the diamond market is going up, according to Don E. Guyer, diamond buyer for Marshall Field & Co., wholesale. Reserves were depleted during the depression years and increasing shortages are being reported, he said. Mr. Guyer pointed out that diamond prices are comparatively stable year in and year out. A survey shows that over a period of 20 years diamond prices have held up relatively better than any other commodity except gold.

CIGARET PRODUCTION OF 12 BILLIONS IN MAY SETS ALL-TIME RECORD

New York, June 23.—Cigaret production in May totaled 12,822,972,513, a high record for all time, according to the internal revenue bureau.

This represents an increase of 47.6 per cent over the 8,685,377,417 produced in May, 1932, and a gain of 60.9 per cent over the 7,973,021,190 produced in April of this year.

Total production for the first five months of the current year amounted to 45,246,243,350, an increase of 9.4 per cent over 41,337,321,197 in the same period of last year.

During May larger cigar production amounted to 371,372,981, a gain of 0.79 per cent over 368,533,366 in May, 1932, and an increase of 15.6 per cent over the 321,206,573 in April of this year.

MUST MAKE OWN BREAKS, YOUNG MEN TELL WORLD

St. Paul, Minn., June 23.—(AP)—Young men of today can succeed in business, "but must make their own breaks to a large degree, twelve young executives, representing every section of the country at the 14th annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, said here today.

They were asked: "In view of the setbacks men of your generation have received in the last five years is the immediate future bright for the young man in business and professional endeavor?"

Among the answers made were the following:

Allan H. Seed, New York—In business the young man of America is going places, but should take a more active part in business.

Frank Sims, Charlotte, N. C.—It depends entirely on the young men and the interest they show in politics and business.

Phil Tannebaum, Atlanta, Ga.—The young man must realize the lessons taught by the depression and use them.

A. E. McMillan, West Palm Beach, Fla.—No, not unless we organize more thoroughly and take a more active interest in politics.

S. E. Thompson, Vancouver, Wash.—I know we are going to get a better break because more young men are at the helm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—Wide swings in the relative values of the pound, franc, and dollar continued today in the foreign exchange market here and abroad. Most of the lively movement in prices was ascribed again to speculative fever abroad owing to the developments in the economic conference and the statements of the financial representatives of France and London that France intended to adhere to the gold standard.

The franc, after slumping late yesterday on the report, subsequently denied by the French finance minister, that France was about to go off gold, rallied to equal its record high of .0492½, but reacted in the afternoon to first hour, but reacted to $4.22¼, up ½ cent on the day.

Sterling, which had shared in the reaction late yesterday, moved up 2 cents to 4.23¾ at the opening and advanced to a new high of 4.24½ in the first hour, but reacted to around last night's close.

At the high price for the French franc, the dollar was again below 80 cents in its gold value, but went above 80 cents as the franc reacted.

MARKET SUMMARY

NEW YORK STOCKS—Firm. Rally near close.

CHICAGO STOCKS—Steady. Farm issues strong.

NEW YORK BONDS—Irregular. U. S. loans dip.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES—Irregular. Dollar eases.

WHEAT—New high, serious damage to spring wheat.

CORN—Higher, country heavy seller of cash corn.

CATTLE—Steady; top steers, $6.50; bulk, $5.25 to $6.00.

COOTON—Higher.

SUGAR—Quiet.

COFFEE—Lower.

PRODUCE—Butter and eggs slightly lower.

Zoning Suit to Raze Building Is Dismissed

BY AL CHASE.

A saving of $343,837 to first mortgage bondholders and preferred stockholders and a prompt reorganization of the financial structure of the 40 East Oak Street Building corporation, will be the results of a decision yesterday by Judge George A. Carpenter, according to the bondholders' protective committee.

Judge Carpenter, sitting in the United States District court, entered a decree dismissing the bill of complaint of Maude W. Welton and Rebecca S. Chandler, owners of the property at 33 and 45 Bellevue place. These two property owners sought to require the owners of 40 East Oak to pull down the building or so to reconstruct it as to conform to the Chicago zoning ordinance.

History of Case.

The action of Judge Carpenter is a sequel to extended litigation in the state courts of Illinois, which culminated in a decision by the Supreme court in the case of Welton vs. Hamilton, decided on April 23, 1931, holding that the section of the zoning act of Illinois creating the zoning board of appeals was unconstitutional on the ground that it was an unlawful delegation of legislative power to an administrative body.

The history of the case goes back to 1928 when permission was asked to erect the 40 East Oak building without the necessary setbacks on the alley side. A building permit was refused but the zoning board of appeals, then headed by Eva M. Hamilton, granted a variation. Subsequently an appeal was taken in the Superior court and Judge Joseph H. Fitch upheld the decision of the zoning board of appeals.

Act in Good Faith.

On appeal the Supreme court of Illinois reversed the Fitch ruling. This was two years after the completion of the building. Judge Carpenter, in his decision yesterday, held that the defendants had acted in good faith and in reasonable reliance on the zoning laws. He further held that the complainants hadn't proved any special damages.

One of the features of the trial of the case was the testimony of Dr. Harvey B. Lemon, University of Chicago physicist, and of Dr. William Bender, U. of C. mathematician. From a study of the relative location of the buildings involved, the witnesses devised an original method for the calculation of interference with sunlight and "sky shine" and testified that the degree of interference with the Welton and Chandler properties was negligible.

CHICAGO BANKER BUYS PERCHERON GRAND CHAMPION

A Chicago banker, Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and the Mutual National Bank of Chicago, yesterday obtained ownership of Cyclaet, outstanding Percheron stallion, named grand champion of the stallions of the breed of all ages in the 1932 International Live Stock exposition in Chicago.

The purchase was made from Otho H. Pollock, Delaware, O. The horse came through Chicago last night by truck and was delivered to Mr. Rathje's 200 acre farm in Schaumburg township near the Arlington Heights race track. The 4 year old animal weighs 2,240 pounds.

Denies Consolidated Oil Plans to Boost Gas Prices

DROUGHT PERILS NORMAL GRAIN SURPLUS IN U. S.

Experts Tell Fears for Major Crops.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The three weeks of intense heat and drought which have prevailed east of the Rocky mountains place the United States in danger of being eliminated as one of the world's greatest exporting countries of grain during the 1933-'34 crop year.

Chicago crop experts and statisticians, while saying nothing for publication, are known to be privately expressing the greatest apprehension as to the outcome of the wheat, oats, rye, and barley crops, and unless rain is received shortly they fear that corn may fare little better.

Cut Crop Estimate.

Tentative figures on the spring wheat yield, made on a most conservative basis, were taken yesterday to suggest that the June 1 promise of around 270,000,000 bushels had been cut down 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels, and every day of dry weather further lowers the prospective crop. These figures were well above some radical claims received from the northwest looking for the final harvest to show under 200,000,000 bushels. Even this figure is far above the record breaking small return in 1931, when the crop was only 113,000,000 bushels. Last year's harvest was 264,000,000 bushels.

The unfavorable weather conditions, which have resulted in a practical crop calamity in the short space of three weeks to wheat, oats, rye, and barley, is regarded as almost without precedent in the grain trade.

As near as can be estimated by local authorities, the United States may not harvest over 525,000,000 bushels of milling wheat this season, or 100,000,000 bushels less than average annual domestic requirements and 210,000,000 bushels below the actual disappearance of the last two years.

Short of Needs.

Owing to the distribution of the wheat crop the states east of the Rockies are actually short around 140,000,000 bushels of the actual bread, feed, and seed needs, with but a small surplus still in sight in the far west. Flour from the Pacific coast was reported offered in New York yesterday at a lower price than was quoted by Pennsylvania mills.

Only the blundering tactics of the government in attempting to advance wheat prices through its stabilization operations, which resulted in building up a record supply of old wheat, prevents the United States from importing that grain during the 1933-34 season from Canada, according to local experts. There will be no surplus supplies of oats, rye, and barley from the 1933 crop available for export. Supplies of oats and hay are expected to be so small unless rain is received immediately that heavy inroads may be made into the large reserve of old corn, as there is no other grain that can be substituted for animal consumption.

Grains Touch New High.

Reports of crop damage in the northwest started a buying movement yesterday that swept all deliveries of wheat, oats and rye into new ground for the season, and the close was at the top, at the best figures witnessed in several years.

Wheat gained 2 to 2¼ cents for the day and closed with July at 79⅞ to 80¼ cents, September at 82½ to 82⅝ cents and December at 85⅛ to 85¼ cents. There was a decline of around 1 cent in the early trading on reports of showers in the northwest, but the heaviest precipitation occurred in parts of South Dakota where the small grain crops were regarded as being beyond help. Winnipeg closed 1¼ to 1⅝ cents higher in Canadian funds, while Liverpool was ¾ cent per bushel lower.

Fear Damage to Corn.

The corn market was held in check to some extent by the forecast for showers and cooler weather and by reports of rain in parts of Iowa and the west, but it rallied sharply with wheat. The close was ⅝ to ⅞ cents higher, with July finishing at 48⅜ to 48½ cents; September, 52¼ to 52½ cents, and December, 56¼ to 56⅝ cents. All deliveries came within a fraction of ing the day.

Heavy buying was again in evidence in oats, the view that the yield will prove to be far below average domestic requirements being a factor. Prices advanced rapidly into new ground and closed ⅝ to 1⅜ cents higher, with July leading.

While rye failed to respond fully to the strength in wheat, net gains were ⅝ to 1⅛ cents. Barley gained ¼ to ½ cents.

Bankers Think Mitchell Fed to Senate Lions

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, on a charge of having evaded income tax payments for 1929 and 1930 was viewed with satisfaction yesterday by his banking contemporaries in Chicago.

A number of prominent bankers interviewed yesterday all said that the evidence presented and the instructions given by the court left the jury no alternative.

Not that "Charlie" Mitchell is considered a "pal." Far from it. Mitchell was not especially well liked in his own fraternity, especially in Chicago. In his palmy days bankers generally regarded him as unnecessarily headstrong, ruthless and hard to get along with.

In banking circles, however, there was a feeling that Mitchell had been sufficiently punished.

"He lost his money and his job," said one banker. "Isn't that enough?"

Only Used Legal Loophole.

"As for the charge against him—income tax evasion—I don't see how he could have been convicted. What he did tens of thousands of others have done and are doing. He wasn't plotting against the government. He was simply doing what you and I and everybody else does—try to take advantage of every legal loophole to keep the tax bill as low as possible.

"He was poorly advised and did an awfully sloppy job of it, but the method he pursued is that followed by practically everybody who has large security holdings that have taken a terrific flop.

"Mitchell was pilloried because Mitchell talked back to the senate.

"When there arose a great public clamor for the punishment of some bankers Charlie Mitchell's was a convenient head to toss to the multitude.

"He was made to order. He had talked back to the senate. He had especially aroused the ire of Senator Carter Glass, head of the senate banking group. He had defied and decried the federal reserve board. And he wasn't well liked by other bankers.

"But there was no need of making a martyr of him."

End of "Roman Holiday."

Another banker said he thought the Mitchell acquittal would probably mark an end to the "Roman holiday" in Washington.

"The senate had five headliners on its card," he said. "There was Mitchell, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank; J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the New York Stock exchange, personified by Richard Whitney, its head,

"Mitchell has lost his job and so has Wiggin. The baiting of Morgan ceased to be fun after the midget incident, and the Kuhn, Loeb hearing is expected to be a drab repetition of the Morgan hearing.

"I think there is a feeling in Washington as well as elsewhere that the limelight has shifted to another ring in the circus.

"When prices were going down and those who weren't broke were rapidly becoming so, banker baiting was popular. Now the tide has turned. People are interested in the industry control experiment, in the farm experiment, and a lot of them are going back to work."

Challenged Senators.

A third financier admitted frankly that from a selfish standpoint he was glad to see Mitchell acquitted because conviction would set a precedent that might increase the harassment of bankers generally.

"I think," he said, "that Mitchell was picked on chiefly because he had challenged and annoyed certain senators."

He recalled that during the boom days just before the collapse of 1929 Mitchell had publicly derided the efforts of the federal reserve board to put the brakes on rising stock prices by raising the rediscount rate, and that he had criticized Senator Glass, whose ideas were diametrically opposed to Mitchell's own. Mitchell had defied the reserve board by pouring twenty millions into the market after the board had tried to call the turn.

N. Y. Central to Cut Train's Running Time to New York

Running time of the Commodore Vanderbilt of the New York Central line will be cut thirty minutes between Chicago and New York, effective tomorrow. Hereafter the fast mail will carry through sleeping cars to New York and the Iroquois will be operated in two sections, one over the New York Central and the other over the Michigan Central. Running time of the Michigan Central section will be 19½ hours, while the New York Central section will continue at 21½ hours.

Ludlum Steel Orders Rise 126 Per Cent Over 1932

Orders of Ludlum Steel company in the first 20 days of June amounted to $287,490, an increase of 126 per cent over those for the comparable May period, said H. G. Batcheller, president, yesterday. Shipments totaled $194,844, a rise of 22 per cent over those in May.

ALLOT STATES 400 MILLIONS IN U. S. ROAD FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Swinging into active prosecution of the administration's gigantic construction program, Public Works Administrator Donald Sawyer today allotted 400 million dollars of federal road funds to the states and approved a 135 million dollar program for reconditioning of army posts and cemeteries throughout the country.

In announcing the allotment of the road funds, Administrator Sawyer issued a set of regulations which are to govern the states in using the money allocated to them. Notable in these stipulations are an evident intention to weave the various phases of the administration recovery into a composite whole.

May Designate Roads.

One of the regulations provides that the federal government reserves the right to insist upon state use of the funds for construction of roads which me be desired by the federal coördinator of transportation to replace branch line railroad services eliminated under the government program for coördination of rail facilities.

Another stipulates that preference in the purchase of materials for use in the construction of the roads must be given to materials produced under codes approved by the industrial control administration.

Other Regulations.

Among the other regulations laid down by Administrator Sawyer were the following:

All road projects must be undertaken by the states in the same manner as other federal aid highway projects.

All contracts for road construction must prescribe minimum wages which must be sufficient to provide "a standard of living in decency and comfort."

Labor preference must be given to ex-service men with dependents, to residents of political subdivisions in which the work is being done, and to bonafide residents of the state.

The maximum amount of human labor must be used in the road work in lieu of machinery, when it is "consistent with sound economy."

Illinois Gets $17,570,770.

Under the allocation of the 400,000,000 dollars of road money set aside in the public works bill, Illinois will receive $17,570,770; Indiana, $10,037,843; Wisconsin, $9,724,881; Michigan, $12,736,227; Iowa, $10,055,660.

The 135 million dollar war department construction program contemplated the reconditioning of barracks and officers' quarters in 225 army posts and national cemeteries in 25 states and territories. The program was submitted by officials of the department today and approved by Administrator Sawyer. Its final approval by a subcommittee will put it into operation.

Army Projects in Illinois.

Illinois projects totaling $1,880,957 to be undertaken under the army program were listed as follows:

Pennsylvania Profit Gains 16 Per Cent Over May Last Year

Partly as a result of its first increase in freight revenue in many months, the Pennsylvania railroad reported improved net operating income for May. Freight revenue increased $496,000 to $19,656,000.

There was a drop of $1,240,859 to $3,974,000 in passenger revenue, but this and other reductions in revenue were offset by a cut of $1,203,371 in transportation and other expenses. The resultant increase in net operating income was $715,000, or 16 per cent more than that in May, 1932.

For the first five months of the year the gross revenues of $119,186,686, compared with $147,404,615 for the corresponding period of 1932, while the net operating income of $16,621,219 compared with $20,660,350.

Other roads which showed increases in net operating income included the Illinois Central, Reading, the St. Louis-San Francisco, St. Louis Southwestern, and Southern Pacific.

Vice President Samuel H. Cady said yesterday the Chicago and North Western railroad would show a profit for 1933 if present traffic trends continue.

Other roads to report May operating incomes in comparison with last year were:

	1933.	1932.
St. Louis Southwestern	$273,121	$ 4,935
Southern Pacific	979,463	592,711
St. Louis-San Francisco	352,774	257,505

Revised Ford Report Shows Loss of 75 Millions in 1932

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—The balance sheet of the Ford Motor company as of Dec. 31, 1932, which was filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations today, shows profit and loss surplus of $580,440,603, compared with $655,302,247 a year earlier, giving an indicated loss for 1932 of $74,861,644.

This compares with an indicated loss of $58,586,000 in 1931 and an indicated profit of $14,460,823, or $257 a share on 172,645 shares of capital stock, for 1930.

The latest statement, which represents final figures after the closing of the books, differs considerably with respect to the amount of surplus from the tentative balance sheet filed earlier with the secretary of state of New Hampshire and which showed an indicated loss for 1932 of $44,222,567, not taking into account the reduction of reserves. The preliminary statement did not include full depreciation charges and year-end adjustments.

Final figures, however, show the same strong financial position as disclosed in the preliminary report, with cash and accounts receivable totaling $303,650,430, only a nominal change from the earlier report.

New York, June 23.—Railroad issues made moderate advances in an otherwise heavy bond market today. Trading was dull all around, with the day's news budget containing little to affect prices on way or another.

Carloadings reports and other indications of improvement in the industry furnished stimulus for buying of carrier bonds. Principal gains included Boston and Maine 5s, issues of Denver and Rio Grande, Great Northern 7s and Missouri Pacific issues.

A reaction occurred in treasury securities on the news that deposits in New York federal reserve member banks declined about $375,000,000 last week as a result of elimination of interest payments on demand deposits. Much of the gains of the last several days were erased in the recession.

Favorites continued to appear among domestic industrial bonds as traders sought out liens of companies expected to benefit from the rise in commodity prices. Features were Certainteed 5½s, Gannet company 6s and Schulco stamped 6½s.

High grade industrials were steady in the face of diminshed institutional demand.

An irregularly lower trend characterized foreign bonds. German government 5½s and 7s dippe dabout 2 points each.

Franklin Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Any information as to the present financial condition of Franklin Life Insurance company will be appreciated.—B. E. K.

Answer: Franklin Life Insurance company [Springfield, Ill.] has been in business for about 50 years. It is a stock company, writing life insurance on the nonparticipating plan.

In 1932 excess of disbursements over income was $256,000. In 1931 income was $780,000 more than disbursements.

Reserves to secure policies in force totaled $27,451,000 at the close of 1932. Other liabilities, including $499,000 borrowed money, a $112,000 security fund, and $359,000 claims in process of settlement, aggregated $3,506,000.

Admitted assets amounted to $32,-101,000. Real estate of $2,555,000 constituted 8 per cent of admitted assets, and was an increase of about a million dollars during the year; mortgage loans of $16,977,000 were about $1,700,-000 less than the year before and constituted 53 per cent of assets. Policy loans of $8,321,000 were 27 per cent of assets; bonds of $1,312,000 [amortized value], 4 per cent, and cash of $493,-000, 1 per cent.

Surplus during 1932 decreased $239,-000 after payments of $45,000 to stockholders and $46,000 to policyholders as dividends.

U. S. Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Because of the rapid closing of banks last summer I purchased three United States government bonds. I have just discovered that these bonds are part of the United States government war loan issue. I would appreciate it very much if you can tell me if these bonds are a direct obligation of the government or if their principal and in'erest are dependent upon foreign countries paying the United States—D. R.

Answer: All bonds of the United States government are the full and complete obligation of the United States of America. The payment on all series of bonds of the government is contingent on no factor except ability to pay.

A Quotation.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me the stock market quotations on Armour of Illinois A stock on May 24, 1933?—R. R. R.

Answer: Armour of Illinois A stock was quoted at a high of 6¼ and a low and close of 6 on May 24, 1933.

TRADING VOLUME FALLS, BUT STOCK PRICES ADVANCE

Wave of Buying at Last Helps Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—Evening up operations gave the share market a push upward in the last hour or so of today's dealings. Otherwise the session was slow. The turnover of about 3,300,000 shares was the smallest in a month.

News was generally of a satisfactory nature, the trade reviews agreeing that conditions are still looking upward and the news advices indicating that things are going along as well as usual at Washington. Rumors that France is about to go off the gold standard which upset trading temperaments somewhat in yesterday's late trading were officially denied today, but nevertheless a formal announcement of abandonment of the standard would not occasion much surprise in well informed circles.

Traders Watch London.

The London conference continued to intrigue the Wall street imagination and many brokers are doubtful if the market is going to cut any spectacular capers for either trading faction until the conferring nabobs have had their little say and gone their respective ways. Assurances that the American delegation had abandoned all thought of stabilization at this time took a big load off the street's mind for the time being, but it is generally realized that the problems which resulted in the convocation of the statesmen are still far from solved in spite of the improved outlook here and at other points of the compass.

Traders with some such thoughts as these in mind have therefore been growing more and more cautious in their commitments for the last two weeks or more. Many of them have retired to the sidelines, and a goodly proportion of those remaining are concentrating on an effort to garner modest profits on the hour-by-hour swings of trading favorites.

Bulge Lacks Follow Through.

As for the late rally today, it was of a piece with the Friday afternoon performance which the market has formed the habit of staging here of late and owing to the slim volume and the backwardness of the general list in following the recognized leaders was not as impressive as it might have been. The bulges of the pivotals was ascribed to short covering and the professionals supposed to be back of the demonstration were unable to attract a following.

Some of the gains, however, were well worthwhile. Such blue chip favorites as Allied Chemical, American Can, Du Pont, United States Steel, Union Pacific and the like were boosted 2 to 3 points or more above their previous closing levels.

Farm implement shares came in for some particularly brisk buying, and Case bounded forward more than 4 points.

Rails Move Higher.

The rails moved up in group formation and the so-called "repeal" group had another of its good days, National Distillers, the recognized pacemaker of the department, bettering its rating by some 4 points.

In the textile division, Celanese, which has been providing an occasional fireworks display for the last week or so, shot ahead for another 6 points on a burst of fresh buying orders.

Chrysler was a strong spot in the motors. The issue has been bidding for group leadership now largely on reports that the corporation's board will vote to resume dividends at its next meeting in July. Payments which had been at the rate of $1 a share annually were discontinued at the last meeting of the board.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Moderate selling developed in butter and egg futures slightly on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and butter closed ¼c and eggs ½c lower. Trading was quiet. Bullish storage news failed to help October eggs. The market sold at one price most of the day, dropping slightly at the close. The four markets stored 10,000 cases less than last year with another very light movement. Butter reports were bearish, the four markets storing 365,000 pounds more than last year. November was firm early but selling increased toward the close. Sales: Butter, 40 cars; eggs, 49 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 6 cars. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was steadier today, with refiners showing more interest, but offerings still were of limited proportions. Prices advanced 4 points to the basis of 3.40c for spots on sales of 8,000 bags of Porto Rican nearby and 28,700 for late July shipment to local and outport refiners. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

May	1.58	1.59	1.57	1.59	1.60

The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed net declines of 1 to 3 points under July liquidation and selling of later deliveries by houses with producing connections. The steadier tone in the spot market led to increased covering, however, and this, together with trade and outside buying, was sufficient to rally prices, with the market's closing at about the best.

Refined was unchanged at 4.60c for fine granulated, with second hands available at around 4.40c. Trading was light, aside from late withdrawals against old contracts.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—Coffee was easier today under trade selling and liquidation promoted by a less firm tone of the actual, owing to increased pressure to sell Brazilian bonus coffee in competition with other grades. Santos opened unchanged to 1 point higher and closed 7 to 8 lower. Sales, 8,000 bags, No. 7 opened unchanged to 8 lower and closed 9 to 23 lower. Sales, 13,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos, July, 7.84c; September, 7.79c; December, 7.72c; March, 7.63c; May, 7.57c. Prices follow:

PRICES OF HOGS WEAKEN AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Attribute Large Supply to Tax Deadlines.

After getting away to a strong start yesterday the hog market turned reactionary and weakened rapidly toward the close in all but the top grades. Underweights and pigs were plentiful and these dropped 15 to 25 cents in value and comprised a good share of the holdover at the close. Medium weight hogs were picked up mostly on a steady to 10 cents lower basis, the general average for the day going down 5 cents to $4.40. Top sales at $4.60 were equal to the high point of the preceding session.

There is no sign of a letup in the movement of hogs from the country and some are inclined to believe the fact that the deadline for the paying of taxes in some states has been extended to July 1, after which there will be a penalty, is a factor in the increased shipments the last few days. Yesterday's arrivals at 26,000 were largest for a Friday since early February.

Weather Hits Prices.

Hot weather worked havoc to prices in the underweight hogs and pigs when it curtailed demand for the small roasting loins and hams obtained from these early spring pigs. Consumer demand has been the slicing loins from medium weight hogs. Consequently the spread between pigs and butchers reached the widest point in many months.

Numerous consignments of 160 to 180 pound pigs sold at $3.60 and below, while prime 250 to 280 pound butchers topped the market at $4.60. Selected 150 to 160 pound light lilled special orders at $4.60 to $4.15. Although the proportion of underweights and pigs in the run is larger than it was a few weeks ago, the movement of them has not reached a volume that would suggest liquidation on the part of the hog raiser. The break is expected to halt the influx of stock too young to sell for the regular packer trade.

Meager Cattle Run.

The meager Friday run of cattle met an early clearance at fully steady prices, considering the plain quality of the stock offered for sale. Action was better than usual for a Friday, despite the fact that most of the steers were of rather plain quality.

Cattle have recovered most of the losses sustained at the opening of the week, and some of the best grades of steers are quoted slightly above a week ago, with the rank and file about steady with last week's close. Cows and heifers were steady yesterday and about on par with a week ago. Calf prices were bolstered again.

Top lambs advanced to the $8.00 line under brisk competition for best grades yesterday. Packers handpicked a few on this basis and obtained the bulk at $7.75 and below, getting buck lambs at $4.75 and under and culls at $5.00 to $5.75. Supplies were short in this branch of the trade.

COTTON AT NEW HIGH; GAINS $1 PER BALE

Cotton prices reached a new high level, futures being up $1 a bale to a shade above in Chicago, with net gains of 18 to 22 points. Trading was of fair volume with operators influenced by the strength in grain and stocks. A moderate reaction came at one time, followed by a wave of buying and close was around best of the day.

New York made net gains of 16 to 19 points on futures and 15 points on spots, the latter being 9.50 cents; New Orleans finished 14 to 17 points higher, with spots up 15 points, selling at 9.35 cents; Galveston and Houston were at 9.30 cents. Liverpool closed 4 points net lower.

Sterling exchange strength influenced the trade at times. Weather over the greater part of the belt was fairly good.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE—KRENN & DATO, INC., 930 N. Michigan-av., Chicago, Illinois, and to whom it may concern: Public notice is hereby given that default having been made in the payment of principal and interest of a certain promissory note, dated March 24, 1933, of Krenn & Dato, Inc., a corporation, in the principal amount of $3,854.72, owned and held by the undersigned, the undersigned will, pursuant to the terms of said note and the powers therein granted on Saturday, July 1st, 1933, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., without prejudice to any rights of the undersigned before acquired, offer for sale the following securities deposited with the undersigned as collateral security for the payment of said note and interest, unless said note and interest shall have been paid prior to said date or such portion of such securities or so much thereof as may be necessary in order to pay the amount of principal and interest then due upon said note.

The securities for sale are as follows: Village of Berwyn, Special Assessment Improvement Bonds, dated September 5, 1929, Numbers M 14, 15, D 25, 26, series 7, 8, 9. Total par value $30,000, each.

Said sale will be held in the judicial sales room of the Chicago Real Estate Board, located at 32 W. Randolph-st., Chicago, Illinois, at the time and place aforesaid. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids which he may deem unsatisfactory.

ROBERT J. HILLIARD,

NOTICE TO BONDHOLDERS OF OMAHA ICE & COLD STORAGE COMPANY, a Delaware corporation.

To all holders of First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of Omaha Ice & Cold Storage Company, a Delaware corporation, issued pursuant to Trust Indenture executed by Central Trust Company of Illinois, of Chicago, Illinois, and Aksel F. Bodholdt, as Trustee; The Omaha National Bank of Omaha, Nebraska, and Ethiel J. Monen of Omaha, Nebraska, being now trustees under said trust indenture:

You are hereby notified that a decree of foreclosure of the Trust Deed securing said bonds was entered in the United States District Court, District of Nebraska, Omaha Division, on April 28, 1933, and that the undersigned, pursuant to the terms of said Trust Indenture will be sold at public auction at the Douglas County Court House at Omaha, Nebraska, on August 5th, 1933.

You are further notified that pending said decree of foreclosure, you are required to file your bonds with the Clerk of said court for payment, on or before August 20th, 1933, in order that you may receive your pro-rata share of any funds received from the sale of said properties under said foreclosure decree. Such bonds should be addressed to Clerk, United States District Court, Omaha, Nebraska.

WITNESS MY hand at Omaha, Nebraska, this 14th day of June, 1933.
